House cleaning. The best thing ever produced for this and all kindred purposes is James Pyle's Pearline. It makes the housekeeper do the work more satisfactorily in less than half the usual time without the aid of soap, or anything else, and its great value in the kitchen and laundry is attracting wide-spread attention. Sold by grocers everywhere, but beware of vile imitations with names that sound like Pearline.

—A temperance paper says that a bird's eye view from Trinity spire, New York, would disclose 15,000 saloons in sight—12,000 in Newark and Patterson. But is it supposed for a moment that any one would be fool enough to climb to the top of that steeple to look for a saloon?

LOVE'S SILENCE.

Sweet, shall I ask thee why thou art so still,
Gazing afar into the deeps of space,
With shadows of the twilight on thy face
And eyes that quick with dewy moisture fill?
Why is thy laughter's mellow rippling rill
Silent and dumb? What chrism of perfect grace
Shall fall upon those lips and find a place
To bid their accents on the dusk to thrill?
Why art thou voiceless, love? Ah, speak to me
With speech that ever into music grows,
She turns her eyes, that hold me in their thrall,
As dark and sweet as night upon the sea.
Saying, while one swift look upon me glows,
"Love is unutterable and is all."
—Longman's Magazine for November.

SALARIES OF CONGRESSMEN.

The Majority of the Members Draw Their Pay Regularly—Those Who Do Not.

There are some fifteen or twenty members of the house of representatives who do not draw their pay regularly every month, but let it accumulate in the hands of the sergeant-at-arms, to whom they give orders on the United States treasurer. The majority of the members, however, draw their money regularly, and in several instances there are some who have overdrawn. This is done at the risk of the sergeant-at-arms, and the money advanced is that deposited with him to the credit of those who have not drawn for several months.

There are a number who do not draw a cent from the beginning of a session until its close, when they get it in a lump, and during the recess have a draft sent to them on the first of each month for their salary for the month previous. There are some twenty-five or thirty who draw quarterly or every four or five months. One or two take it but once a year, and several only twice a year. It is said that one member has not touched a cent of his salary as congressman for six months. It is also said that the sergeant-at-arms is in a hole to the tune of several hundred dollars in accomodating another statesman. Cooper of the Mount Vernon district is one of those who do not trouble the sergeant-at-arms very often, but usually gets his money in the shape of a draft for a good large figure. So far as other congressmen are concerned, the sergeant-at-arms does not keep on hand much cash belonging to them, as they keep their accounts pretty evenly balanced. The system of the sergeant-at-arms is that of a regular banking establishment, and a separate account is kept with each member.

It is said to be a remarkable fact that the majority of the members from south of Mason and Dixon's line live up to their salaries, and in many instances some of these get their pay discounted for several months in advance by the city banks, or get the sergeant-at-arms to arrange it for them. Usually these transactions are made by that official, who advances the money. He claims, it is stated, that he gets the notes discounted by local brokers or bankers. The transactions vary in amounts from $100 to $5,000 per year. One congressman is said to have got his salary advanced for a year. He had his life insured for the benefit of the party who arranged the transaction. The latter was thus protected in the event of the debtor's death, as any balance due a deceased congressman or any extra pay voted on his account is paid to his widow or some other member of his family.

When a congressman is hard up and wants to sell "his time" he calls on the sergeant-at-arms or some other person in a position able to accommodate him—usually the former—and executes his receipts on the United States treasurer for the month that, if he lives, he would be entitled to compensation as a congressman, and makes them payable for the consecutive months covering the time for which his wages are advanced. Then he is required by his benefactor, or broker, to take out a short-time life insurance policy, so that if he should in the meantime be overtaken by the dread destroyer before the last receipt matures, the usurer is made safe by the insurance company. Generally, however, a number of these who are hard up get their notes discounted through the sergeant-at-arms. The latter claims, it is said, that he gets them discounted in the city banks, the sergeant-at-arms being the endorser, but the indigent statesman secures that official by having his life insured in his favor. These transactions usually take place prior to a congressional election. It is said during former administrations of the office of sergeant-at-arms of the house of representatives the discounts for loans of this character largely exceeded the salary of the sergeant-at-arms.—Cor. Cincinnati Enquirer.

Berlin's Two Royal Theatres.

The Emperor William contributes yearly 450,000 marks to the two royal theatres of Berlin, the expenses of which are 3,500,000 marks ($1,000,000), and in addition covers the deficit, which is always considerable, and is caused by the ballet and the opera, the drama being profitable enough. All the members of the royal family pay for their boxes.—New York Graphic.

Were She a Woman of Wealth.

In talking to his wife the other day about the death of Mrs. A. T. Stewart, a gentleman of this city said: "What would you do if Mrs. Stewart had left you $1,000,000 in her will?" The lady mused for a moment and then replied: "Well, I wouldn't make any more homemade bonnets."—Boston Budget.

New Hampshire Patents.

The following list of patents, granted Dec. 14th to citizens of New Hampshire, is specially reported by Franklin H. Hough, solicitor of American and foreign patents, 925 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C.:

George D. Burton, New Ipswich, railway-signal.

James H. Walker, Hudson, roll-box top.

The whole number of patents granted to citizens of the United States for the week ending Dec. 14th was 425.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Dec. 14th.

According to the report for the present year of the state superintendent of education, the number of children of school age in this town is 858, and but a few years ago it was 1050.

We were not aware that the Kittery correspondent of the Biddeford Journal belonged to the supplementary Board of Education which rumor ascribes to Kittery, but it must be so, because we see he has reported the last examination of candidates for the Free High school with the sonorous announcement "that the per cent. required was much larger than it has been for a long time." We do not have to go far to meet ex-High school scholars of Kittery who can and will give an intelligent account of the examinations led by the esteemed ex-chairman, C. L. Hayes, Esq., which were continued from the beginning of the school to the fall of 1885, covering a period of nearly thirteen years, and we are told by them that several copies of the examination papers then used are in existence. Therefore "the long time" alluded to must mean since the time Mr. Hayes handed in his resignation, until now. Possibly a change in computing the per centage may have given rise to this idea of a higher standard. Until now the custom has been to give a credit of one for each correct answer; say in arithmetic, should eight out of ten questions be correctly answered, the credit would be 8-10, or eight per cent. Now it is decided to give ten for each correct answer; thus if eighty out of ten questions are answered correctly, you arrive at the some result, eighty per cent. So that point is exploded.

D. Ed. Hill has just got a handsome new harness for his little mare; it was made by John S. Tilton of Portsmouth, who knows how to do good work; it is brass mounted, and first class in every respect.

The rope attached to the bell of the First Methodist church at North Kittery became worn out, and broke last fall. Since then the bell has been silent, and like Bartholdi's statue of Liberty, it needs an appropriation to start it running again.

We have not seen or heard anything from the wild animal for several days, and have come to the conclusion that having eaten all the oxen and sheep in this vicinity, and for want of something else to appease his hunger, has at last eaten himself.

The railroad seems to be receiving considerable attention just now, as to which route it will go. Kittery Point folks are making a desperate effort to have the road go their way, while others want it to go straight to York. However, the road is commenced on the Harbor end, and will come out somewhere.

Mr. Sylvanus McIntire and family moved from Great Falls to their old home in the village last week. Mr. McIntire has resided in Great Falls several years past, being employed as machinist in one of the large mills there; he has now obtained a good position at the navy yard, and his old friends here are pleased to have him and his family return.

Morrill lodge of Good Templars, at North Kittery, will have a pound party at their next meeting, Friday evening, the 17th inst.

There is an abundance of snow on the cross roads, but the Post road is nearly bare. At the present writing the "doing" is any thing but pleasant.

Mrs. Harriet Peirce, wife of William Peirce of North Kittery, and one of our oldest residents, died on the 6th inst. after a short illness, aged eighty-six years. Mr. Peirce, since the death of his wife, has gone to live with his daughter, who is the wife of Mr. D. J. Ayers of Portsmouth.

The Biddeford Journal scribe of Kittery still tickles himself with the idea that "many of the best citizens" are in sympathy with him in berating the principal of the Free High school. In the Journal of the 10th inst. he says he still adheres to his opinion in regard to it. His "opinion," as scores of people know, is not worth the paper it is written on. As far as we are concerned we do not stand in any fear of this would-be Nimrod of the pen, and do not consider the ammunition his caliber requires as of sufficient power to injure any one. However, we console ourselves with the old adage "that things without a remedy are things without regard." SUB ROSA.

Secretary Whitney on the 15th inst. issued an order making the Boston navy yard a yard of equipment. The order also directs that all property belonging to other bureaus be turned over into their charge as soon as possible.

The United States ship Galena, which has been at the navy yard opposite this city for some months past undergoing repairs, sailed on Wednesday forenoon, the 15th inst., at ten o'clock, to join the North Atlantic squadron. She was to touch at Boston to take on board fifteen men from the receiving ship Wabash.

Mr. Wm. W. Carmen, late superintendent of the Portsmouth Machine Works, has established a machine shop of his own in the Murphy dye house building on Penhallow street.

The Lovering estate in Greenland was sold on the 14th inst., under foreclosure of a mortgage held by the Portsmouth savings bank. Jerome C. Butler was the auctioneer, and Charles H. Mendum the purchaser.

Mr. Chauncey Chapman of this city shipped on board the U. S. S. Galena, Tuesday afternoon of this week, and departed with her next morning.

Councilman D. F. Barry, of Boston, well known to many persons in this city, where he is a frequent visitor, was on the 14th inst. re-elected for the third or fourth time from the sixteenth district of Boston. The Post of the 15th says Councilman-elect Barry is a candidate for the position of president of the council.

The lockout of knit-goods workers at Cohoes, N. Y., cost the operatives $476,000 in lost wages, and they are now returning to work as fast as they can get jobs, on the terms of the manufacturers.

An old building in Washington, D. C., which is being removed to make room for the new congressional library building, fell in on the 15th inst., burying nine workmen in the ruins.

A GREAT MISTAKE

has heretofore been made in the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, and nervous or sick headache. This is evidenced by the failure on the part of thousands of sufferers to find relief, even though they have exhausted the skill of various physicians and tried numerous so-called remedies. To such Athlophoros is offered as a safe, sure, and quick cure. Its success has been phenomenal, and yet it is not surprising because it will do all that is claimed for it. The Athlophoros Co. will gladly refer any who desire to make an investigation to reliable parties who have been cured by it.

Concord, N. H., March 18, 1886.

My father, who is eighty years old, has for years been a great sufferer with rheumatism, also neuralgia, in the stomach. His case was a very severe one and worried not only the family but the doctors as well, who seemed utterly unable to do him any good, as they resorted to the most powerful remedies. My father grew worse and weaker daily, and, unknown to the doctor, we got him to try Athlophoros. Very soon there was an improvement, the pains almost immediately ceased, and there was no longer any cause to keep the doctor in ignorance of what he was using. We told him it was Athlophoros that he was taking, and the doctor told him to continue its use, as it was what he wanted, and so it proved, for he has never been troubled with rheumatism since. J. W. LANE.

Hudson, Mass., May 12, 1886.

This is to certify that I have sold more Athlophoros than all other so-called cures for rheumatism combined. It gives universal satisfaction to my many customers. Have sold Athlophoros for three years. W. L. WEST, Druggist.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

The Springfield Union says that Hon. E. K. O'Brien of Thomaston, Me., would like to know why he did not receive the appointment to the Waldoboro' collectorship, when he had the largest number of democrats on his petition. The Union suggests that Hon. Frank Jones is a bigger man at the White House than all the democrats in the district of Waldoboro'.

We hear that Miss Pomeroy will give her new lecture, "Before and Behind the Footlights," which a New Bedford paper says is "a very bright, gossipy and entertaining recital, well written, well delivered and bristling with wit and good sense," in Music hall next Sunday evening.

The new sidewalk of the north mill-bridge is completed, and is in good order; but about sixty feet of the earthern walk extending from the northerly end of the bridge along the side of the bark mill is at least a foot lower than the road-bed, and should be graded up; a few loads of gravel is all that is needed.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INRSRANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safe!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

JOSEPH P. MORSE,

Fire, Life & Accident Insurance Agent and Broker.

For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affections, and am never without it in the house." Mrs. L. E. Herman, 187 Mercer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." B. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Sickler, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckenridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of with me. It is without a rival for the cure of bronchial affections."

MISS LOUISE POMEROY.

Last evening the play at Music hall was the "New Magdalen"—a play we do not particularly like, but which was made the most of by the excellent company, and which was well received by the audience, Miss Pomeroy's assumption of the part of Mercy Merrick being a splendid piece of acting.

This evening there is a double bill, the entertainment opening with the one-act comedy "One Touch of Nature," and concluding with "Pygmalion and Galatea." To-morrow evening Miss Pomeroy will give her great impersonation of Hamlet.

Tickets for sale at Goodrich's, at popular prices; see advertisement.

Christ church has twelve communicants; with ten officers and teachers, and sixty scholars, in the Sunday school. There were three confirmations during the year; thirteen baptisms—ten of infants and three of adults; and two burials.

WEDDING IN ELIOT.

Mr. Samuel Chauncey of Boston and Miss Alice R. Adams of Eliot, Me., were united in wedlock by Rev. Mr. Atkinson on Tuesday evening, 14th inst., at the residence of the bride's parents in Eliot.

After the ceremony, which was witnessed by about fifty relatives and invited guests, two hours were spent in tendering congratulations and partaking of a collation. At ten o'clock the happy couple entered a carriage and departed for Portsmouth, amid showers of rice and with the best wishes of all present.

The wedding presents were numerous and elegant, and included a silver tea service, silver water pitcher and tray, silver cake basket, silver syrup pitcher, dozen silver fruit knives, half-dozen silver tea spoons, silver sugar and cream spoons, dozen hand-painted bone-dishes, an amberina lemonade set with hammered brass tray, an amberina silver-mounted pickle jar, a hammered brass crumb pan and brush, a decorated newspaper holder and a sketch of English scenery, each with hammered brass frames, a large, finely bound bible, six glass tumblers and finger bowls in assorted colors and figures, seven mantle ornaments of neat and novel designs, a miniature bureau of black walnut and white wood, with a drawer for each kind of spice, tea, coffee, etc., knives, forks, an amber toilet set with red plush case, duplex-burner lamp, copy of Payne's "Home, sweet home," illustrated by Miss L. B. Humphrey, a white lace apron, towel rack, card receiver, silver button-hook, silk handkerchief, tooth-pick holder, etc.

The bridal pair left Portsmouth on Wednesday for their new home on High street, Malden, Mass., where they have a house all furnished and ready for occupancy.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

WEDNESDAY, Dec. 15th.

Patrick Freeman, for drunkenness, was fined $5, costs $6.90; jail in default of payment.

Jeremiah Murphy, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.53; county farm.

Charles Longley, for stealing chickens from Daniel Mahoney of Pine street, at the Creek, was sent to jail for thirty days, and ordered to pay $6.90 costs.

MARITIME NOTES.

The principal fishing arrivals on Tuesday night, 14th inst., and Wednesday, were the schooners Rising Star with 6,000 lbs. of fish; A. P. Parkhurst, 1,500 lbs.; Comet, 6,000; Quickstep, 3,000; Mary E. Smith, 5,000; Grace Choate, 5,000; Bonita, 3,500; Joseph Garland, 4,000; Golden Rule, 5,500; E. A. Williams, 2,000; Lightning, 1,600; Blue Jay, 1,000; Franklin S. Schencks, 5,000. Elvin Newton & Co. bought 35,000 lbs. of cod at $3.50 per hundred lbs., and Edw. Jameson 15,000 lbs. at the same price.

Mr. Wm. F. Fernald is making the model for a new steamboat to be built for up-river parties, and intended for towing on the upper waters of the Piscataqua. She is to be forty-five feet long and fourteen feet beam, and to draw four and a half feet of water; her engine is to be twenty horse-power.

The schooner Lizzie J. Call, Call master, arrived at Baltimore on the 14th inst. from this port, after a passage of nineteen days, she having sailed on Friday, Nov. 26th. She arrived at Vineyard Haven on the 28th, and at Newport, R. I., on the 29th; and she sailed from Newport on the 3d inst., and was not again heard from until her arrival in Baltimore on the 14th, which caused considerable uneasiness on the part of persons having friends on board, the weather having been exceptionally bad for a week after she left Newport. We are informed that Capt. Call expresses his entire satisfaction with the schooner, which works like a top, sails well, and is a fine sea-boat.

The schooner Cocheco, of New York, has been sold as she lies, a sunken wreck, for $405, and her cargo of stone for $5. The schooner took the bottom just outside of Cape Henlopen, Del., in the gale and snowstorm of Sunday morning, the 5th inst., and filled immediately, the crew, with the captain's wife and daughter, being rescued by the life-saving men. The Cocheco was built at this port in 1878 by Daniel Littlefield, and was the last vessel built at the old Noble's island yard, now owned by the Boston & Maine railroad. She registered about 220 tons.

The schooner Annie F. Conlon, Seaward master, of this port, arrived at Norfolk, Va., Dec. 14th, leaking badly, having been pulled off the beach at False Cape by the Baker Wrecking Co.'s steamer Victoria J. Peed.

The ship Gov. Goodwin, Lester master, which arrived at New York on the 12th inst. from Antwerp, lost nearly an entire suit of sails on the passage, and sprung one of her lower topsail yards.

Although the weather was not of the most favorable variety on Wednesday evening, the 15th inst., there was a large attendance at the fair, supper and musical entertainment given by the Ladies' Social Circle of the Universalist society in the vestry of the church. There was a brisk sale of the many useful and ornamental articles offered, and the affair was a success financially and in a social point of view.

Mr. E. W. Getchell, cornetist, leaves town this morning for Chicago to join Haverly's minstrels, the position having been secured for him by Mr. E. M. Hall, the champion banje player of the world.

Messrs. G. & J. W. Stott have received 3000 packages of fine tea from Paterson, New Jersey, and to the purchasers are given away presents of beautiful Jersey china and glassware.

Another Lockout.

Editor's Wife (from second story window, at 3:00 A. M.)—"You don't get in this house at any such hour of the morning as this."

Editor (appealingly)—"But, my dear, I was necessarily detained at the office. You see we had late news of a tremendous big lockout, and"——

Wife—"All right, you've got news of another now," slamming down the window.

"Adam the goodliest man of men since born," still could not be called exactly enviable, for when he tilled the soil in the dewy twilight and caught a sharp touch of rheumatism, he had no Salvation Oil for his cure, and no twenty-five cents to try it.

Eunice Barton, an eighteen-years-old girl of Frederick, W. Va., was shot dead by her younger sister, who was examining a revolver that she knew was not loaded. Eunice was to have been married on the 9th inst. to Asa Gray, a young farmer, but she was buried on that day instead.

New Orleans' Elevated Graves.

On account of the dampness of the ground, as I have said, it is impracticable to dig ordinary graves, and still everybody cannot afford to go to the expense of building a vault. So graves or narrow vaults are built above ground. In the firemen's cemetery, for instance, (and the same in all the others) rows of brick graves are built, one above another, generally three or four tiers high, for all the world like pigeon holes in a postoffice, and each opening just large enough to take in a coffin. With a solid brick wall at the back and a marble slab to be cemented into the front of each cell as soon as it is occupied, these elevated graves hold the greater part of New Orleans' population of the last century or so, and protect their occupants from the dampness that must have proved very prejudicial to their health if they had been buried in the ordinary manner.—Cor. New York Times.

Quarantine in Japan.

Quarantine processes in Japan are described in an appreciative manner by a correspondent who much enjoyed the ceremonies. The passengers of the steamer were escorted to bath-rooms, where great stone tubs, half full of hot water, soap and towels, gave opportunities for luxurious bathing. After this the company, clad in loose gowns, were escorted to comfortable sitting-rooms and offered tea and cigars. Soon the clothes, which had been baked in intense heat, were sent up, and the quarantine was considered over.—Kansas City Times.

The Race to Lose Its Eye Teeth.

Professor Windle has announced to the British association, as conclusions from his researches on the subject, that man's original dentition included six incisors in either jaw; that two from each jaw have gradually disappeared; that this loss is due to the contraction of the anterior part of the palate; that the process of contraction will probably go on and result in the loss of two more incisors.—Medical News.

Dr. Ham, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir;—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

Harper's Young People.

AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY.

HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE has been called "the model of what a periodical for young readers ought to be," and the justice of this commendation is amply sustained by the large circulation it has attained both at home and in Great Britain. This success has been reached by methods that must commend themselves to the judgment of parents, no less than to the tastes of children—namely, by an earnest and well sustained effort to provide the best and most attractive reading for young people at a low price. The illustrations are copious and of a conspicuously high standard of excellence.

An epitome of everything that is attractive and desirable in juvenile literature.—Boston Courier.

Without Adequate Cause,

Or with apparently no cause at all, chills and fever, thought to be cured, germinates and refructifies in the system. This giant among diseases cannot be laid out with quinine. The only way to give it a final and extinguishing quietus, is to use persistently the national antidote to miasma poison, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which roots it out completely. The process of cure is, of course, much easier if the bitters is used as a preventive when the first chill is felt, but persons who are not acquainted with the nature of the symptoms are sometimes in error as to their cause, and neglect the simple and pleasant remedy of all others best suited to check the progress of this dreaded and destructive malady. Visitors to, or sojourners in, malarious localities will, moreover, act the part of wisdom if they use the bitters as a preparative. Rheumatism, constipation, billiousness, indigestion and kidney troubles are removed by the bitters.

There is still trouble in the Skowhegan, Me., shoe factory. The Knights of Labor refuse to go to work under the arrangement recently made.

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal it is among the most distressing, nauseous and disgusting ills the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cures of chronic catarrh by any of the multitude of modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising.

Twenty-eight cases of game have been seized by customs authorities at St. John, and Eastport, Me.

Scrofulous humors, erysipelas, canker, and catarrh, can be cured by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "I have used this medicine in my family, for scrofula, and know, if it is taken persistently, it will eradicate this terrible disease."—W. F. Fowler, M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

The schooner Samuel H. Crawford of Camden, N. J., has been abandoned and burned at sea. The crew were saved.

How Often

We see some young man who has squandered his money and ruined his health by excesses, and before 30 years of age is an all broken-down played-out man! In all such cases I prescribe nature's tonic and nervine, Sulpher Bitters. They supply food for the brain, strengthen the nerves, and are successful in nine cases out of ten.—Old Physician.

Under legal decision, Getty square, Yonkers, N. Y., reverts to its original owner.

For Children and Pulmonary Troubles.

Dr. W. S. Hoyt, Point Pleasant, W. Va., says: "I have made a thorough test with Scott's Emulsion in Pulmonary troubles, and general debility and have been astonished at the good results, and as a remedy for children with Rickets or Marasmus, it is unequalled."

Philadelphia Knights of Labor have decided to invest $40,000 in various co-operative concerns.

Last year's fashions are out of date, but last year's friends are still our own. This is why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound never loses favor.

Two Americans are to be tried on a charge of robbing the Imperial bank at Hamburg, Germany.

For throat and lung difficulties, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, when seasonably taken, is a certain specific.

When Frederick Douglass was married to his present wife a year or so ago many "respectable" people in Washington refused to meet the new couple, because the husband was partly black and the wife wholly white. The other day, in the French senate, a well known senator went to the gallery where Mr. Douglass and his wife were sitting, and escorted them through the palatial reception and committee rooms of the Luxembourg, where the party received marked attention.

A Remarkable Cure.

Mrs. Charles Hart of Amityville, Suffolk county, New York, writes as follows of the remarkable cure of a peculiar pain in her back: Four years ago I was attacked with a severe pain in the spine, close to the small of my back. It was especially painful going up or down stairs. After using over ten remedies and consulting half a dozen physicians without any benefit, my husband applied one Allcock's Porous Plaster directly over the seat of pain. I kept it on a week and I fancied I was a little better, but was not quite sure. I then put on a fresh one. At the end of a week my husband noticed that the plaster was puffed up in the middle. Upon taking the plaster off a hole about the size of a quill was found, which discharged yellow matter very freely. Another plaster was put on with a good-sized hole in the centre of it, to enable the matter to escape. The plaster appeared to draw with great power, and the discharge increased every twenty-four hours, a little. At least a pint of matter was discharged from the wound before I got entirely well, which was exactly five weeks from the time I put the first plaster on. I used altogether eleven plasters, and thanks to them, I have not since had an ache or a pain in my back.

Wrecked by a Wreck.

The captain, nine men and one boy, th crew of the brig Garnet, were landed at Philadelphia recently, having been picked up at sea by the steamship Goldsboro, from Norfolk, in an exhausted condition. The Garnet was bound from Trinidad for New York, with a cargo of sugar valued at $50,000, and during a dense fog she struck the wreck of the English steamship Brinkburn, wrecked a few days before on Fenwick's island shoal. All hands took to the boats, the brig having been thrown on her beam ends when she struck, and the water rushing in through the holes made by the iron steamship. The brig then drifted off, and the crew experienced great hardships until rescued.

Men and Women in Life's Prime

Who rise unrefreshed, feel languid through the day, have little appetite, and whose faces exhibit a sallow tint, are on the short route to the grave. Unless they can effect a radical change in their condition they will not reach old age. Invigoration is the only means of their physical salvation. Upon Hostetter's Stomach Bitters they can rely to furnish them with the stamina, which is a prerequisite of health, and to remove that prime cause of continued debility, indigestion and non-assimilation of the food. We class these causes as one, since they are joint functions of one organ, the stomach, chiefly. Built up and rehabilitated with this superb restorative of vigor, the system may bid defiance to malaria, rheumatism, bladder and kidney diseases, and other maladies prone to attack the enfeebled. The bitters not only affords a safeguard against disease of a virulent type, but effects a prompt reform in the condition of a drowsy or disordered liver and irregular bowels.

House cleaning. The best thing ever produced for this and all kindred purposes is James Pyle's Pearline. Sold by grocers everywhere, but beware of vile imitations with names that sound like Pearline.

TALES FROM SAVAGES' LANDS.

Some Remarkable Stories That White Travelers Have Set Going.

Travelers have told many strange tales about new countries they have visited. A great many wonderful yarns have been sprung by sailors and traders, who are often too ignorant to tell the truth about what they see, even if they can resist the temptation to tell a good story at the expense of accuracy. Here is a striking instance of the differences that may occur in the accounts given by an ignorant and an intelligent man of the same thing:

Capt. Lancaster, many years ago, told of a wonderful plant he found on the sea sands of an island in the East Indies. He said he found the shore covered with small twigs growing up like young trees. When he tried to pull them up he was astonished to find that they shrank down to the ground, and even sank out of sight unless he held on very hard. In the course of time Darwin examined the wonderful products of nature which Capt. Lancaster had discovered. He found that the supposed plant did not belong to the vegetable kingdom, but was a species of the animals known as zoophytees or seapens. "At low water," he wrote, "hundreds of zoophytees might be seen ejecting like stubble. When touched or pulled they suddenly drew themselves in with force, so as to nearly or quite disappear.

Besides the travelers who willfully or ignorantly distort facts there are not a few who could journey around the world without being able to tell much worth hearing of their travels. A while ago a man who had traveled a good deal in the western Pacific was asked to describe the Solomon islands. All he could say was that the water there was very blue; that the bathing was excellent, and that he saw many lovely sites for villa residences. It was learned that he had long been a real estate agent in Melbourne.

Mr. Romilly says that a few years ago a traveler who was addressing an audience in England, including many scientific men, solemnly assured them that the natives of New Britain mended broken legs by inserting a piece of tortoise shell into the bone. The shell was neatly fitted into a groove that was cut in the bone, and the ends of the broken bone in this manner were kept together. His hearers never thought of questioning his veracity when he surprised them further by asserting that the science of dentistry was far advanced in New Britain. He said the natives made beautiful teeth of mother of pearl, which they attached to the jaw by fine threads of sinnet. Later visitors to New Britain have failed to find any evidence of these accomplishments.

One of the funniest stories that ever gained wide circulation was that about the bone eating trees of the Louisade archipelago. The story ran that during the night the branches of these trees bent to the ground, and that the leaves, like those of the fly-catching plants, closed about all bits of bone or flesh that they happened to touch. Before morning all traces of the bones and meat had disappeared, the trees having completely assimilated them. The natives worshiped them as deities, and placed offerings of bones and flesh near them to appease their appetites. This story was doubtless derived from the fact that many of the Pacific islanders place thousands of bones in the crotches of trees, and in the progress of growth many of these become imbedded in the wood, like the horseshoe which has long been on exhibition in a Nassua street window.

The imaginative element is largely developed in most savages, and they are always happy to entertain their white visitors with wonderful stories, some of which are afterward repeated in civilized lands as solemn facts. There are many sailors who believe to this day that there is a tribe in central New Guinea which is adorned with tails. Some of the natives of the southeast coast are willing to swear by all their gods that they have seen men from the interior of whose anatomy tails are a natural and highly ornamental feature. The sailors think they ought to know. Jack Tar has also circulated that other interesting yarn frow New Guinea to the effect that some of the natives bore holes through their left hands to fire arrows through them.—Atlanta Constitution.

Salt Formations in Nevada.

The abundance of the salt formations in Nevada is illustrated by the fact that in Lincoln county there is a deposit of pure rock salt which is exposed for a length of two miles, a width of half a mile, and is of unknown depth; in places canons are cut through it to a depth of sixty feet, and not only has the deposit been traced on the surface for a distance of nine miles, but it is so solid in places as to require blasting like rock, and so pure and transparent that print can be read through blocks of it some inches thick.

In Churchill county there is said to be a deposit of rock salt some fourteen feet in depth, free from any particle of foreign substance, and which can be quarried at the rate of five tons a day to the man. What is known as the great Humboldt salt field is estimated to be some fifteen miles long by six wide. According to the description, when the summer heats have evaporated the surface water, salt to the depth of several inches may be scraped up, and underneath there is a stratum of rock salt of the purest description, and of a depth unknown.—New York Sun.

Railroad Changes Made—Or Which Should Be Made.

Boston seems to be selling its railroad stock to New York. The Little Rock, Mississippi River & Texas road, built and formerly controlled by Boston capitalists, who have got tired in waiting for a profit on their investment, has been sold to Jay Gould. Mr. Gould is a wealthy gentleman of New York, who makes no bones of buying a railway provided the purchase is in his line.

The control of the New York & New England railroad has passed from Boston to New York. Mr. Clark, the late president, is entitled to the gratitude of New England people for originating the fast train to New York. Once no one who could avoid this road, trusted his body to its carriage; but now, thanks to Mr. Clark's management, the loyal devotion of his employes and a location favorable for quick transit, it is the comfortable way of speedy travel between Boston and New York. What is to become of the property, whether it will seek an independent entrance to New York and thereby make its run in less than six hours, is what every one is impatient to see.

The cold fact seems to exist, that if the travel east of Boston is to be accommodated in reaching New York, some management beside that of the existing corporations must take the new step. The roads between Boston and New York seem entirely oblivious of the fact that much of their patronage accrues from travellers east of the hub. At the same time, by some combination voluntary or enforced, the through travel is compelled to spend (except on the N. Y. & N. E. R. R., which carries passengers in six hours) commonly over six hours and a half on the road between New York and Boston, and this can only be remedied, it is claimed, by New York capitalists demonstrating to the conservative men of Athens, who unlike their ancient namesakes do not seem inclined "either to tell or hear some new thing," relative to railway accommodation. The problem how to get passengers from New York to and from the east by a rapid passage through and close connection at Boston, or by leaving at Worcester and coming to New Hampshire and Maine via the Nashua & Rochester, is likely to attract the attention of railway economists ere long. Boston, like every other city, is a way station to him who is bound beyond her borders.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Jonathan Sawyer, with 450 tons of cut granite from Biddeford for Philadelphia on board, having completed the sheathing of her bow with galvanized iron at the deep-load waterline to prevent being cut through by ice in the Delaware, was towed to the lower harbor by the steamer Clara Bateman on Tuesday.

The schooner C. H. Trickey, which was towed to Dover the first of this week with a cargo of coal, hauls up for the winter at this port.

C. H. Hayes & Son, who shipped the cargo of apples (2,100 barrels) from this port to Baltimore per schooner Lizzie J. Call, made $600 by the vessel's delay in reaching her destination, by an audience in the market price of apples between the time the schooner was expected to arrive and the time she actually did arrive.

The Baker Wrecking Co. of Norfolk, Va., claim $5,000 for hauling the schooner Annie F. Conlon off the beach at False Cape, and towing her to Norfolk. The schooner was taken into dock at Norfolk on the 16th inst.

The schooner Susie Hooper, at Gloucester Dec. 15th from a four weeks trip to the Western banks, landed 105,200 lbs. of codfish, the largest handline fare ever landed in Gloucester, and an extraordinary fare to be landed at this season of the year by any vessel.

There were some large arrivals of fish on Wednesday night and Thursday of this week, the Anna H. Mason bringing in 12,000 lbs.; Rising Star 17,000; Blue Jay, 4,000; Sarah C. Pyles 22,000; Comet 4,000; Charles Parkhurst 18,500; Franklin S. Schenck 25,000; Gertie Freeman 2,500; Lady Thorne 3,000; Mary E. Smith 4,000; Quickstep 400; James A. Garfield 800. The larger part of the catch was bought by E. Newton & Co. and Edw. Jameson, at prices varying from $4.50 to $6 per hundred pounds; and it was reported that one firm paid as high as $6.25.

Capt. Ira Whidden of Newington, master of the schooner Chilion, which is laid up for the winter at Call's wharf, was in town on Thursday last. Capt. Whidden is the youngest skipper who sails a schooner in the brick fleet.

The schooner Hattie J. Averill, Matthews master, was on Thursday taking in salt from E. F. Sise & Co. and corn from J. Brooks & Co., for Cape Neddick, Maine.

The confiscated American fishing schooner Highland Light was sold by the marshal of the admiralty court at Georgetown, Nova Scotia, Dec. 15th. She was bought in for the Canadian government for $5,800, and sailed for Halifax, where she will be immediately commissioned as a cruiser.

MAINE CENTRAL ELECTION.

The annual meeting of the Maine Central Railway company was held in Portland on the 15th inst., and the following officers were re-elected: Board of directors, Arthur Sewall, president, George C. Lord, Amos Paul, William G. Davis, Frank Jones, Samuel C. Lawrence, John Ware, H. N. Jose, Nathaniel J. Bradlee, Darius Alder, J. J. Ricker, Thomas W. Hyde, Francis W. Hill; Josiah H. Drummond, clerk.

The New Bedford Standard says that on the lecture platform Miss Pomeroy only deepens the favorable impression made by her as an actress. One idea she expresses in her lecture on "Before and behind the footlights" is, that the stage does not need immoral people, and that unworthy members of the profession would benefit it by dropping out, however great the inabilities. It is probable she will lecture in this city next Sunday evening.

The Methodist society had a congratulatory supper over the clearing of their church from debt, in the new vestry on Wednesday, the 15th inst.

Tilly Haynes, formerly manager of the Hotel Wentworth at Newcastle, now landlord of the United States hotel in Boston, was on the 14th inst. elected alderman from the 4th district of Boston, as an independent republican. Lobdell, the regular republican candidate, had 541 votes, and Burnham, democrat, 748; Mr. Haynes had 1161, a plurality of 413.

Lucius Tuttle, general passenger agent of the Boston & Lowell railroad, it is said has accepted the office of passenger traffic manager of the Canada Pacific road.

A GREAT MISTAKE

has heretofore been made in the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, and nervous or sick headache. This is evidenced by the failure on the part of thousands of sufferers to find relief, even though they have exhausted the skill of various physicians and tried numerous so-called remedies. To such Athlophoros is offered as a safe, sure, and quick cure. Its success has been phenomenal, and yet it is not surprising because it will do all that is claimed for it. The Athlophoros Co. will gladly refer to any who desire to make an investigation to reliable parties who have been cured by it.

Concord, N. H., March 18, 1886.

My father, who is eighty years old, has for years been a great sufferer with rheumatism, also neuralgia, in the stomach. His case was a very severe one and worried not only the family but the doctors as well, who seemed utterly unable to do him any good, as they resorted to the most powerful remedies. My father grew worse and weaker daily, and, unknown to the doctor, we got him to try Athlophoros. Very soon there was an improvement, the pains almost immediately ceased, and there was no longer any cause to keep the doctor in ignorance of what he was using. We told him it was Athlophoros that he was taking, and the doctor told him to continue its use, as it was what he wanted, and so it proved, for he has never been troubled with rheumatism since. J. W. LANE.

Hudson, Mass., May 12, 1886.

This is to certify that I have sold more Athlophoros than all other so-called cures for rheumatism combined, it gives universal satisfaction to my many customers. Have sold Athlophoros for three years. W. L. WEST, Druggist.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

A subscription paper has been started in Newmarket for Mrs. Rand, who recently lost her house by fire, and over $300 has already been raised. Orvin Shaw of Newmarket, who recently lost two cows by their being poisoned, has also had a subscription paper started, and quite a large amount has been subscribed.

Durham proposes to have a shoe factory, and about $10,000 has already been subscribed for the purpose.

Among the nominations sent to the senate by the president on the 14th inst. for confirmation, was that of Joshua Goodwin to be postmaster at South Berwick.

Henry W. Pierce & Son opened a machine shop in Berwick, Me., this week, and are already rushed with business. They have a complete assortment of everything to do business with in this line.

All the property, tools and material now in the Boston navy yard which will not be required in the future use of the yard as an equipment station, will be distributed among the other yards. The equipment material no longer needed at the Washington navy yard under the present use as an ordnance foundry, will be shipped to Boston.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INRSRANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safe!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

Be Warned

in time. Kidney diseases may be prevented by purifying, renewing, and invigorating the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. When, through debility, the action of the kidneys is perverted, these organs rob the blood of its needed constituent, albumen, which is passed off in the urine, while worn out matter, which they should carry off from the blood, is allowed to remain. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the kidneys are restored to proper action, and Albuminuria, or is prevented. Ayer's Sarsaparilla also prevents inflammation of the kidneys, and other disorders of these organs. Mrs. Jas. W. Weld, Forest Hill st., Jamaica Plain, Mass., writes: "I have had a complication of diseases, but my greatest trouble has been with my kidneys. Four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla made me feel like a new person; as well and strong as ever." W. M. McDonald, 46 Summer st., Boston, Mass., had been troubled for years with Kidney Complaint. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, he not only the disease from assuming a fatal form, but was restored to perfect health. John McLellan, cor. Bridge and Third sts., Lowell, Mass., writes: "For several years I suffered from Dyspepsia and Kidney Complaint, the latter being so severe at times that I could scarcely attend to my work. My appetite was poor, and I was much emaciated; but by using my appetite and digestion improved, and my health has been perfectly restored."

Prevented

MISS LOUISE POMEROY.

Last evening the Louise Pomeroy combination gave another excellent entertainment, to an audience appreciative of the many goods things offered.

To-night the attraction is to be Hamlet, and Miss Pomeroy will repeat her wonderful assumption of the character of the melancholy Dane, which so astonished and delighted our theatre-goers last spring. If the play is patronized according to merits of its rendering, there will not be a spare seat in the house.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, Dec. 16th, Mayor Eldredge in the chair:

Absent, Aldermen Sinclair, Littlefield and Billings.

Records of the previous meeting were read and approved.

W. I. Trafton, superintendent of the fire alarm, applied for an increase of $50 per annum on his pay, in consequence of additional work and expense since he first took charge. Referred to the committee on claims, to report by bill or otherwise.

Applications for a street light on Jefferson street, and another on Franklin street, were referred to the committee on street lights, with power.

Petition of John J. Laskey and others for seven new kerosene lights on Newcastle avenue, and South and Water streets, was granted.

A communication was received from the board of engineers, asking to have tappers placed in the houses of the ringers of the Christian Shore and south wardroom bells; referred to commitee on fire department.

The majority of the special committee to whom was reserred the question of compensation of the city solicitor, reported the following bill, which was passed, and sent down for concurrence:

An act in amendment of Chap. 6, Revised Ordinances of city of Portsmouth.

Be it ordained by the City Councils of the city of Portsmouth,

That Chap. 6 of the Revised City Ordinances be, and are, hereby amended by striking out the whole of Sec. 4 of said Chapter and inserting in place thereof the following:

The city solicitor shall receive for his services, and for all the duties connected with his office, the sum of four hundred dollars per year.

All ordinances or parts of ordinances inconsistent with this ordinance are hereby repealed, and this ordinance shall take effect from and after January 1st, 1887.

Bills amounting to $2243.56 were ordered to be paid.

The mayor brought to the attention of the board the fact that the city building is uninsured; but no action was considered necessary.

Alderman Magraw stated that no bargain had been made with the Portsmouth Brewing Co. for furnishing power to sound the fire-alarm gong; but the constant maintenance of steam at times when not needed for the brewery entailed an expense of some $200 per year, for which reasonable compensation was asked; referred to committee on fire department, with power.

The placing of a fence to protect the dock at the foot of Deer street was referred to the committee on city lands and buildings, with power.

Adjourned to the call of the mayor.

TEMPLARS' MEETING.

A special conclave of De Witt Clinton commandery of this city was held on Thursday evening, 16th inst., when the order of the Temple and of Malta was conferred upon Sir Edward H. Piper. After the Masonic exercises were over, a banquet furnished from the Rockingham house was served in the banquet hall, plates being laid for 100 persons. Among the distinguished visitors present on the occasion were Sir Charles N. Towle of Concord, R. E. G. C., Sir John J. Bell of Exeter, E. G. C. Gen., Sir Charles C. Danforth of Concord, E. G. J. W., Sir J. Francis Webster and Sir Solon A. Carter, P. R. E. G. Commanders, of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of New Hampshire, and Sir Albert C. Smith, P. E. C. of Wm. Parkman commandery of East Boston, Mass. Letters of regret were read from Sir Charles H. Sawyer, E. C. of St. Paul's commandery of Dover, Sir Gerrge P. Cleaves, G. R., and Sir Joseph W. Hildreth and Sir Andrew Banton, P. R. E. G. Comdrs., of the Grand Commandery of New Hampshire.

STREET LIGHTS.

The committee on street lights of the city government have contracted with the Wheeler Reflector Co. to light the naptha lights of the city for five and one-half cents per night for each lamp lighted. The price paid last year was six cents.

STRAFFORD DISTRICT MEDICAL SOCIETY.

The 78th annual meeting of the Strafford Medical Society was held at the American house in Dover on the 15th inst. Dr. John W. Parsons of Portsmouth being absent at the opening of the meeting, Dr. S. C. Whittier was called to the chair.

After the appointment of committees, doctors Daniel P. Cilley, Jr., and John Young, of Farmington, Edwin D. Jaques and Charles M. Sleeper of South Berwick, Me., and William Hale of Dover, were unanimously elected members of the society.

Dr. J. W. Parsons arrived in time to deliver the annual address, his subject being "Lithæmia and biliousness;" and Dr. Samuel A. Nash of North Berwick, and several other gentlemen, arrived just in time for dinner, which was served at two P. M.

Officers were elected as follows for the ensuing year: President, Carl H. Horsch; secretary, Charles A. Fairbanks; treasurer, Charles A. Tufts; auditor, John R. Ham—all of Dover.

Dr. S. C. Whittier of this city was assigned to read a paper at the next annual meeting, on a topic of his own selection.

MATRIMONIAL.

Miss Anna E. Woodward, eldest daughter of Mr. A. A. Woodward and wife of this city, was united in marriage to Mr. Benjamin W. Sluman, a prosperous and rising young gentleman of Salem, Mass., at noon on Thursday, the 16th inst., at the residence of the bride's parents. None but the most intimate friends of the pair were in attendance. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. A. McGinley, pastor of the Congregational church. A reception was held from 1:30 to 3:30 P. M., when many friends called to offer congratulations. The presents were many, and very beautiful. The happy couple started by the five o'clock train for Salem, where they are to make their home.

LITERARY.

Wednesday evening, Dec. 15th, the Young People's Association of the Middle street church read selections from Longfellow's writings as their literary entertainment for the evening, at their chapel on State street.

The same evening the Young People's Association of the North church gave a very interesting literary entertainment at their chapel on Middle street. Exercises of this character can but be productive of great good, and we trust will be continued. The young people should be encouraged with the hearty commendation of the whole community.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS ANNIVERSARY.

At a regular meeting of Damon Lodge, K. of P., Tuesday evening, Dec. 14th, it was voted to celebrate the 16th anniversary, Jan. 31, 1887, with a grand concert and ball. Eastman's orchestra of Manchester will furnish the music. The arrangements are in the hands of an efficient committee, and a pleasant occasion is anticipated.

THE KEARSARGE.

The appointment of a board of survey to see whether the Kearsarge shall be repaired or condemned, and the impression at Portsmouth, where she is lying, that the latter will be her fate, may well stir patriotic sentiment. No existing vessel of the American navy, not even the Hartford, possesses more historic interest than the gallant craft with which Winslow sent the Alabama to the bottom. In all the annals of our navy, rich as they are in stirring incidents, there is nothing more exciting than that famous duel of vessels off Cherbourg. It would be hard, too, to name any single combat of war ships surpassing that in national and international importance. There would be a feeling of regret at seeing the Kearsarge dismantled and broken up; and when this fate comes to her, as it soon must, she will be as worthy of a farewell verse as was the famous Constitution, the lowering of whose "tattered ensign" inspired so many years ago the muse of Holmes.—New York Times.

We understand that an examination of the timbers of the Kearsarge shows such a sound condition that on this ground alone the navy department will be warranted in repairing her.

Col. Mosby regrets that he had not an opportunity to see some of the fine old houses of Portsmouth during his recent stay in this city. What the colonel perhaps would have preferred to have beheld was a good house on Saturday night at Music hall, instead of a meagre audiaudience. Moral: when a good house is demanded, always advertise in the morning daily.

Cleansing and repairing coats, pants, or vests; to have the work done well call at the Atlantic Clothing store, No. 6 Market street. Send postal and your goods will be called for.

One of those elegant Wrapper Blankets sold by Lewis E. Staples would make a very desirable Christmas present.

The "Mum supper" announced to take place at Rechabite hall last evening, under the auspices of Strawberry Bank lodge, I. O. G. T., was postponed until this evening. This will be a good time for the ladies to dispel the idea that they cannot eat without talking.

The Congregational meeting house at Epson has been sold for $116 by auction, Robert C. Brown being the purchaser.

I had the rheumatism in my left shoulder for two years, and in three days after using Athlophoros the pain was gone. I had the sciatica in my right leg all winter, and the medicine has driven that pain away also, Chas. Metcalf, North Adams, Mass.

The Chemist and the Capitalist.

There is employed in the Smithsonian Institution a young chemist of the name of Darling. A distinguished expert who is familiar with the work of this young man says he is one of the finest chemists in the country, and that he will not long remain an underpaid sub-professor in the Smithsonian, at a salary of only $60 a month. This distinguished expert says that Professor Darling made the first practical application of cocaine in this country, and that if the knowledge obtained by him in his experiments could have been utilized by a capitalist the young professor would now be a very rich man. It was through young Darling's experiments that the knowledge was acquired of the use of cocaine as a local anæsthetic, so that the physicians in charge of Gen. Grant's case ventured to use it. It was through this professor that they heard of it. When he had arrived at a complete knowledge of the practical value of cocaine, an enthusiastic friend went to an energetic capitalist in Washington and introduced him to the chemist.

They made a proposition to the capitalist to furnish the money required to put cocaine on the market, and he was to have two-thirds of the profits. The chemist had with him then a large bottle of cocaine diluted so that it could be taken inwardly. He tried to get the capitalist to taste of it, telling him if he should taken a certain fixed quantity he would not be able to sleep for fifty hours, and that his mind would remain clear throughout the waking period without any distressing reaction afterward. The capitalist did not dare to try the experiment at first. He said: "You are trying to poison me." It was not until Professor Darling took a similar dose himself that he could be prevailed upon to try the drug. The effect predicted was produced. Yet the capitalist did not appreciate the value of the drug, and so did not go into the enterprise. Professor Darling then in a fit of pique gave the result of his experiments to the public without condition. The capitalist told the professor only a few weeks ago that he could have cleared $100,000 the first year if he had gone into it. Now he has furnished a laboratory for the professor, and has told him to go ahead and try some other experiments in the direction of his original discovery.—Washington Cor. New York World.

DR. HAM, March 2, 1885.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful Sour Stomach from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About a month ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

Royal Rumpus.

A despatch from London says the prince of Wales and duke of Edinburgh vigorously support the candidacy of Prince Ferdinand of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha for the throne of Bulgaria. They are using their personal influence at Berlin and St. Petersburg in Ferdinand's favor, and it is certain that the czar will approve his candidacy. Queen Victoria continues to favor the Battenburgs, and the royal family feud is becoming more bitter. The prince of Wales ignores the presence of Prince Alexander at Windsor, and has remonstrated with the queen for advancing Alexander to the rank of the military grand cross of the Order of the Bath, the grade to which Emperor William and the prince imperial of Germany belong.

The fellow, who by mistake, sent his auburn-haired sweetheart instead of a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup a bottle of hair-dye, wants to know the best way to commit suicide.

Mr. Manning is to be recalled from the Mexican mission as soon as a suitable successor can be found. It is to be hoped that the president can find a man who will not go on a roaring "tear" as soon as he reaches the Mexican capital.

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal it is among the most distressing, nauseous and disgusting ills the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cures of chronic catarrh by any of the multitude of modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising.

The pastor of St. Peter's church, at Lowell, Mass., has advised his congregation not to attend the ball for the benefit of St. Peter's Orphan Asylum, calling their attention to the decree of the Baltimore Council regarding dancing after dark. He said the asylum could not accept the proceeds of the ball.

Scrofulous humors, erysipelas, canker, and catarrh, can be cured by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "I have used this medicine in my family, for scrofula, and know, if it is taken persistently, it will eradicate this terrible disease."—W. F. Fowler, M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

Parson Downs has sued the Bowdoin Square Baptist church association of Boston for $6,000, alleged to be due him as salary to Jan. 1, 1887.

How Often

We see some young man who has squandered his money and ruined his health by excesses, and before 30 years of age is an all broken-down played-out man! In all such cases I prescribe nature's tonic and nervine, Sulphur Bitters. They supply food for the brain, strengthen the nerves, and are successful in nine cases out of ten.—Old Physician.

Miss Carrie Harvey of Newport, R. I., is missing, and is believed to have committed suicide. She was a dressmaker, aged about thirty years, and for ten years had been the mistress of Thomas Gladding, a wealthy business man who was married and had a family, and who died very suddenly on the 9th inst. There were no other stains on her character.

AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY.

HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE has been called "the model of what a periodical for young readers ought to be," and the justice of this commendation is amply sustained by the large circulation it has attained both at home and in Great Britain. The illustrations are copious and of a conspicuously high standard of excellence.

BRAIN MUTILATION IN FISH.

Interesting Results of an Experiment—Facts Which Seem to Upset Theories.

M. Vulpian recently communicated to the French academy the interesting results of an experiment on brain mutilation in a fish. The cerebral lobes were removed from a carp on March 18 last, and the fish was under daily observation up to Sept. 29, when it died from causes believed by the author to be wholly unconnected with the brain injury. During all this time its movements and respirations were normal, not differing from those of its uninjured fellows. In fact, two months after the operation, M. Vulpian could not perceive any difference in its movements and behavior from those of healthy fishes.

Its sight was in no wise impaired. It saw and avoided obstacles, and readily recognized the yellow and white fragments of boiled egg on the bottom of the aquarium. It struggled actively with its fellows to obtain the small particles of food thrown into the water, seeing them from a distance and following them as they fell. At the approach of the one feeding the fishes it would swim from the opposite side of the aquarium, manifesting no impairment of intelligence. Its sense of taste was preserved, as shown by its rejecting non-alimentary substances accidentally taken into its mouth. The sense of smell only was destroyed, owing to the section of the olfactory processes; otherwise it seemed to retain all the senses, and the intellectual and instinctive faculties of the normal healthy fish.

Upon examination the cerebral lobes and pineal gland were found to be entirely wanting, but the rest of the brain was intact. Although nearly six months had elapsed since the operation, there was no indication of the regeneration of the lobes. The opening in the cranium closed up in about two months, and, had the fish lived a month or two longer, the author was certain that the walls would have been wholly ossified. The experiment shows that the instinct and the will—faculties which all higher animals seem to have located in the cerebrum—are capacle of their full manifestation in the fish after its complete ablation.—Science.

A Renegade Dog.
The intelligence and sagacity of that truest friend of man—the dog, have often been extolled, but Deputy Poundmaster Wilmer has a dog who, while exhibiting great sagacity, at the same time gives evidence of such heartless depravity that he seems a living walking evidence of the old proverb, "Evil communications corrupt good manners." This dog, which looks like a red Irish setter, but is claimed to be a shepherd dog, accompanies Wilmer on his dog-catching excursions, and so thoroughly understands the wishes and intentions of his master that whenever Wilmer points at a dog this wicked beast flies at it, and if able throws it down and holds it till Wilmer's assistant throws his net over it.

If the dog "wanted" is too large to be thrown down this renegade engages him in conversation, and if necessary picks a quarrel with him, distracting his attention till the fatal net is thrown.—Portland Oregonian.

Average Yield of Milk.
Professor Baldwin, of Dublin, places the average yield of milk per cow in England, Ireland, and Scotland at 400 gallons a year, and the gross product at 1,600,000 gallons a year. Different experts have estimated the average capacity of the cows in the United States at about the same figure, between 3,000 and 3,500 pounds a year.—Chicago Times.

Viceroys Under Victoria.
During the forty-nine years of Queen Victoria's reign, seventeen different viceroys have occupied the viceregal throne in Dublin castle, some few of whom—Lord Eglinton, Lord Carlisle, the duke of Abercorn and Lord Spencer—have reigned twice. Lords Clarendon, St. Germans and Carlisle received visits from the sovereign.—Kansas City Times.

Waterproofing of Paper.
The waterproofing of paper is now most effectually accomplished by a mixture of 50 per cent. of rosin, 45 of paraffine, and 5 of sillicate of soda, these ingredients being thoroughly mingled by heating them together and by agitation. This composition is found peculiarly applicable for building or sheathing paper.—New York Sun.

Petroleum for Weeds.
An amateur gardener has found that petroleum poured into the crown of such plants as dandelions, thistles, and plantains will kill them, but in ridding a lawn of these deep-rooted weeds care must be taken not to flood the grass with the oil.—New York Sun.

Don't Crop the Hair.
An English physician is of the opinion that men and women should not crop their hair short. Hair, he says, is a conductor of electricity, and when the brain fails to get a sufficient amount of this nourishment it will soon soften and grow weary.—Chicago Herald.

Theebaw's State Chariot.
King Theebaw's state chariot has lately been exhibited in London. It is of the pattern used in Europe 100 years ago, and it is literally coated with sheet gold, inlaid with bits of glass. Within there is room for only one person.—Chicago Tribune.

The kingdom of Bavaria is said to have 4,500 hook-and-ladder companies and 250,000 firemen.

Coastitutional Catarrh.

No single disease has entailed more suffering or hastened the breaking up of the constitution than Catarrh. The sense of smell, of taste, of sight, of hearing, the human voice, the mind,—one or more, and sometimes all, yield to its destructive influence. The poison it distributes throughout the system attacks every vital force, and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored, because but little understood, by most physicians, impotently attacked by quacks and charlatans, those suffering from it have little hope to be relieved. It this side of the grave. It is time, then, that the popular treatment of this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all passed into hands at once competent and trustworthy. The new and hitherto untried method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his RADICAL CURE has won the hearty approval of thousands. It is instantaneous in affording relief in all head colds, sneezing, snuffing and obstructed breathing, and rapidly removes the most oppressive symptoms, clearing the head, sweetening the breath, restoring the sense of smell, taste and hearing, and neutralizing the constitutional tendency of the disease towards the lungs, liver and kidneys.

The President and the Editors.

The democrat editors in Maine seem unable to bask in the sunshine of executive patronage. With the notable exception of Morton, an appointment which will plague the executive, the president has made his avowed hatred of newspapers felt in a very marked manner. Ben Bunker, Ex-Gov. Plaisted and Editor Rust have been sat on hard, while Bass, of the Bangor Commercial, Drisko of the Machias Union, and Hanscom of the Maine Sentinel, have each been knocking at the door for custom houses without success, and McGraw, of the burned-out Eastport Standard, still struggles for the post-office of that town.

The Biddeford Journal says: "If any class of men in this country have a right to 'claim' offices it is those who, after being buffeted and pummelled and shut out in the cold for twenty years by the fellows on the other side, got up and humped themselves and boosted this administration into power. We like to see deserving editors, whether democratic or republican, get an occasional favor as a slight recognition of the power they wield—the power that makes and unmakes presidents. When Mr. Cleveland projects himself into the next national contest, as it now seems likely he will, if these same men of the press, whom he snubs and affects to despise, do not mete out to him a due amount of well-merited chastisement they will not prove themselves to be the men we take them for."

And yet Mr. Cleveland, as he calls to mind the faithful service of our esteemed contemporary of the Times, need not despair.

A Tragic Spelling Bee.

On Friday night William Reil was shot and killed by Benjamin Smith near English, Ind. The principals in the affair were both young men. They attended a spelling bee, at which were present a large number of young people, and while the competitive spelling was in progress Reil and Smith became involved in a quarrel regarding the spelling of the word "Icicle," and hard words were exchanged. When the spelling match broke up Reil dogged Smith to his home, threatening to whip him. Smith entered his house, and when Reil attempted to follow he shot the latter with a shot gun. The charge took effect in Reil's heart, killing him instantly. Smith gave himself up to the authorities.

The President's Health.

A Washington correspondent writes as follows concerning the health of President Cleveland:

Speaking of the president's ailment, a prominent physician remarked that it was only called rheumatism by courtesy, that the opinion was that he had a slight paralytic stroke. "Paralysis," continued he, "is not a disease, but the symptom of a disease, and that disease is apoplexy. The latter kills instantly, but paralysis plays by successive strokes." The doctor was asked why the paralytic phase of Mr. Cleveland's illness should be so jealously guarded from the public. "Why," said he, "because Mr. Cleveland is anxious to be his own successor, and no man upon whom it is known that paralysis has a hold can ever hope to be reelected."

President Cleveland has the exact build which apoplexy has marked for its own. He is a short, heavy man, with a thick neck, and he is an enormous feeder. He weighs sixty pounds more than when he came here, and besides, he takes no exercise, beyond riding out in a carriage. All of these habits increase the apopletic tendency. It is said that the president is not devoid of superstition, either, and that he does not like to pass under the sable draperies with which the White House is now swathed in memory of his predecessor. Since he has been its occupant, Grant, Hendricks and Arthur have passed away, with but brief intervals between, and Mr. Cleveland has pathetically alluded to the fact that the sombre drapings have scarcely been removed for one when they were required for another. It is a notable fact that all the democratic candidates for the presidency, Seymour, McClellan, Hancock and Tilden, have also died since that bright day in March, less than two years ago, when Mr. Cleveland delivered his inaugural address.

She Can Sell Castor Oil.

The Kentucky court of appeals on the 15th inst. decided the case of Bessie White vs. the State Board of Pharmacy, in favor of the plaintiff, who sued out a mandamus writ to force the board to grant her a license to dispense medicine, which it had refused, although she was a graduate of the Ann Arbor (Mich.) school of pharmacy. The plaintiff is a sister of Ex-Congressman John D. White, and the first female applicant for pharmaceutical honors in Kentucky.

Capt. Jotham Johnson of Durham, Me., died Tuesday, Dec. 14th, at the advanced age of 102 years.

A letter received from Captain Call of the schooner Lizzie J. Call, now at Baltimore, says that during the long-continued gale he was laying in harbor at Sandy Hook. He arrived in Baltimore just in time to make a sale of his cargo. He is more than pleased with his vessel; she sails well, steers well, and works well; and on the passage she left everything in the shape of a schooner way behind, and did not lose an apple. The captain is to leave for Cuba in a few days, if he can get a load.

At the funeral of the late Buel C. Carter, which took place in Dover on the 16th inst., the pall bearers were Col. Charles H. Sawyer, Ex-Senator Rollins, Col. Daniel Hall, B. Frank Nealley, Commissioner Gage, and the following officers of the 13th N. H. Regt.: Col. Wm. Grantman, Boston; Capt Geo. N. Julian, Exeter and Surgeon John L. Sullivan, Boston. Among other officers of the 13th Regt. at the funeral were Capt. Chas. B. Gaffney of Rochester, and Capt. C. H. Curtis of Boston.

The Great Falls post office was burglarized on the night of the 15th inst., and the safe blown open. The thieves only got $75, of which $30 belonged to the Free Baptist church, being the net proceeds of a recent entertainment, and placed in the safe for secure keeping by the post-office clerk.

A GREAT MISTAKE

has heretofore been made in the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, and nervous or sick headache. This is evidenced by the failure on the part of thousands of sufferers to find relief, even though they have exhausted the skill of various physicians and tried numerous so-called remedies. To such Athlophoros is offered as a safe, sure, and quick cure. Its success has been phenomenal, and yet it is not surprising because it will do all that is claimed for it. The Athlophoros Co. will gladly refer any who desire to make an investigation to reliable parties who have been cured by it.

Concord, N. H., March 18, 1886.

My father, who is eighty years old, has for years been a great sufferer with rheumatism, also neuralgia, in the stomach. His case was a very severe one and worried not only the family but the doctors as well, who seemed utterly unable to do him any good, as they resorted to the most powerful remedies. My father grew worse and weaker daily, and, unknown to the doctor, we got him to try Athlophoros. Very soon there was an improvement, the pains almost immediately ceased, and there was no longer any cause to keep the doctor in ignorance of what he was using. We told him it was Athlophoros that he was taking, and the doctor told him to continue its use, as it was what he wanted, and so it proved, for he has never been troubled with rheumatism since. J. W. LANE.

Hudson, Mass., May 12, 1886.

This is to certify that I have sold more Athlophoros than all other so-called cures for rheumatism combined. It gives universal satisfaction to my many customers. Have sold Athlophoros for three years.

W. L. WEBT, Druggist.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

The very attractively-arranged show of goods in the windows of C. E. Laighton & Son's store is proof that good taste and an eye for the beautiful are not monopolized by artists. The display is not only pleasing to the eye but provocative to the appetite; yet it only fairly samples the excellent and varied stock to be found inside the store. The windows were dressed by Mr. Laighton's chief clerk, Mr. Bell.

The Boston & Maine railroad has awarded a contract for fifteen first-class passenger coaches to the Wason Manufacturing Co. of Springfield, Mass. It is said that ten drawing room cars and 300 freight cars are also to be added to the road's rolling stock, as soon as they can be procured.

Deputy Sheriff E. A. J. Sawyer died at his residence in Deerfield on Tuesday, Dec. 16th. Mr. Sawyer was the oldest deputy in the service in Rockingham county.

The president on the 16th inst. nominated Commodores Walter W. Queen and Ralph Chandler to be rear admirals.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safe!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

Be Warned

in time. Kidney diseases may be prevented by purifying, renewing, and invigorating the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. When, through debility, the action of the kidneys is perverted, these organs rob the blood of its needed constituent, albumen, which is passed off in the urine, while worn out matter, which they should carry off from the blood, is allowed to remain. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the kidneys are restored to proper action, and Albuminuria, or is prevented. Ayer's Sarsaparilla also prevents inflammation of the kidneys, and other disorders of these organs. Mrs. Jas. W. Weld, Forest Hill st., Jamaica Plain, Mass., writes: "I have had a complication of diseases, but my greatest trouble has been with my kidneys. Four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla made me feel like a new person; as well and strong as ever." W. M. McDonald, 46 Summer st., Boston, Mass., had been troubled for years with Kidney Complaint. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, he not only the disease from assuming a fatal form, but was restored to perfect health. John McLellan, cor. Bridge and Third sts., Lowell, Mass., writes: "For several years I suffered from Dyspepsia and Kidney Complaint, the latter being so severe at times that I could scarcely attend to my work. My appetite was poor, and I was much emaciated; but by using my appetite and digestion improved, and my health has been perfectly restored."

Bright's Disease

Prevented

MISS LOUISE POMEROY.

Hamlet was the play on Friday evening, and again Miss Pomeroy delighted the audience, and surprised those who had not seen her in the part before, by the excellence of her performance; the support, as usual, was deserving of high praise.

This afternoon Miss Pomeroy's version of Lady Audley's Secret—a much superior play to the one so well known to the stage—will be presented; and this evening Kathleen Mavourneen will be the attraction.

The company will remain three days next week, giving As You Like It on Monday evening, An Unequal Match on Tuesday evening, and the uproarious comedy Pygmalion and Galatea on Wednesday.

Tickets for sale at Goodrich's, at popular prices; see advertisement.

POLICE COURT--EATCHELDER J.

FRIDAY, Dec. 17th.

George Morton, Patrick Sullivan, Frank Weston, Frank Brown and Frank B. Wilson, five transient bummers, alias tramps, were each assessed $9.90, fine and costs, for drunkenness, and none of them—nor all of them put together, in fact—having that amount, they were all ordered to Brentwood to "work" it out.

Mrs. Letitia J. Coombs, committed to jail on the 14th in default of $400 bonds for her appearance at the April term of the supreme court to answer to a charge of perjury, produced satisfactory sureties, and was released from jail.

MERRY SLEIGHS BELLS.

The sleighing Friday afternoon was good, the weather fine, and the merry jingle, jingle of the sleigh bells made music in the streets. The elegant establishments of E. H. Winchester, Esq., Mayor Eldredge, H. F. Eldredge, Esq., Hon. Frank Jones, Dr. Potter, Capt. Bradford, and many others were seen and admired. Jolly fun—sleigh riding. Heigho! Wish we were rich.

THE COMMON SENSE JACKET.

If puzzled to select a suitable holiday present for your friend, take a look at the Common Sense Jackets made and for sale in this city; it will be hard to find anything more useful that can be procured at a moderate cost. These garments are made in several sizes, with sleeves or without, for ladies or gentlemen, and of several colors and grades of fineness, the price of the best being $3 each. They are growing into great favor in those parts of the west where they have been introduced, and have large sale here in their native city. For either ladies or gentlemen, walking or riding, they will be adjudged indispensable after a single trial.

JUBILEE YEAR.

Messrs. Editors: In consideration of the accumulation of various vanities, troubles, etc., which wear, fret, and injure national and social life, it occurs to me that a proclamation for a "Year of Jubilee" would prove a corrective and healing influence which cannot in any other way be obtained. The great lawgiver Moses has given a good pattern, and it would be much for the health of our body politic to incorporate and follow. Make a beginning in our whole nation, to be followed by others, until it shall become a Jubilee for the whole earth. ANDREW J. PENHALLOW.

EARLY RECORDS, ETC.

I.

REV. JOHN HANCOCK.

Under date of March 1724, there is an entry in the records of the North Parish, as follows: "To cash paid Madam Rogers for keeping Mr. Hancock and entertaining twel ministers as per acott giving 14.15.:"

Madam Rogers was the widow of Nathaniel Rogers, who was settled in the ministry at Portsmouth in 1697, and died in 1723. He preached in the old meeting house near south mill dam, and came to preach in the new meeting horse (on the site of the present North church) in 1713, when the parish was divided into North and South. Mr. Rogers died in October 1723. In January 1724 the North parish, says Adams (p. 144) "agreed to give a call to Mr. Hancock to be their minister in the room of the good Mr. Rogers, deceased." Notwithstanding they offered him a yearly salary of one hundred and thirty-five pounds "and the contribution of strangers," Mr. Hancock declined the call, and the Rev. Jabez Fitch afterwards became their minister. The Rev. Mr. Hancock's letter informing the committee of the Parish of his decision, is still in existence. It reads as follows:

To the Gentlemen of the committee for the first Parish in Portsmouth.

Gentn. The kind invitation you made me to succeed good Mr. Rogers Deceased Received the greatest Deliberation Considering ye nature and Importance of the affaire

I have endeavored the best Advice and Council and am brought to this Result viz to say

1. That I Return you my most hearty thanks for the Honour and Respect put upon me

2. That it Does not appear to be my Duty to Accept under the present view of things And accordingly I must take leave to say that I do not Accept the Call

INJUNCTION AGAINST THE CITY.

Judge Lewis W. Clark has enjoined the city, and Street Commissioner Marshall and his servants, not to proceed with the construction of a way across the south millpond, and to cease to deposit any refuse or material of any kind in said mill pond, until the end of the January term of the Supreme Court, unless the injunction shall be sooner modified or dissolved by said court or some justice thereof.

The recent fall of snow has created a great demand for sleighs, and sleighing parties are in vogue. Mr. Nathan Jones has recently received from the best builders a large variety of sleighs, pungs and other vehicles on runners, to be sold or let; his stables are stocked with good horses, his harnesses are of the best make, and he claims to turn out the finest teams of any livery in the city.

E. Newton & Co. on the 17th inst. bought about 25,000 lbs. of fish, at $3.25 per hundred pounds. Some twenty of the fishing vessels came in during the day and evening, most of them with moderate fares.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less." I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

Hunting on the Potomac.

The Potomac river has always been celebrated for its water-fowl of a variety of sizes and kinds, from the gigantic swans down to the small ducks. The pot-hunters carry small swivel guns in the bows of their skiffs, each discharge of which scatters nearly 70,000 shot among the flock of ducks, killing many and crippling others, so that a good water-dog brings them in. The people down the Potomac undertook to break up the use of this deadly weapon there, by firing at the skiff containing them with rifles. This soon drove the pot-hunters away, and they are now congregated in the vicinity of Washington. The fine canvas-back ducks, so prized by epicures, are mostly shot on the banks of the shallow bays of the Chesapeake, where they fatten on white celery.—Boston Budget.

Proverbs Not Altogether Reliable.

A wise saying is the product of sound intelligence contemplating weighty experience; but the experience of average mankind is not weighty, even when it is disastrous, and its intelligence is not sound. Therefore we should not look in popular proverbs for what they can not and, indeed, do not profess to be. Their name rightly expresses their nature. They are for the most part handy substitutes for arguments, accepted similes that serve instead of reasoning. Brief prescriptive and analogical claims for ordinary deeds and judgments; and they consequently reflect the ordinary vices and weaknesses of those who use them, no less than their commonly very moderate ideals of what is good and right.—St. James Gazette.

Cure for Heart Palpitation.

A French physician announces that distressing or excessive palpitation of the heart can always be arrested by bending double, the head down and the hands hanging, so as to produce a temporary congestion of the upper portion of the body. In nearly every instance of nervous or anæmic palpitation, the heart immediately resumes its natural function. If the movements of respiration are arrested during this action, the effect is still more rapid.—Boston Budget.

"I have used your Athlophoros for rheumatism and will say that less than a bottle entirely cured me, taken as soon as I began to feel the pain," is the testimony of John S. Sampson of Taunton, Mass., to Athlophoros' many virtues.

The bill for the redemption of trade dollars, reported to the senate by Mr. Morrill from the committee on finance, provides that dollars shall be redeemed to the extent of $500,000 per month, and that the amount redeemed shall be subtracted from the monthly silver purchase for coinage.

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal it is among the most distressing, nauseous and disgusting ills the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cures of chronic catarrh by any of the multitude of modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising.

At Boyerton, Pa., on the morning of Dec. 15th, as Miss Della Wentzell, aged eighteen years, was making her toilet in her bedroom, she was seized by a man who held a sponge saturated with chloroform to her nostrils until she was insensible, and then stole her hair, which was four feet long and very thick, and for which she had been offered $200.

Scrofulous humors, erysipelas, canker, and catarrh, can be cured by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "I have used this medicine in my family, for scrofula, and know, if it is taken persistently, it will eradicate this terrible disease."—W. F. Fowler, M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

Wallace Ross and George A. Lee, the oarsmen, have arrived home from England after a ten days tempestuous voyage.

How Often

We see some young man who has squandered his money and ruined his health by excesses, and before 30 years of age is an all broken-down played-out man! In all such cases I prescribe nature's tonic and nervine, Sulpher Bitters. They supply food for the brain, strengthen the nerves, and are successful in nine cases out of ten.—Old Physician.

All the leading coal miners at Youngstown, Ohio, are idle, and a long strike for higher pay is expected.

Hop Porous Plasters contain no capsicum to burn and irritate. They strengthen weak parts.

The Atlantic & Pacific railway forfeited lands in California and New Mexico are restored to the public domain.

Last year's fashions are out of date, but last year's friends are still our own. This is why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound never loses favor.

The discovery of a secret order of colored men in South Carolina, formed to rob at will, and murder witnesses, is reported.

For throat and lung difficulties, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, when seasonably taken, is a certain specific.

The Official Messenger of St. Petersburg declares that Russia and Germany are on the most friendly terms, despite reports to the contrary.

The combination, proportion, and process in preparing Hood's Sarsaparilla are peculiar to this medicine, and unknown to others.

GERMANY'S SILENT COUNT MOLTKE.

A Plainer Man Does Not Walk the Streets of Berlin—Several Anecdotes.

On his beautiful estate of Kreisau, in Silesia, purchased with the thousands presented to him by a grateful people after Konniggrats and Sedan, Count Moltke celebrated his 86th birthday. An enemy of all ostentation and pomp it is Moltke's custom to flee the city on the 26th of October in order to preclude all demonstration of love and homage. A plainer man does not walk the streets of Berlin. Clothed in his field marshal's uniform—a title which only he and the crown prince bear—with the highest order of the "Iron Cross" about his neck he is a frequent and beloved sight. He has lost, it is true, his military bearing, yet considering his advanced age, his comparatively unbent figure is a matter of surprise. Though not of imposing appearance like the giant chancellor Moltke is certainly a remarkable looking man. The high forehead, the earnest, cold gray-blue eyes the aquiline nose, the thin, wrinkled, closely-shaven face are in perfect unison with the well-knit and wiry frame. But upon many people these characteristics make little impression.

A few weeks ago, while in the neighborhood of Dresden, Moltke entered the grounds adjacent to a private insane asylum with the intention of inspecting them. He being in civilian's dress—and that anything but the latest London make—the attendant, not knowing him, ordered him to quit the place. With the true instinct of the soldier the marshal at once retracted his steps without deigning to reveal his name or rank. But one who knew him noted the occurrence and repaired to the institution to reveal the identity of the seedy stranger. Great was the anxiety and profuse were the apologies of the directors, who visited Moltke to extend a special invitation for an inspection of the asylum; entreaty was less effective than command.

A similar story is related of Moltke in Regensburg two years ago in the old inn, now a famous hotel, where Don John of Austria, the hero of Lepanto, was born more than three centuries ago. A quiet gentleman in an old-fashioned suit arrived late one evening and asked for lodging. The clerk, believing him poor from his appearance, sent him to the top floor. He mounted the wearying steps with no word of complaint and entered the dark, unfriendly room, where he quickly made himself at home. The waiter who had accompanied him returned, expressing the suspicion that the stranger was Count Moltke. The hotel register was at once sent up according to German fashion and it confirmed the suspicion. Unending apologies followed, but a meaning smile crossed Moltke's lips and he renounced the attic-room for the best chamber in the house. It was immaterial to him where he stayed; the discomfiture of "mine host" only amused him.

The dandy officer with his monocle, tight trousers and bracelet, is the scapegoat of Moltke's wit, as cutting and destructive as his sword. Such effeminacies aggravate him, as opposed to the character of the soldier. The young men refuse to ride in any but first-class cabs, fearing to lower their dignity. Yet Moltke, the next in command to the emperor, almost invariably chooses a second-class "Droschke" to rebuke his would-be successors. With this vehicle he drives up and down the Linden, keenly enjoying the shamefaced looks of subordinates who pass him behind more fiery chargers. If I am not mistaken, Moltke is the only army officer who holds a reichstag mandate. There is no more conscientious member of parliament than the aged soldier; and as early as the session may be he is invariably found in his place, rarely occupying the corner sofas and lobby-rooms, even during the longest sittings. He follows the tedious debates with a willing ear, though he himself seldom speaks unless the military budget is before the house, which will happen in the coming reichstag, or upon some question connected with the army. There he is naturally authority. He is, however, wofully non-eloquent; his sentences are the short, pithy utterances of the soldier, free from rhetorical beauty and rounded periods; but logical and convincing.—Berlin Cor. New York Tribune.

Rapid Manufacture of Firearms.

Great speed has been attained in the manufacture of rifles. One hundred and twenty barrels can be rolled in an hour by one machine; they are straightened cold and bored with corresponding speed, and even the rifling is now done automatically, so that one man tending six machines can turn out sixty or seventy barrels per day. With the old rifling machine twenty barrels was about the limit of a day's work, but the improved machines attend to everything after they are once started, and when the rifling is completed ring a bell to call the attention of the workman. He is thus enabled to attend as many as six machines at a time.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The habits of individuals in every class of society, including the masses, are not calculated to diminish, but rather to augment, the amount of organic matter in our atmosphere. Mucus, saliva and humor, popularly known as "matter," must be discharged from the mouth and nostrils to the extent of many gallons daily, and not a little of this comes from infective sources, while we venture to think that the bulk of it mingles with the dust of our streets and courts.—London Lancet.

Must Step Out.

Dakota, which seeks admission as a state, throws over 100,000 votes, 10,000 more than were thrown in South Carolina at the late presidential election, and has double the population of that state; but it can't come in—the trouble being that it is republican by more than 20,000 majority.

Bound to be the Ruler of the Grand Navee.

"Towle," the Washington correspondent of the Boston Traveller, writing to that paper on Friday last, says: "Secretary Whitney proposes that Congress shall pass his reorganization bill, and what is more, he does not propose that any officer under him shall act in opposition to his wishes. To-day he called Commodore Loring down to his office, and told him bluntly that he wanted all officers who were using their influence with Congress in antagonism to his bill to cease such opposition instantly. The secretary intimated that in case these officers do not accede to his wishes that he will have them court-martialled. This has created a great stir in naval circles."

It is no secret that a powerful naval lobby has been maintained at Washington for more than a score of years, and that legislation on naval matters which might have been beneficial to the service and to the country has been defeated, and legislation of the opposite character forwarded, by the influence of this lobby. If Secretary Whitney can diminish this evil he will be entitled to credit, even though his motives may not be the most noble; but perhaps he is only fighting one wing of the naval lobby, the same as Cleveland fights only that brand of pernicious active office-holders who criticise the democratic administration.

Prohibition in Rhode Island.

The people of Rhode Island, or at least (as it is contended) a majority of them, do not like the prohibitory law, and desire a change. The prohibitory law was adopted by a vote of 15,000, in a state with 50,000 male adults. It is now in the constitution. The law is not enforced, though as in other states, it is a part of the statute. In the meantime, the advocates of a prohibitory law will take courage at the announcement of a decision in Ohio, sustaining the constitutionality of this law, while the issue upon this question is one which is likely to come to the front in politics more prominently than ever before.

Very Much Like Murder.

The whaling barque Atlantic, wrecked just outside of San Francisco harbor last Friday, had just been towed to sea. She was an old craft, built in 1851, and went to pieces in a very short time, being merely a mass of rotten wood. Twenty-five of her crew were below when she struck, sleeping off the effects of their last night ashore. The tug which towed her out is blamed for not taking her at least four miles further to sea, where the incoming tide would not have got hold of her. Major Blakeney, superintendent of the life-saving service in that district, has inspected what is left of the wrecked vessel, and says of her timbers that "they are so rotten that a slight blow will break them. The same state of thing exists in every part. It seems to me that a rigid investigation should be ordered, and those responsible be made an example of. In my opinion this is little short of cold-blooded murder." Twenty-nine lives were lost by the disaster.

Naval Intelligence.

The senate in executive session on Friday confirmed Theodore D. Wilson of New York to be chief of the bureau of construction and repair and chief constructor of the navy, with the relative rank of commodore; and Pay Director James Fulton of Tennessee to be chief of the bureau of provisions and clothing, and paymaster general of the navy, with the same relative rank.

The Quinnebaug sailed from Gibraltar Nov. 28th for the African coast.

The Richmond has been designated as the flagship of the North Atlantic squadron, in place of the Tennessee, which will probably be condemned.

The Alliance arrived at Gibraltar Dec. 16th.

Orders have been given to fit out the Trenton at Norfolk as a flag ship. She will probably be assigned to the Pacific station.

The navy department is informed that Rear Admiral Ralph Chandler relieved Rear Admiral John Lee Davis of command of the Asiastic squadron at Yokohama on November 22d.

The Hartford arrived at Acupulco, Mexico, December 1st, from Payta, Peru, with boilers and machinery in bad condition.

The Morrison Bill Sat Upon.

The horizontal reduction tariff bill of Representative Morrison was refused consideration in committee of the whole on Saturday, by a vote of 154 to 148. Twenty-six democrats voted against consideration, and six republicans for it.

A dispatch was received in this city Saturday forenoon announcing the death of Col. James W. Johnson, landlord of the Quincy house, Boston. Mr. Johnson was one of the most popular and widely known hotel men in New England. He had been confined to his bed but a few days, and but a few people knew of his illness. He was about fifty years of age. He was a state senator in the New Hampshire legislature ten or a dozen years ago.

The schooner Grace K. Green of this port, Capt. R. H. Seaward, left Boston on the afternoon of Friday, Dec. 10th, proceeded to Hoboken, waited three days to load a cargo of 700 tons of coal, and arrived off Boston light on Friday night, the 17th inst., making the round trip in a little over seven days,—very quick work, for the winter season.

The schooner Lizzie J. Call, Call master, has been chartered to take coal from Baltimore to New Haven at $1.15 per ton, and discharged.

The schooner Florence Rendall was on Saturday taking aboard 2,500 barrels of apples for Baltimore, shipped by C. H. Hayes & Son.

It is reported that the great ship-builder, John Roach, is dying of a cancerous affection of the throat.

A GREAT MISTAKE

has heretofore been made in the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, and nervous or sick headache. This is evidenced by the failure on the part of thousands of sufferers to find relief, even though they have exhausted the skill of various physicians and tried numerous so-called remedies. To such Athlophoros is offered as a safe, sure, and quick cure. Its success has been phenomenal, and yet it is not surprising because it will do all that is claimed for it. The Athlophoros Co. will gladly refer any who desire to make an investigation to reliable parties who have been cured by it.

Concord, N. H., March 18, 1886.

My father, who is eighty years old, has for years been a great sufferer with rheumatism, also neuralgia, in the stomach. His case was a very severe one and worried not only the family but the doctors as well, who seemed utterly unable to do him any good, as they resorted to the most powerful remedies. My father grew worse and weaker daily, and, unknown to the doctor, we got him to try Athlophoros. Very soon there was an improvement, the pains almost immediately ceased, and there was no longer any cause to keep the doctor in ignorance of what he was using. We told him it was Athlophoros that he was taking, and the doctor told him to continue its use, as it was what he wanted, and so it proved, for he has never been troubled with rheumatism since. J. W. LANE.

Hudson, Mass., May 12, 1886.

This is to certify that I have sold more Athlophoros than all other so-called cures for rheumatism combined. It gives universal satisfaction to my many customers. Have sold Athlophoros for three years. W. L. WERT, Druggist.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

There were 448 boxes of fish, averaging above 500 lbs. net weight each, sent to Boston from Commercial last week—over 112 tons. Fifteen thousand pounds came in on Saturday night; and on Sunday the following fares were landed, the price paid being $2 per hundred pounds: Schooners Rising Star, 1,000 lbs.; Juliette, 2,000; Gertie Freeman, 5,000; Josie Johnson, 7,000; Eva May, 1,000; Grace Choate, 8,000; Mary Amanda, 2,500. The largest fleet of the season was expected in Sunday night.

Elvin Newton & Co. had sixty barrels of frozen herring arrive in Boston on Saturday morning, on the steamer from Eastport, Me.

The mackerel fleet of Portland, Me., the past season, numbered fifteen vessels, most of which lost money, in several instances as much as $500, while the remainder barely paid expenses. The total catch of 1886 was only 10,000 barrels, against 80,000 in 1885. It was the worst season on record.

E. H. Winchester, Esq., has contracted with Elvin Newton & Co. for their fish offal, which is considered the very best dressing for corn and potato crops.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

Be Warned

in time. Kidney diseases may be prevented by purifying, renewing, and invigorating the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. When, through debility, the action of the kidneys is perverted, these organs rob the blood of its needed constituent, albumen, which is passed off in the urine, while worn out matter, which they should carry off from the blood, is allowed to remain. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the kidneys are restored to proper action, and Albuminuria, or is prevented. Ayer's Sarsaparilla also prevents inflammation of the kidneys, and other disorders of these organs. Mrs. Jas. W. Weld, Forest Hill st., Jamaica Plain, Mass., writes: "I have had a complication of diseases, but my greatest trouble has been with my kidneys. Four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla made me feel like a new person; as well and strong as ever." W. M. McDonald, 46 Summer st., Boston, Mass., had been troubled for years with Kidney Complaint. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, he not only the disease from assuming a fatal form, but was restored to perfect health. John McLellan, cor. Bridge and Third sts., Lowell, Mass., writes: "For several years I suffered from Dyspepsia and Kidney Complaint, the latter being so severe at times that I could scarcely attend to my work. My appetite was poor, and I was much emaciated; but by using my appetite and digestion improved, and my health has been perfectly restored."

Bright's Disease

Prevented

MISS POMEROY AT MUSIC HALL.

The people of Portsmouth and the adjoining towns who have been prevented by reason of the unfortunate state of the weather, and from causes incident to this special season of the year, from visiting Music hall during the past week, have lost much in the way of the gratification of witnessing good acting. Seldom is seen on the boards of Music hall a company whose composition affords a more satisfactory and enjoyable entertainment than is witnessed nightly in the range of plays "from grave to gay, from lively to severe," during Miss Pomeroy's engagement, which is really the theatrical event of the season.

We incline to the belief that the general excellence of the support is attributable to the influence of the superiority of the star. Miss Pomeroy is of that refined and educated character which appreciates the text of the author in the part which for the time being she represents. When we beheld her on the stage, it is not Miss Pomeroy whom we see, but Hamlet the Dane, or the poor deceived Kathleen O'Connor, or whichever character she for the occasion assumes. There are players whom we sometimes witness, while we never lose sight of the fact that it is such or such an actor before us. The delight in theatrical representations is to enjoy the scene as the playwright intended it should be beheld, with the auditor going back to the era and living among the events of the times of which the play treats.

To our mind Miss Pomeroy excels in judgment and good taste in her appreciation of the authors' lines. Added to this she has a correct elocution, which always avoids all straining of the voice for stage effect, and gives us just what the dramatis personæ of the play have to say, in the tone and with the look and gesture of natural action.

The stay of Miss Pomeroy for three nights of this week affords our people an opportunity for not only a dramatic treat rarely to be enjoyed in our city, but at the same time it is an occasion for instruction in the correct use of language, which cannot fail to be of good purpose and beneficial results.

The Shakespearian comedy of "As You Like It," to be given this evening, is one of the most attractive of Miss Pomeroy's repertoire, and cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The plays announced for Tuesday and Wednesday evenings are equally inviting. As it will be a long time before any dramatic amusement of this order will be again enjoyed in Music hall, the opportunity to witness an actress of such widely-acknowledged ability and good taste as Miss Pomeroy, with her excellently selected and pleasing company, ought not to be lost sight of.

HISTORY OF PORTSMOUTH.

The Portsmouth Journal has reached the third installment of its history of Portsmouth. The list of stewards and servants sent by Mason into his province of New Hampshire in 1631, as given by Adams, is supplemented with a copious note by Mr. Hodgdon, which shows that many of the immigrants returned to England, others succumbed to the unaccustomed hardships of their new life, and of those who remained there are many bearing the family name residing in this city and vicinity. This publication is very interesting, and ably edited by Mr. George E. Hodgdon.

The text at the Universalist church yesterday was Psalm 139, 14th, 15th and 16th verses; also Matt. 6: 28,—"Consider the lilies," etc. Subject, "Universalism as taught by animal development." The religious natures of David and Christ were founded upon their personal experiences with God, and the thorough contact of their inner nature with the outer. Man looks at the outer nature and finds that from the very beginning this has been, and probably will be, the secret of life and death of all that God has made, viz., The matching of inward powers with outward powers. When any animal can adjust his internal relations to his external relations, he lives; when he fails to do so, he dies; e. g., a fish dies on dry land, his inward nature is not able to meet the outward. Two varying animals fight; one is killed,—his inward nature is not equal to the outward circumstances. The fittest survives. Nature selected him; he is the object of natural selection. This universal process eternally continued is development. Good and evil are matching their powers. That quality which has survived, will survive. Which is the fittest to our Omnipresent Divine outward relations? Which is God's natural selection? All history before and since man replies, "The Good." There is no immortal evil. The best of any age survives. The evil is annihilated. These truths work in the individual soul.

Mrs. Josiah H. Morrison fell the height of one story at the Rockingham house, Saturday afternoon, through the elevator well, and broke her collar bone. On Sunday she was comfortable, and it is hoped she will not experience serious results from her fall.

In the national house, last Friday, Mr. Belmont, democrat, of New York, introduced a bill authorizing the president to appoint a fishery commission. It is evident that British Minister West is still running the United States government.

The pung that is used in transporting prisoners from Biddeford to the jail in Alfred, was at one time the property of a merchant, and its sides bear the rather suggestive inscription, "Hardware."

The Marine Journal of New York, a non-partisan paper, bitterly denounces the appointment of Col. Morton of Maine, an expressman, as commissioner of navigation, and calls upon the president to know if his conception of civil service reform means the appointment of a notoriously unfit and ignorant man to an important position in the government service, where vast amounts of property, and even the safety of human life, are at stake.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. Wood, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. Balcom, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. Proudfoot, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge, to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by

A SAD STORY.

A Woman Tortured Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians. Relief at Last.

Mrs. T., a lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: "I had taken treatment from physicians for about nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and cried a good deal of my time. A year ago this summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last made up my mind to quit him and try your Compound, and with what a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I tried it and so sorry that I did not get hold of it nine years ago." The foregoing is from a letter to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sufferers by taking her Vegetable Compound may escape the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless misery.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: Very Dear Madam: My wife, Arie A. Green, has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to purchase a bottle and the first dose gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, five bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day.

The Inspiration to Neatness.

In modern times the inspiration to neatness usually comes from the mother of the family. If she is a slattern, woe to the household. Everything in it is at loose ends. Everybody is uncomfortable and unhappy. The sons go forth into the world without having learned one of life's most important lessons. The daughters are not to be sought in marriage unless they have had the strength of character to rise above the influence in which they have been born and bred. There can be no elegance without neatness, and a home richly adorned where there is refuse in all the corners and the accumulated dust of months behind the bureau and under the bed is worse than pharisaical, more disgusting were than the cup and platter externally fair to the sight, but within full of all uncleanness. Some persons are like the Scriptural cup and platter, their outer clothing neat, but the underclothing rarely changed and their persons strangers to the bath tub. It is a pleasure to say that the class is rare in America and becoming rarer. The hygiene of the bath and the comfort, the esthetic value even, of neatness, is well understood. Further than this it is a matter of personal pride among us.

In this country clean shirts are the rule and the bath tub is a much used institution even in the houses of American mechanics. In the matter of personal neatness a man offends oftener by carelessness in regard to spots on his clothing and the whiteness of his linen. The first comes from a careless habit of feeding. The last is the result of simple neglect or lack of fine instinct. The first is especially unnecessary when there are so many simple and cheap detersives. Let him keep a bottle of one of these on his bureau, and when he sees a spot on his coat let him address it as Lady Macbeth addressed the imaginary blood stains on her hands. Then let him quickly apply the detersive, and the offending spot will disappear as if by magic. It is hardly necessary to add that the frequent use of the clothes-brush is imperative. A woman offends oftener in the matter of gloves; yet kid gloves are easily kept clean, either by the owner or by the professional glove-cleaner.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Thin plates of metal in the backs of books are a now London notion.

Men and Women in Life's Prime

Who rise unrefreshed, feel languid through the day, have little appetite, and whose faces exhibit a sallow tint, are on the short route to the grave. Unless they can effect a radical change in their condition they will not reach old age. Invigoration is the only means of their physical salvation. Upon Hostetter's Stomach Bitters they can rely to furnish them with the stamina, which is a prerequisite of health, and to remove that prime cause of continued debility, indigestion and non-assimilation of the food. We class these causes as one, since they are joint functions of one organ, the stomach, chiefly. Built up and rehabilitated with this superb restorative of vigor, the system may bid defiance to malaria, rheumatism, bladder and kidney diseases, and other maladies prone to attack the enfeebled. The bitters not only affords a safeguard against disease of a virulent type, but effects a prompt reform in the condition of a drowsy or disordered liver and irregular bowels.

What was it, John,

That made your face so free and clear from pimples, said his sweetheart. Why, don't you know, Eva? For over a year I took everything I could think of without helping me, then I bought two bottles of Sulphur Bitters, and now I haven't one pimple on my face. It is the best blood cleanser I ever saw.

Miss Louise Pomeroy, in her lecture at New Bedford on the evening of the 12th inst., said: The question "Is the stage immoral?" has been agitated so long and so violently that some of its luminaries have taken up a diamond-tipped pen to lead a vigorous defence thereof. This is futile. Of course the stage is immoral. How could it be otherwise—since it exists in an immoral world! It is immoral and unwise to attack an art that affords such innocent and restful entertainment to hard-working and care-worn men and women. The stage is supported by working people, and not by the rich. Viewing the life of an actor in all its privations in the way of home influences and social restraints, there is much to be said against a weak-minded person undertaking its vicissitudes. But when you reflect that the weak and wayward fall into the ditch wherever they are, there is no need for a special hue and cry against the temptations and vices of the stage on their account. Bad people are going to be bad anywhere. If women of the stage go astray, they would have gone astray had they never entered the profession. The stage affords a kindly welcome to many honest men and women, whose daily walk and talk are those of gentlemen and ladies. The stage does not require immoral people.

An Undisputed Test of Merit.

A medicine that has been a household remedy for over fifty years and used in that time by more than 150,000,000 persons must have great merit. Such a medicine is found in Brandreth's Pills. This fact illustrates the value of these pills better than any statement of the proprietors. It will be observed that the dose required to cure is small. One or two pills taken every night for ten or twenty days will cure dyspepsia, costiveness, rheumatism, liver complaint, all female complaints and weaknesses.

CRYSTALLIZED PETROLEUM

Results of a Very Simple and Cheap Process—An Invention of Importance.

A very important invention has recently been made by a German chemist in the employ of the Russian government in the oil regions at Baku, near the Caspian sea. Russian petroleum has since the last ten years entered into competition with American kerosene in the European markets, and if the new process of crystallizing the oil fulfills the expectations, American petroleum will be excluded there in the near future, as the Russian product will be much cheaper and its transportation less dangerous, thus saving, besides leakage and expensive barrels, the heavy insurance.

Strange as it may seem, and contrary to the theories of the scientists, the great oil regions near the Caspian sea do not yield any coal, therefore the crude oil has to be shipped by rail to Odessa and other ports where coal can be obtained, and is there refined. It is clear that in a country with a nomadic population and in the Caucasus, where the difficulties of building a railroad are almost unsurpassable, the cost of transportation is very high and the loss from leakage great. The new process does away entirely with this difficulty. The expensive barrels are saved, and there is no leakage, as the petroleum is hardened. At the place where it is to be refined, by another cheap and simple method it is made fluid again. But, at the same time, the new invention has made it possible to refine the crude oil at its source, which alone saves two-thirds of the cost of transportation.

The process itself is very simple and cheap. Petroleum, naptha, or crude oil, is a very complicated mineral, which contains as a mixture from eight to fifteen hydro-carbon combinations of the so-called methan group, of which marsh gas is the first and paraffine the last in the order. Petroleum, from the chemical standpoint is not an oil, like the vegetable or animal oils or fats, which, though often having the same hydro-carbon combination as the mineral oils, contain oxygen, and may be still further oxidized, whereby they are turned into fatty acids. These when treated with soda or potassa salts, combine, forming solid substances, which have lost all their former qualities—inflammability fluidity, oily or fatty appearance. They are turned into soap.

Chemists have for a long time vainly endeavored to oxodize hydro-carbons, but, as in a great many other things, instead here, overlooked what was nearest, and the most complicted processes did not bring about the oxidization of the hydro-carbons, until the Russian found that all that was necessary to obtain the result was to saponify the oil directly with soap. For this purpose the crude oil is heated and from 1 to 3 per cent. of common tallow soap is added, which readily dissolves. This mixture is boiled about an hour, whereupon the whole mass suddenly changes into a putty-like substance, which when cold has about the consistency of hard tallow, and can be cut and formed into any shape. The process is the same as making soap, with the difference that the petroleum is not entirely saponified, but only in a suspended state of saponification.

The new substance has almost entirely lost the characteristic smell of petroleum; is hard to light, and burns very slowly with a reddish flame without smoke and making great heat. It leaves very little residuum, which is entirely odorless. Now, it is a very well-known fact to the chemist that petroleum contains nine times more heat than anthracite coal—that is, the actual amount of heat which can be realized from one pound of petroleum (kerosene) is equal to nine pounds of coal, the petroleum having the advantage of taking only one-tenth of the space of the coal, of being cleaner, cheaper, and more easily regulated. Besides that the construction of the heating apparatus would be much simpler should the new substance be used. The invention will be of the greatest importance to the large ocean steamers and war ships, as they would have only to carry one-tenth of the weight of fuel for their boilers, thus saving the other nine-tenths of weight and space for cargo or troops. But it is expected that it will be used in the household instead of coal in the near future. The shipping of kerosene for lighting purposes will be made cheaper, as the hard substance would be shipped in cheap boxes instead of the expensive barrels. At the place of destination the crystallized material is reduced to a fluid by the action of an acid. —Chemist in Chicago Times.

Distribution of Electricity.

A patent has been issued to George Westinghouse, Jr., of Pittsburg, Pa., the inventor of the Westinghouse air-brake, for a new system of distributing electricity, to be used in lighting and for other other purposes—a system which, it is said, will greatly cheapen the electric light and render it a more dangerous rival of illuminating gas than it has yet become. The new invention will, it is alleged, effect a saving of about 95 per cent. in distributing main wires as compared with the Edison "three-wire system."

Nature's Object.

Some one says: "The observant man has a teacher in his eye." Since the observant man also has a pupil in his eye, nature's object in placing so many lashes within easy reach is apparent.—Arkansaw Traveler.

Special Privileges Granted.

One of the journals especially devoted to the interests of the army and navy, in its last week's issue says:

Defects having been pointed out in the designs submitted by Cramp & Co., for triple expansion engines for gunboat No. 1, the secretary has allowed them to correct their designs and make certain improvements recommended by the department. Some of the other contractors have protested against this, claiming that the designs of Cramp & Sons, as originally presented, were unsatisfactory, and that they should not be allowed to make any modifications.

These "other contractors" are very unreasonable. They should consider that Cramp & Sons are Secretary Whitney's especial pets, and that it was apparently in their interest that he used all the power placed in his hands as secretary of the navy to break down John Roach & Sons, who were business rivals of the Cramps. Of course it is all right that Secretary Whitney's friends should be granted special favors when bidding for naval contracts; any other notion is absurd. This is a reform administration.

A Lofty Stand.

Since the publication of the wordy correspondence between Secretary Bayard and the British authorities, on the fisheries question, the administration papers have been holding up their hands in admiration of the lofty stand taken by the secretary in announcing that the fullest measure of redress will be demanded for all outrages upon our fishermen, and that the honor of our flag will be firmly maintained. Instead of a lofty stand regarding the redress of outrages, a little effective movement in the line of preventing such outrages would be more satisfactory to the fishermen whose voyages have been broken up and their season's work lost, through the illegal and oppressive acts of petty Canadian officials—acts tamely submitted to by the president of the United States, who long ago had placed in his hands by Congress abundant power for the stopping of such outrages, if only he had dared to use it—or was willing to use it in opposition to the wishes of British Minister West. As to maintaining the honor of the flag, an example of what this administration will do in that direction was given in the case where the captain of an American fishing schooner hoisted on his vessel the American flag, which was immediately hauled down in an ostentatiously insulting manner by the captain of one of the Canadian cruisers; and Secretary Bayard, instead of demanding an instant apology from the Canadian government for the outrageous act of its understrapper, and the summary disciplining of the offender, hastened to send to that government a letter of regret that a Yankee skipper should have dared to have the insolence to display the stars and stripes on his vessel when its display was displeasing to a Bluenose bully appointed to harass our fishermen. This letter was no doubt regarded as a very nice thing by British Minister West and the Dominion government.

High Prices for Fresh Fish.

The Boston Fish Bureau's report for last week shows that the wholesale prices of fresh fish were unusually high in that market. All the staple kinds of fresh fish continued scarce during the week, and dealers were unable to fill their orders. Steak cod ruled at six to 6 1-2 cents per lb., and market cod at 3 1-2 to 4 1-2 cents per pound. The few haddock offered sold at 4 1-2 to five cents. Sales of white halibut at fifteen to sixteen cents, and gray at 11 1-2 to to twelve cents per pound, were made. Smelts were in liberal supply, and dealers gave more attention to these than to anything else; sales during the week were at from four to six cents per pound. A few frozen herring arrived by steamer from the eastward, but they were all disposed of for bait, at extreme prices. The Bay of Fundy catch of herring so far this season is very small.

The Christmas number of the New York Mirror is very handsome and full of interesting reading. The frontispiece is "The Actor's Christmas, past and present." "Past" is the old fashioned stage coach, hopelessly snow bound, and the weary actors, laden with their baggage, wading through the drifts to their destination. "Present," the actor is seated in a luxurious drawing room car, smoking his pipe and taking his ease while he speeds merrily o'er the rail. On the last page are the familiar faces of "stars of the past," Forrest, Burton, Charlotte Cushman and others, engraved by the new "Moss-type" process.

The London Post, in an "inspired article," warns Turkey against further coquetting with Russia. The British government, it says, has undergone great sacrifices to uphold the integrity of Turkey, even against the opinion of a large portion of the English people. Any hesitation on the part of Turkey will now compel England to adopt a course to counteract Russia's threats by measures that will speedily impress the porte with the fact that its present doubtful policy is the worst for Turkey's real interests.

RUSHING TO DEATH

in the attempt to swim the Niagara Whirlpool Rapids is no more reckless or dangerous than to trifle with disease which each day secures a stronger hold and hastens the end of life. This is specially true of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, and nervous headache, which though perhaps slight at first are extremely dangerous, and steadily secure a firmer grip until at last the agony is unendurable and sudden death brings relief.

These diseases can be cured by the use of Athlophoros which, in connection with Athlophoros Pills, never fails when properly used. Read the following from those who have tested it.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

I used one bottle of Athlophoros and my rheumatism left me. I have never been troubled with it since nor do I expect ever to be again, for the medicine cured me entirely of the painful disease. I recommend Athlophoros for I have faith in its curative powers. MRS. A. H. VISEY.

Great Falls, N. H., March 25, 1886.

This certifies that two bottles of Athlophoros cured my wife of her neuralgia after trying all other remedies with no avail. DUDLEY GILMAN.

Holyoke, Mass., May 31, 1886.

We have sold more Athlophoros since it appeared in the field of medicine than any other rheumatic remedy. If we could describe in detail all of the cases that have been cured by it, that have come under our notice, it would astonish you. We will say that no other medicine that has ever come under our notice has performed so many cures as Athlophoros.

Col. Morton of Augusta, Me., on the 20th inst. entered upon the duties of commissioner of navigation at Washington. The chief of the bureau for the present at least will remain to instruct the new commissioner in the duties of his office. There is no doubt of the confirmation of Morton now that Arthur Sewall and other Maine democrats, who have been assumed to have so much interest in shipping matters, have expressed a desire that he should be confirmed.

The steam-whaler Mary & Helen was destroyed by fire in San Francisco on the 18th inst., and a son of Capt. Miller, and a seaman, were killed by an explosion. Loss $85,000, insurance $40,000.

Numerous waterspouts are reported in the gulf of Mexico.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Insley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

JOSEPH P. MORSE,

Fire, Life & Accident Insurance Agent and Broker.

Be Warned

in time. Kidney diseases may be prevented by purifying, renewing, and invigorating the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. When, through debility, the action of the kidneys is perverted, these organs rob the blood of its needed constituent, albumen, which is passed off in the urine, while worn out matter, which they should carry off from the blood, is allowed to remain. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the kidneys are restored to proper action, and Albuminuria, or is prevented. Ayer's Sarsaparilla also prevents inflammation of the kidneys, and other disorders of these organs. Mrs. Jas. W. Weld, Forest Hill st., Jamaica Plain, Mass., writes: "I have had a complication of diseases, but my greatest trouble has been with my kidneys. Four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla made me feel like a new person; as well and strong as ever." W. M. McDonald, 46 Summer st., Boston, Mass., had been troubled for years with Kidney Complaint. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, he not only the disease from assuming a fatal form, but was restored to perfect health. John McLellan, cor. Bridge and Third sts., Lowell, Mass., writes: "For several years I suffered from Dyspepsia and Kidney Complaint, the latter being so severe at times that I could scarcely attend to my work. My appetite was poor, and I was much emaciated; but by using my appetite and digestion improved, and my health has been perfectly restored."

Bright's Disease

Prevented

Sold by all Druggists.

Price $1; Six bottles, $5.

QUITE APPROPOS!

Mr. Editor: The following, from the Washington Critic, I think you will appreciate:

A nap in church is not the thing
To be indulged in twice;
Yet of a nap we have to say,
It's noddy, but it's nice.

ADVERTISE.

A gentleman whose advertisement appeared in the Monday morning edition of the Chronicle informs us that before night several customers appeared in response thereto. We regard this as a testimonial of the value of advertising.

CHRISTMAS BUYERS.

The beautiful weather of yesterday was improved by crowds of busy shoppers, and the faces of our dealers and their clerks were wreathed in smiles as they spread before their customers the tempting array of Christmas goods which had been provided for the season. We trust "old probs" will vouchsafe us good weather this week, that the coffers of our merchants may groan next Saturday with the weight of ducats therein.

TEMPLARS' ELECTION.

At the stated conclave of De Witt Clinton commandry of Knights Templar, Monday evening, Dec. 20th, officers for the ensuing year were chosen. Sir Andrew P. Preston, for several years past eminent commander, was re-elected, but declined the honor; and the list of officers-elect was finally made up as follows:

Sir Harry G. Taunton, E. C.;
Sir Edward W. Riley, Gen.;
Sir John Hatch, C. G.;
Sir John Christie, Prel.;
Sir William G. Billings, S. W.;
Sir Frank L. Benedict, J. W.;
Sir Wingate N. Ilsley, Treas.;
Sir James L. Parker, Rec.

MUSIC HALL.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES.

The St. John's, Christ church, and Navy Yard Sunday schools will hold a carol service in St. John's church on Friday, 24th, at five o'clock P. M. Wednesday evening, Dec. 29th, a Sunday school festival will be given at Franklin hall.

The Sunday school of the North church will give their Christmas festival in the chapel on Middle street, on Monday evening, Dec. 27th.

It would seem that it is possible to be too successful. It is said that Frank Jones now offers the newly-elected democratic county solicitor of Rockingham county one thousand dollars to resign. It appears that he wasn't nominated to be elected.—Dover Times.

This sounds very like bosh. The democratic leaders in this county, including Mr. Jones, went in to win at the late election, and did it. If the solicitor-elect holds the office until Mr. Jones offers him a thousand dollars to get out of it, there will never be another election of county solicitor in old Rockingham.

The astronomical winter commences this afternoon at four o'clock; nobody around here will dispute the astronomers in regard to its arrival; in fact, they might have set it ahead two or three weeks with perfect safety.

We are informed that Mrs. J. H. Morrison passed a quiet day yesterday, and has improved somewhat, although the full extent of her injury cannot yet be determined.

Frank W. Moses' "Stitch Ban Calendar" is a gem, just the size for the desk.

A little boy named Hartnett, living on Bridge street, was badly bitten on the right hand by a dog belonging to an out of town resident, on Monday morning, Dec. 20th. The boy was taken to Mr. Preston's drug store, and the wound properly dressed.

More hay was brought into this city on Monday than for some weeks past, prime hay bringing $16 a ton.

An entertainment at "Faith Home" for the benefit of this noble charity, will be given by ladies interested on Wednesday evening of this week. A small admission fee will be charged.

A motion made to Judge Blodgett at Dover to set aside the verdict given at the September term of the supreme court for $2000 to Mrs. Octavia Hodgdon of Great Falls, against the Boston & Maine railroad company, for injuries received by the plaintiff while alighting from defendant's cars at Newmarket one year ago, has been denied.

Rev. James DeNormandie has been compelled by parish and other duties to give up the editorship of the Unitarian Review. He is succeeded by Joseph H. Allen.

The New York Sun is authority for the statement that no pet dog is properly accoutred now unless he wears a silver bangle on his off hind leg.

The schooner Franklin S. Schenck, Jameson master, has within the past ten days stocked $1,300, placing her "high line" of the fleet out of this port for that period, and her men sharing $75 each.

Elvin Newton & Co. on Sunday night shipped to Boston sixty boxes (rising fifteen tons) of fish; Ed. Jameson shipped seven boxes, and a few boxes were forwared by other dealers.

The schooner Maggie Mulvey arrived at E. F. Sise & Co.'s wharf on Saturday with coal from Port Johnson.

The schooner J. P. Ames, Capt. Wood, bound from Boston for Alma, New Brunswick, while going through Deer Island narrows, Me., Nov. 27th, struck a rock, and was badly damaged. She was beached on Cranberry island, partially repaired, and started again for Alma, arriving at Herring Cove, N. B., on Friday, Dec. 16th. On the 17th she endeavored to reach Alma, but was blown off, and ran for Hopewell cape, where she was beached Saturday night, the 18th, and became a wreck. She was a vessel of about eighty tons register, and nearly thirty years old. Ten or twelve years ago she was wrecked at the Isles of Shoals, and was bought, floated off and repaired by Messrs. Rider & Cotton of this city; she hailed from this port for several years, and was then sold, since which time she has been in trouble on several occasions besides the present one.

Of 170 bbls. of fresh herring received at this port for bait this season from Eastport, 140 bbls. have been received by E. Newton & Co., who are expecting 100 bbls. more by the boat due at Boston this morning from Eastport.

On Saturday of next week Samuel C. Hamilton, of Saco, will put on the official robes of the sheriff of York county, and assume the duties of his office as successor of Sheriff Isaac N. Deering of Waterboro, the present incumbent. Ayer, Cornish; Horatio N. Bradbury, Jr., West Buxton; Frank N. Butler, Springvale; R. M. Stevens, Alfred; Luke H. Roberts, Alfred; Bodwell J. Grant, Acton; John C. Stewart, York; Frank A. The first assessment of ten per cent on the stock of the York Harbor & Beach railroad has been ordered by the directors, and is payable to the treasurer, Jeremiah P. Simpson, at York, Jan. 1, 1887.

Very few of our citizens are aware of the line of Pictures carried and sold by Mr. Collis at the Boston 99-Cent Store, or the low price at which a fine picture can be obtained there. The second floor of the building No. 15 Market street is devoted almost entirely to the display of pictures and frames.

The Boston Journal remarks: "An official in the Indian service sent Commissioner Atkins a native made blanket, whereupon the commissioner dismissed the donor, and hung up the gift in his office as a warning. This is heroic; but Mr. Atkins holds $500,000 of Pan-Electric stock which was given him in exchange for influence."

A family consisting of six children and their parents were asphyxiated by escaping gas on the night of Dec. 19th at Carrick-on-Suir, county Tipperary, Ireland. Five children were dead when found. The other child and the parents were still alive, but they cannot survive.

The board of trade inquiry, relative to the stranding of the British steamship Pavonia in October last at Cohasset, Mass., was concluded at Liverpool on Saturday. All concerned were acquitted of blame.

Congressman Lawler was overrun with callers, and told the House doorkeepers to bring him no more cards. Afterwards Mrs. Lawler called and was told that she could not see the member. "Can't see him! Why, I'm his wife!" "Oh, come now," was the heartless reply, "you can't work that racket here. A hundred women to-day have told me the same thing."

Lydia E. Pinkham

A SAD STORY.

A Woman Tortured Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians. Relief at Last.

Mrs. T., a lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: "I had taken treatment from physicians for about nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and cried a good deal of my time. A year ago this summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last made up my mind to quit him and try your Compound, and with what a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I cried it and so sorry that I did not get hold of it nine years ago." The foregoing is from a letter to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sufferers by taking her Vegetable Compound may escape the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless agony.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: Very Dear Madam: My wife, Arie A. Green, has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 8 miles to get me a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day.

A School of Forestry.

Abbot Kinney is organizing a school of forestry under the auspices of the university of California. We should have these schools in every state, for the American people should be informed respecting the dreadful consequences which are certain to follow the wicked waste of our forests and woodlands. We are already suffering from droughts and inundations, and those who follow us will suffer still more because of the improvidence of the past generation in sweeping away the forests from the banks and headwaters of our rivers. Central Spain, the vast plateaux of central Asia, have been for centuries desolate regions, because of the removal of the forests, which attracted moisture, fed the streams and kept the soil fertile. This forestry question is well understood in Europe. The traveler on any part of the continent notices that when the soil is valueless for agricultural purposes it is planted with trees. No person is permitted to cut down his own wood without a government permit, for if the trees removed from a mountain-side may reduce the volume of water in a fertilizing stream hundreds of miles away. The governments abroad insist that when a tree is cut down, another must immediately be planted in its place, and only a few can be removed at a time.—Democrat's Monthly.

The Wear of Niagara.

The American Association for the Advancement of Science, in session at Buffalo, listened to a paper by Professor R. S. Woodward, of Washington, on "The Rate of Recession of Niagara Falls." The professor said that the area of the rock worn away at the Horseshoe falls between the years 1843 and 1875 was 18,500 square feet, equal to .425 acres; between 1875 and 1886, 60,000 square feet, or 1.37 acres. The main length of the contour of the falls is 2,300 feet. The time required to recede one mile, if the rate is 2.4 feet per year, is 2,200 years.—Building.

Dr. Ham, March 3, 1886.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

Men and Women in Life's Prime

Who rise unrefreshed, feel languid through the day, have little appetite, and whose faces exhibit a sallow tint, are on the short route to the grave. Unless they can effect a radical change in their condition they will not reach old age. Invigoration is the only means of their physical salvation. Upon Hostetter's Stomach Bitters they can rely to furnish them with the stamina, which is a prerequisite of health, and to remove that prime cause of continued debility, indigestion and non-assimilation of the food. We class these causes as one, since they are joint functions of one organ, the stomach, chiefly. Built up and rehabilitated with this superb restorative of vigor, the system may bid defiance to malaria, rheumatism, bladder and kidney diseases, and other maladies prone to attack the enfeebled. The bitters not only affords a safeguard against disease of a virulent type, but effects a prompt reform in the condition of a drowsy or disordered liver and irregular bowels.

A colored woman who recently died in the Seminole Indian territory, is said to have been 136 years old. She was born a slave in St. Augustine, Fla., in 1750. She leaves one daughter in Austin, Tex., who is in her 97th year, and many grand children, some of them nearly seventy years old.

How Often

We see some young man who has squandered his money and ruined his health by excesses, and before 30 years of age is an all broken-down played-out man! A toilet luxury in every respect, Ayer's Hair Vigor never fails to restore the youthful freshness and color to faded and gray hair. It also eradicates dandruff and prevents the hair from falling out.

The Cherokees want authority from Congress to tax the railways running through their territory, the same as the states, and to compel the roads to cease discrimination against the Indians.

An Undisputed Test of Merit.

A medicine that has been a household remedy for over fifty years and used in that time by more than 150,000,000 persons must have great merit. Such a medicine is found in Brandreth's Pills. This fact illustrates the value of these pills better than any statement of the proprietors. It will be observed that the dose required to cure is small. One or two pills taken every night for ten or twenty days will cure dyspepsia, costiveness, rheumatism, liver complaint, all female complaints and weaknesses.

The Luck of a Portuguese from Fayal.

NEW BEDFORD, Nov. 15 (Special)—A Portuguese from Fayal bought a ticke. in The Louisiana State Lottery, and after carrying it in his pocket for fourteen months, gives it to a fellow countryman who had been in America only a few weeks. A Noted Senate Official.

The New York Sun contains a sketch of Col. James I. Christie of Dover, who is one of the staff of the sergeant-at-arms of the national senate. The Sun says:

Christie is one of the characters of Washington. He has served in the senate for nearly twenty-six years, and no whirl of politics has ever affected him. He is as secure in his place as old Capt. Bassett, who has been fifty years an assistant doorkeeper. Christie is from New Hampshire, and is suspected of voting the republican ticket, but he never talks politics. He weighs very nearly 300 pounds, and it is with the utmost wonder that senators see him skipping around the floor of the senate, jumping up stairs two at a time, with all the agility of an athlete. One of his duties is the charge of the pages of the senate, and he makes them hustle. He may sleep sound at night, but there is no more vigilant eye or untiring body during the day than his. Christie looks after each senator's comfort as a young mother over her child's. He knows every whim, crotchet, or fancy of each senator, an din the most delicate way he humors it. He early learns what bores and annoys new senators, and takes very great pains to see that such trials are spared them. He is invaluable. He is a genius in his way, and senators know how much they are indebted to him for taking petty thorns out of their path. But he is no toady, he never fawns. The marble statues in the Capitol are not closer mouthed than he; yet if Mr. Christie should choose to write a book giving his recollections of and experiences with senators for the past twenty years, it would be apt to be most widely read, for it would not fail to cause something of a sensation.

ONE WHO KNEW POE.

The Eccentric Poet an Illustration of His Own Doctrine of Perversity.

A few nights ago I found myself in the study of my old friend, the professor of belles-lettres in the great university of K——. The university was my own alma mater, but I had visited it especially for the purpose of spending an evening with the professor of belles-lettres, for he was a most extraordinary man. The room was filled with curious books, prints and pictures, and bronzes that the professor had picked up here and there during his travels, for he had been abroad many times. Among them I noticed a small picture of Poe. It reminded me of my adventure in Baltimore a few days before, and I told the professor about it. When I had finished he laughed, and said:

"Poe was a hard case. He was a living illustration of his own doctrine of perversity. It's very hard to make him out. I think his tale of William Wilson is the best commentary on himself that he has left us. The double identity of William Wilson is strictly analogous to Poe himself and the evil genius that followed him all through his life. As one grows older I think one realizes more fully the emptiness of his verse—I mean the absence of motive and the lack of a strong, central thought. He had no burden to deliver. Walt Whitman, whatever may be thought of his poety, is the only American poet who may be said to have a burden to deliver. And yet Poe had a song in him—the first requisite for a true poet. Longfellow's poetry is merely literary—graceful, pure, popular, and all that you know, but embodying nothing of his own personal experiences. Lowell we hardly think of as a poet, and Bryant's work has been greatly overestimated. His poetry is a wilderness of death. There is nothing poetical about death in itself—it is life that is poetical. I am acquainted with a gentleman in Philadelphia who knows more about Poe probably than any other living man. Before Poe's death this gentleman edited a publication there. Poe used to contribute to it, and the manner in which he submitted his matter was very novel. It seems that he wrote on small sheets of paper, and when he had filled one sheet he pasted another on the end of it, and so continued. When the article was finished he rolled the manuscript up tightly. Then he would present himself in the editor's office, and say:

"'I've got another story for you, Mr. P——.'

"'How long is it?'

"'Well, it's so long,' Poe would reply, giving the ball a shoot across the room and letting it fall at full length on the floor.

"He was wretchedly poor. He might have had troops of friends, you know, but some way he had the devil in him. At one time he was the assistant editor of a monthly—Burton's, I believe. The editor was compelled to be out of the city for a time and he left the next edition of the magazine in Poe's charge. When he returned he was astonished to find that the magazine had not come out, and that nothing had been done. Poe had disappeared. He at once began a search for his missing assistant. He finally found him in a drinking-shop with some friends. 'Mr. Poe,' he said, 'I left you in charge of my magazine and I return to find that nothing has been done. How do you account for this?'

"Poe merely invited him to go to a very warm place and held up the prospectus of a magazine of his own that he was about to start. That was his dream all through life—to edit a magazine.

"There has been a great deal of foolish talk about his drinking habits. He was not a regular drinker, but the trouble with him was that if he touched a single glass of liquor he had to keep on until he reached a climax. He had a keen critical faculty, but it was unreliable, captious, and sometimes finical. He abused Longfellow shamefully, and whenever he detected any one using the word 'nevermore' he always thought it was stolen from 'The Raven.'

"By the way," he continued as I rose, "I'll send you a copy of my book as soon as it's published." I thanked the professor and bade him good-night.—"F. M. L." in Chicago Times.

M. Gounod's Kite.

M. Gounod's kindness of heart is proverbial. Not long since, during his recent stay in Normandy, a little friend on a summer's night incited the composer to make him a kite. M. Gounod set to work and made a monster. Midnight saw the task completed. Just as the new day was creeping in, the maestro took up his pen, and, as a finishing touch, inscribed on the face of the boy a brief sonata. Rumor describes it as one of the most exquisite gems that he has ever written.—New York Sun.

Shakespearean Departments.

Only three European libraries—the British museum, Bodleian and the library of Trinity college, Cambridge—have, it is said, a finer Shakespearean department than the Boston public library.

Athletic Mr. Gladstone.

Tree-felling has not been Mr. Gladstone's only form of exercise. He was once a crack oarsman, and in earlier years was noted as a graceful and fearless horseman.

The best way to gain a good reputation is to endeavor to be what you desire to appear.—Socrates.

English schoolgirls love Dickens as an author, with Scott a fair second.

SCALY, ITCHY SKIN

And All Itching and Scaly Skin and Scalp Diseases Cured by Cuticura.

PSORIASIS, Eczema, Tetter, Ringworm, Lichen, Pruritus, Scald Head, Milk Crust, Dandruff, Barbers', Bakers, Grocers' and Washerwoman's Itch, and every species of Itching, Burning, Scaly, Pimply Humors of the Skin and Scalp, with Loss of Hair, are positively cured by CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier internally, when physicians and all other remedies fail.

PSORIASIS, OR SCALY SKIN.

I, John J. Case, D. D. S., have practiced dentistry in this country for thirty-five years and myself well know of thousands of cases, with a view to help any one afflicted as I have been for the past twelve years, testify that the CUTICURA REMEDIES cured me of Psoriasis, or Scaly Skin, in eight days, after the doctors with whom I had consulted gave me no help or encouragement.

NEWTON, N. J. JOHN J. CASE, D. D. S.

DISTRESSING ERUPTION.

YOUR CUTICURA REMEDIES performed a wonderful cure last summer on one of our customers, an old gentleman of seventy years of age, who suffered with a fearfully distressing eruption on his head and face, and who had tried all remedies and doctors to no purpose. J. F. SMITH & CO. TEXARKANA, ARK.

DUSTPANFUL OF SCALES.

H. E. Carpenter, Henderson, N. Y., cured of Psoriasis or Leprosy, of twenty years' standing, by CUTICURA REMEDIES. The most wonderful cure on record. A dustpanful of scales fell from his daily. Physicians and his friends thought he must die.

ECZEMA RADICALLY CURED.

For the radical cure of an obstinate case of Eczema of long standing, I give entire credit to the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

Constitutional Catarrh.

No single disease has entailed more suffering or hastened the breaking up of the constitution than Catarrh. The sense of smell, of taste, of sight, of hearing, the human voice, the mind—one or more, and sometimes all, yield to its destructive influence. The poison it distributes throughout the system attacks every vital force, and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored, because but little understood, by most physicians, impotently attacked by quacks and charlatans, those suffering from it have it life hope to be relieved of it this side of the grave. It is time, then, that the popular treatment of this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all passed into shade at once competent and trustworthy. The new and thoroughly tested method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his RADICAL CURE has won the hearty approval of thousands. It is his antiseptic in affording relief in all head colds, sneezing, snuffing and obstructed breathing, and rapidly removes the most oppressive symptoms, clearing the head, sweetening the breath, restoring the senses of smell, taste and hearing, and neutralizing the constitutional tendency of the disease towards the lungs, liver and kidneys.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and IMPROVED INHALER; price, $1.

"A continual dropping on a very rainy day and a contentious woman are alike." No wonder, poor souls, they are such slaves to headache. One 25 cents spent for a bottle of Salvation Oil will restore harmony in the household.

At Hagarstown, Md., Saturday, Joseph F. Woods, a colored man, was sentenced to eighteen months in the penitentiary for marrying Anna Nicodemus, a white woman, and the same penalty was imposed on her. This is the first case of the kind in which the law has been tested in that state.

Wonders of the world are the Egyptian Pyramids, the Mausoleum, the Temple of Diana, the walls and gardens of Babylon, the Colossus of Rhodes, the statue of Jupiter Olympus and the Watch Tower of Alexandria. The pain and misery suffered by those who are afflicted with dyspepsia are indescribable. The distress of the body is equalled or surpassed by the confusion and tortures of the mind, thus making its victims suffer double affliction. The relief which is given by Hood's Sarsaparilla has caused thousands to be thankful for this great medicine. It dispels the causes of dyspepsia, and tones up the digestive organs. A Significant Expression.

The fact that of seventeen cities in Massachusetts in which elections were recently held, thirteen voted against licensing the liquor traffic, is something which the liquor people may carefully consider. Fall River in 1885 gave 1800 majority for license, and now gives 294 majority against it. The mistake has been in the aggressive course of the liquor interest. As long as saloon-keepers continued to break the law and pay an occasional fine for their infringements, a majority of the people took but little interest in their traffic or affairs. But when this element organized, raised enormous sums of money to expend in politics, and boldly came forward and maintained that its business was as reputable as any other, and should be protected by the laws instead of being punished thereby, the wives and mothers of the land began to think that this was going a step too far. Public opinion then became aroused. A great anti-saloon party is forming throughout the land, and the politicians who tie too closely to the liquor interest and the party which is guided, governed, say, gobbled by this combination, will come to grief. In one city, where the democrats elected their mayor, who was nominated in spite of instead of by the liquor power, the citizens voted no-license, and we remark that this state of things is something which politicians should make note of.

Bank Commissioner.

Chas. Edward Cooper, of Keene, was appointed bank commissioner on Tuesday. The qualifications of Mr. Cooper were vouched for by several prominent citizens of Keene, who appeared before the governor and council, and stated that Mr. Cooper from his banking experience would make a most competent examiner of banks. Gov. Currier's nomination was at once unanimously confirmed by the council, and Mr. Cooper's commission was sent to him by the afternoon train. He will at once enter upon the discharge of his new duties.

Episcopal Missionary of New Hampshire.

The board of diocesan missions of the Episcopal church of New Hampshire has appointed Rev. Wm. L. Himes, pastor in charge of the Episcopal church of St. John the Baptist, of Wolfeboro' Junction, general missionary in this state. His salary is guaranteed by Rev. Henry A. Coitt, D. D., rector of St. Paul's school in Concord, and the appointee will commence his duties as soon as a successor to him at Wolfeboro' Junction has been secured. The father of Rev. Mr. Himes is a missionary in the far west, and both of them were formerly Advent ministers.

Odd Fellowship Statistics.

There are seventy-one lodges of Odd Fellows in the state, an increase of one during the past year; number of members 5732, a gain of 277; Rebekah degree lodges 27, increase 5; number of members 3001, gain 539. Among the principal lodges in the state are: Wecohamet of Dover, 325 members; Washington of Great Falls, 182; Piscataqua of Portsmouth, 367; Mount Pleasant of Dover, 293; New Hampshire of Portsmouth, 255; Motollna of Rochester, 240; Woodbine of Farmington, 228; Osgood of Portsmouth, 261; Kennedy of Rochester, 103; Miltonia of Milton Mills, 103.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Dec. 21st.

Inspector C. H. Brown of Portland, Me., inspects Edward G. Parker Post, 99, G. A. R., of this town, Tuesday evening.

Moses Goodwin, Jr., of East Eliot, has purchased the large lot of wood-land of Alexander Dennett, Esq., which is located on the eastern side of the Dennett homestead, and will at once strip it. There are already about twenty men employed chopping. Brackett's portable sawmill, from Greenland, N. H., will soon be put in operation, and will convert all sizable trees into lumber; the rest will be cut into cord-wood, and piled up for the market. We understand that several parties in that part of the town will take advantage of the time the mill is located there, and have their logs sawed near home.

Mr. Will. B. Moore of Limerick, Me., is meeting with excellent success as teacher in district No. 1.

Morrill Lodge of Good Templars, of North Kittery, will meet Thursday evening, the 23d inst., as Christmas exercises will be held in the Methodist vestry on Friday evening, their regular night of meeting.

A Portsmouth paper suggests that a temperance pledge be circulated in some of the work-shops at the navy yard. We agree with that; and yet when a man or body of men get into such contemptible business as to furnish rum to apprentices and minors, it is high time something more stringent than a temperance pledge should be circulated among them. Heigho! Well, we suppose it all goes to make up this great reform administration.

It is now stated on good authority that the new railroad will not go via Kittery Point. There are several reasons given why it will not; one is that it would be in constant competition with numerous steamboats which constantly ply the waters of the Piscataqua at all seasons of the year; another is that the grade on that route is much harder, and the road would cost more to build. All fears of competition to York by steamer are suppressed, as that scheme has proved a failure, and has been a dear experiment to the projectors.

Miss Ella O. Tobey of Boston will start about the first of January, with a good sized party of excursionists for Plymouth, Orange county, Florida, where they will pass the winter. Miss Tobey is a sister to Mrs. Paschal M. Langton of West Kittery, and has kept a hotel in Florida for several winters past. Elmer Langton, eldest son of P. M. Langton, will accompany the party.

Christmas festivals will be held in both Methodist churches, and the 2d Christian church. SUB ROSA.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Annie F. Conlon, of this port, Seaward master, has been libelled by the Baker Wrecking Co. of Norfolk, Va., for the amount of their claim for salvage. The repairs on the vessel will take but a few days to complete.

The schooner Clara E. Simpson, Hontvet master, which recently arrived at Georgetown, D. C., from this port, is reported as embargoed by ice, the channel having frozen over.

A Berlin despatch says Prince Bismarck is again indisposed.

BURNING TO DEATH

in the attempt to swim the Niagara Whirlpool Rapids is no more reckless or dangerous than to trifle with disease which each day secures a stronger hold and hastens the end of life. This is specially true of rheumastism, neuralgia, sciatica, and nervous headache, which though perhaps slight at first are extremely dangerous, and steadily secure a firmer grip until at last the agony is unendurable and sudden death brings relief.

These diseases can be cured by the use of Athlophoros which, in connection with Athlophoros Pills, never fails when properly used. Read the following from those who have tested it.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

I used one bottle of Athlophoros and my rheumatism left me. I have never been troubled with it since nor do I expect ever to be again, for the medicine cured me entirely of the painful disease. I recommend Athlophoros for I have faith in its curative powers. MRS. A. H. VEREY.

Great Falls, N. H., March 25, 1886.

Holyoke, Mass., May 31, 1886.

We have sold more Athlophoros since it appeared in the field of medicine than any other rheumatic remedy. If we could describe in detail all of the cases that have been cured by it, that have come under our notice, it would astonish you. We will say that no other medicine that has ever come under our notice has performed so many cures as Athlophoros.

B. F. ARTHUR & Co.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

The steamer James Sampson has made an agreement with E. Newton & Co. to tow up the fishing vessels for the firm when delayed by tide and wind during the winter.

Every one has a will and a mind to think for himself, yet many will go about hacking and coughing until a friend recommends Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup for that cough.

It is announced with great surprise that a captain of the New York police has retired to private life with $250,000. At the same time we have the startling story that a burglar broke into a country newspaper office at Lawrence, Mass. and got $200 out of the safe. A sudden flux of such items as these is what destroys the public confidence in the veracity of the press.

Joy comes with each and every application of St. Jacobs Oil.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Isley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I bired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

Be Warned

in time. Kidney diseases may be prevented by purifying, renewing, and invigorating the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. When, through debility, the action of the kidneys is perverted, these organs rob the blood of its needed constituent, albumen, which is passed off in the urine, while worn out matter, which they should carry off from the blood, is allowed to remain. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the kidneys are restored to proper action, and Albuminuria, or

Bright's Disease

is prevented. Ayer's Sarsaparilla also prevents inflammation of the kidneys, and other disorders of these organs. Mrs. Jas. W. Weld, Forest Hill st., Jamaica Plain, Mass., writes: "I have had a complication of diseases, but my greatest trouble has been with my kidneys. Four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla made me feel like a new person; as well and strong as ever." W. M. McDonald, 46 Summer st., Boston, Mass., had been troubled for years with Kidney Complaint. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, he not only the disease from assuming a fatal form, but was restored to perfect health. John McLellan, cor. My appetite was poor, and I was much emaciated; but by using my appetite and digestion improved, and my health has been perfectly restored."

The court held them in $200 each for the April term of the supreme court, and in default of sureties they were committed to jail.

PRESENTATION.

The Woman's Temperance League met at the house of the president, Mrs. Jos. Pettigrew, last week, and had a very pleasant time, one of the incidents of the occasion being the presentation by the members to the president of a very handsome rocking chair, the presentation address being as follows:

Mrs. President: Allow me in behalf of the sisters of the League to present you with this small token of their love and esteem for your kindness to them in opening your house for their use. And as you rock away the years of the future, will you ever bear in mind the faithful few who have gathered so often here? their only wish being that you may live long enough to wear it out.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Worcester, Nashua & Rochester railroad, held in Worcester, Mass., Dec. 21st, Col. Charles A. Sinclair and Hon. Frank Jones of this city were re-elected to the board of direction. At a subsequent meeting of the directors, Col. Sinclair was re-elected president.

The spirited span of horses on Langdon M. Perkins' ice team ran away Tuesday morning from opposite the Portsmouth Machine Co.'s works on Hanover street, they being frightened from some unknown cause. After narrowly escaping colliding with several teams they brought up at the fence of the James F. Jenness estate, at the corner of Hanover and Fleet streets, the only damage being the breaking of several palings of the fence.

Miss Louise Pomeroy's benefit at Music hall this evening. Grand double bill for the occasion.

The small boys are having nice times coasting on those streets where there is the proper amount of ice or snow and a sufficiently-inclined plane, and of this sport pedestrians complain no more than they are obliged to. But it is somewhat dangerous to the boys under some circumstances; one of them on Tuesday ran with his sled under the heels of a horse on Hanover street, causing the spectators to hold their breath, but the intelligent animal, knowing the boy, refrained from kicking.

The following are among the recent transfers of real estate in York county, as left for record in the office of the register of deeds: Eliot—William N. Gough of South Berwick to Charles Cook of Boston, real estate in Eliot for $700; George A. Genthner of Boston to Albert DeMerritt of Durham, N. H., real estate in Eliot for $100. York—Joseph Lowe of York to Sophia V. Vinal of Boston, real estate in York for $1; Samuel P. Horne of Somersworth, N. H., to Walter L. Butterfield of same place, real estate in York for $100.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, Dec. 20th.

James DeLancey, son of Mr. Curtis DeLancey, went to Boston alone on Friday, the 10th inst., to buy an overcoat and call on a little friend who boards here in the summer. He made his purchase, called on his friend, and then took the cars for West Roxbury, where he passed the night on a visit to his great uncle, brother of Rev. R. A. DeLancy, and arrived home safely next day, bringing all his money except what he spent for his coat and car fare. The money he earned himself by buying lead pencils at wholesale, and selling them to the schoolboys at retail. He is about thirteen years old, and stands high in his classes at the high school.

The schools commenced their winter term on Monday, the 13th.

Great preparatious are being made for Merrie Christmas. Progressive young ladies are making crochet slippers and embroidered suspenders for their favored ones, and closets and drawers are loaded with hidden presents for the children.

The late cold wave caused several sad vacancies among our aged loved ones, whose forms and voices will be especially missed at the Christmas gatherings. Mr. Oliver Hobbs was greatly beloved by his family; although not very strong, his death was unexpectedly sudden. He was an humble Christian, quiet and unassuming. He leaves an aged wife, in feeble health.

The roads being now in good condition for sleddling, large quantities of hay have been brought to the Parade this week from the good hay farms in this vicinity, particularly from York county. A great deal of hay is used up in this city, consequent on the many teams kept here. From reason or fancy, coarse hay (English timothy at the head) has the preference for the feeding of horses. The price of hay has this week varied from $16 to $14 a ton, a load of more than a ton of fine hay being sold on Tuesday morning for $14.

The Christian society of Rye are to give a Christmas entertainment in the Rye town hall on Friday evening.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

It is PLEASANT to the TASTE, STRENGTHENS, INVIGORATES and LAYS ON IN ITS EFFECT. In Liquid, Pill or Lozenge form, (1 for $1.) Either of the latter cures from observation, on receipt of price. Lydia E. Pinkham

A SAD STORY.

A Woman Tortured Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians. Relief at Last.

Mrs. T., a lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: "I had taken treatment from physicians for almost nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and cried a good deal of my time. A year ago this summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last made up my mind to quit him and try your Compound, and with what a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I tried it and so sorry that I did not get hold of it nine years ago." The foregoing is from a letter to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sufferers by taking her Vegetable Compound may escape the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless agony.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: Very Dear Madam: My wife, Arie A. Green, has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to get base a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace to my house. It cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day.

How Lightning Is Kindled.

It is no uncommon thing for the electrical force emanating from a cloud to make itself felt in attractions and repulsions many miles away. Clouds resting upon the remote horizon thus frequently produce perceptible efforts at distances from which the clouds themselves can not be seen. An electrical cloud hanging a mile above the ground acts inductively upon that ground with considerable power. When in summer time the temperature of the earth's surface is very great, the ground moist, the air calm and the sky clear, very copious supplies of vapor are steamed up from the ground under the hot sunshine.

Clouds, however, begin at length to gather in elevated regions of the air out of the abundance of the supply. The free electricity which has been carried up with the vapor is at first pretty evenly spread through the clouds; but after a time, as the electrical charge becomes more and more intense, a powerful repulsive force is in the end established between the spherules of the mist, and a very high degree of tension is at last produced at the outer surface of the cloud, where it is enveloped by insulating air, until in the end the expansive energy there becomes strong enough to occasion an outburst from the cloud. The escape of the redundant charge then appears to an observer's eye as a flash of lightning issuing from the cloud. Such, in its simple form, is the way in which lightning is kindled in the storm cloud.—Science for All.

Dr. Ham, Dear Sir—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your Invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

One of the Best Things Out.

With the advent of the New Year there always comes to the desk of the editor something new, useful or unique in the shape of some invention or discovery, or something which will amuse and divert while it conveys instruction. Of such a character is the sterling novelty which lies before us in the shape of a Counter-Wrapper-Pad, (12 x 8 1-2 inches) for the counter use of druggists and dealers in medicine. Glancing at the sheets which to a large number are adhesively joined at one end, we find they comprise humorous sketches from the rich and racy pens of "Bill Nye" and other talented and well-known "funny men," finely illustrated in the broadest style of the comic art. At once the design is manifest and most pleasing. One can imagine with what facility and pleasure a dealer can handle such an ornament to his counter, while at the same time it must give delight to his customers, free of all expense to himself. As a wrapper to a parcel each bears in graceful lettering his name and place of business. It is hardly necessary to add that it is gotten out by The Charles A. Vogeler Company, Baltimore, Md., and is being distributed freely to their patrons in trade. It is another proof of the well-earned reputation of the remedies manufactured by that house, and another of its ingenious methods of spreading the story of the wonderful cures wrought by St. Jacobs Oil. In verse and alliterated lines another story is told of an equally famous and efficacious remedy — Red Star Cough Cure—which has been shown by the analyses of the most distinguished chemists to be free from opiates and poisons; the cost of which is only twenty-five cents. The pad will doubtless be very much in demand, and as it deserves, should justly become most popular as one of the best things out.

Salvation Oil is the greatest pain-destroyer of any age or clime. For the cure of neuralgia, rheumatism, and wounds occasioned by accidents, such as cuts, bruises, sprains, burns, and frost-bites it has no equal. Price only 25 cents a bottle.

Grand Master Workman Powderly orders money collected by Knights of Labor assemblies for the condemned anarchists to be returned to the givers.

How Often

We see some young man who has squandered his money and ruined his health by excesses, and before 30 years of age is an all broken-down played-out man! In all such cases I prescribe nature's tonic and nervine, Sulpher Bitters. They supply food for the brain, strengthen the nerves, and are successful in nine cases out of ten.—Old Physician.

A dangerous gang of counterfeiters, who have been flooding the west with bogus silver dollars which have the right weight, ring and appearance, has been broken up by the detectives at Chicago.

Physicians prescribe Ayer's Sarsaparilla in case of scrofula, and in every form of chronic disease, because this medicine is safer to take, and is more highly concentrated, than any other preparation. It can always be depended upon as an effective blood purifier.

The Washington Star says the Turkish mission will be offered to Congressman Viele, of New York.

A toilet luxury in every respect, Ayer's Hair Vigor never fails to restore the youthful freshness and color to faded and gray hair. It also eradicates dandruff and prevents the hair from falling out.

Walter Bingham, a deaf mute twenty-five years old, of Raleigh, N. C., murdered his teacher, a girl with whom he was in love.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites,

For Children and Pulmonary Troubles.

Dr. W. S. Hoyt, Point Pleasant, W. Va., says: "I have made a thorough test with Scott's Emulsion in Pulmonary troubles, and general debility and have been astonished at the good results, and as a remedy for children with Rickets or Marasmus, it is unequalled."

The Masconia Fire Ins. Co. of Lebanon has been re-organized as a mutual stock company.

Counterfeits are always made to look as near the original as possible. Housekeepers are cautioned against the many worthless and damaging imitations of James Pyle's Pearline, some put up in similar looking packages, and others with names sounding like Pearline, which dealers may endeavor to urge upon them.

Rockingham lodge, No. 29, Knights of Pythias, was instituted at Derry Depot Dec. 20th, with twenty-nine charter members.

Those sharp pains will quickly go after you apply a Hop Plaster. Ladies, pay attention to this.

Mrs. Ruel Crockett of Belfast, Me., is under arrest on suspicion of having poisoned her husband.

Mr. Jacob Hagel, Dayton, O., says he would not be without St. Jacobs Oil.

New Fire Insurance Company.

A new stock fire insurance company, the New Hampshire Fire Underwriters' Association, was organized at Concord Dec. 22d, with Lyman Jackman as president, Hon. A. B. Thompson as vice president, and Thomas M. Lang as secretary. It is stated that the new corporation will absorb one of the state mutual companies.

Grand Master Workman Powderly announces that he will make no more speeches at political meetings while he is head of the Knights of Labor.

Gen. Fairchild of Wisconsin, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army, will be present at the encampment of the New Hampshire department in February.

A man eighty years old, named Luce, had his neck broken Dec. 21st at Morrisville, Vt., by being thrown from a sleigh.

Counsel for "Jake" Sharp, the Broadway railroad alleged briber, have applied for a change of venue.

Hon. Thompson H. Murch, who was elected to Congress from Maine in 1879 during the greenback craze, and was re-elected in 1881, died in the insane asylum at Danvers, Mass., Dec. 15th, in the 48th year of his age. He was a stone-cutter by trade, and not an educated man; and his unexpected elevation turned his head, and led him into habits which ruined him mentally, morally, physically and financially.

The cigar makers of Baltimore have decided to leave the Knights of Labor, and maintain their trade union.

Fooled by an Artist.

The old Greek legend of Zeuxis and Parrhasius, the artist fooled by art itself, was re-enacted a few days ago in San Francisco. On the south side of Clay street, over the Savings bank, is a suite of rooms well adapted for artists' use. Some years ago they were occupied by Rodriguez and some fellow-painters, who covered the walls in their leisure hours with every device of the nine brush, making the helpless plaster bear the work of their wild fancies. Young Barkhaus, the promising young artist, who died recently in Munich, was often there and contributed his quota to the designs. One day he amused himself by painting on the wall in the corner of the room near the baseboard, a hole in the plastering, as though some ill-natured fellow had vented his spite against the world by kicking a hole in the wall.

The picture was capitally done; there was an ugly, ragged hole in the plastering with huge gaping cracks radiating from the corners, here and there around the edges of the hole a bit of gray mortar, where the "hard finish" had scaled off, and in the middle of all the bare laths, with bits of plaster between them. Time wore on and Rodriguez left the rooms; another tenant came in and wanted the place cleaned up and put in order before occupation. Orders were given to repair the walls and kalsomine them. The artist of the kalsomine brush repaired thither with his men, armed with buckets of plaster to fill the numerous nail holes and scars in the walls. His attention was at once directed to the big hole near the sideboard, and he himself started to repair it. He kneeled down before it, dipped his brush in water to wet the lathes before putting on the new plaster, and laid it gently on the supposed board—and then for the first time realized that he was taken in. The artist in oil had deceived his fellow of the kalsomine brush completely.

I will spare his blushes by not giving his name, for he owned up like a man and confessed he was "sold." It is needless to say the "hole" was not kalsomined but remains to take in some future plasterer.—Overland Monthly.

Our Supply of Timber Trees.

All the forest property in the United States, even when composed of the most common and least valuable trees, within easy distance of railroads, has greatly increased in value of late years, and much of it has already been destroyed or culled of its best trees. Several of our most valuable timber trees have now become exceedingly scarce, and it is no uncommon thing to see black walnut or cherry logs hauled fifty or sixty miles to a railroad, while small portable saw-mills are eating their way in all accessible hardwood forests in which trees can be found fit to make into merchantable lumber. The hardwood forests of northern New England and New York have only been spared because they contain no material which can not be found of better quality and in greater profusion in other parts of the country.

When it is considered how short the supply of many of our timber trees has become in proportion to the consumption, no one will deny the wisdom of introducing the production of such trees into the agricultural industry of the country.—New York Sun.

Soft Coal Goes Everywhere.

Chicago is a great place for dust. The soft coal sifts its blackness everywhere. A few weeks ago I was in a safety vault and was surprised to observe that the soft coal had already made a deposit within that fastness of steel and cement. It is the last place in Chicago one would expect to see footprints of the ubiquitous carbon, but there on the ceiling above each of the incandescent lamps, was a sooty stain. Nor was the stain make by the smoke of the lamps, for electric incandescent lamps do not smoke. They do give off a little heat, however, and it was this heat that had fixed the coaly particles upon the ceiling. —Chicago Herald.

Draining Greece's Big Swamp.

The marsh of Copais, which figures in classic literature, and which Alexander the Great vainly tried to drain, will soon, by means of modern science, be thoroughly reclaimed. This largest swamp in Greece will next year, it is expected, become it widest and most fertile plain. The work which Greek capital has pushed for five years past will add to cultivation about 70,000 acres of exceptional richness.—New York Sun.

The German Crown Prince.

The crown prince of Germany, like Von Moltke, is a very silent man. He lives in a quiet, domestic way, and is said to be bitterly opposed to the sentiments of Prince Bismarck; and this is a source of considerable annoyance to the old emperor. After his first audience with the pope his only remark was, "The pope is a Frenchman."—New York Sun.

Gold and Silver Production.

The production of gold and silver in the world during the calendar year of 1885 was: Gold, $105,580,000; silver, calculated at its coining value, nearly $125,000,000. The United States produced $88,400,000 worth of gold and silver, or about two-fifths of the production of the whole world.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Sug-Printed Letters.

It is well known by those who have tried the experiment that with letters cut in a piece of paper, as in a stencil plate, and wrapped around a pear or apple, the sun will print the letters on the fruit.—Boston Budget.

The pain and misery suffered by those who are afflicted with dyspepsia are indescribable. The distress of the body is equalled or surpassed by the confusion and tortures of the mind, thus making its victims suffer double affliction. OUR NEW YORK FASHION LETTER.

Out Door Garments—Indian Shawls—Opera Cloaks and Opera Manners—New Year Costumes.

The more completely clad in seal, the more stylish this season. The few who can spend three or four hundred dollars for a cloak, revel in seal fur, but there is a large and ambitious class who make special effort perhaps, and buying a seal plush garment, rejoice thereat and feel themselves handsomely decked out. Not so extravagant after all, since one of these cloaks (of which excellent qualities run from fifty to seventy dollars) is dress and all, except indeed that the great warmth of them at times involves a slipping back, when behold the costume. Nevertheless, much good can thus be had of a dress otherwise unpresentable. These long cloaks however, especially in the best qualities, are very heavy, and there is a great run on short mantelets or jackets of seal fur or plush, which are lighter, and allow exhibition of a handsome costume. Ladies of good judgment are now, moreover, taking advantage of a special crisis in India shawls, since Lord & Taylor show for $100 what ten years ago sold for from $350 to $400, and far-seeing individuals are purchasing with an eye to the future. The supply is running low, and is in the hands of a few leading merchants. One would make a beautiful holiday gift.

FLUFFY BOAS.

With cloth or velvet jackets or wraps, young ladies are making a mighty spread of the very long and very fluffy boa, accompanied usually by muff to match. Almost alive seems this boa, one end now flung over the shoulder and trailing after the fair vision, now streaming in front and forming a prolonged source of twistings and small talk, distancing the demure cape, and a prelude, as prophets prophesy, to the incoming, by next season, of short-haired boas. Opera and evening cloaks open up a vista of beauty. White, pale and brilliant colored plush is the leading material; a sample one being of crimson plush made raglan shape, bordered around the lower edge with crimson fur, above which is exquisitely fine irridescent passementerie, eighteen or twenty inches deep; passementerie to match on the back and shoulders, and fur up the front. An enormous amount of attention is given by the fashionable wealthy to opera dressing, since each holder of a box has attached in the rear a small dressing room or salon where a vast deal of flirting, eating of candy, ices, etc., is carried on between the acts or during performances. Many of the millionaires of New York and their families have reached that point when pleasures no longer bring enjoyment. They have listened to opera so often that they cease to care for it, but as they must do something, go to pass the time, and with equally blase beaux, keep up a chatter and look to see how other millionaire families are dressed. The furnishing of some of these little opera salons runs up into the thousands.

NEW YEAR COSTUMES.

One of pale blue plush is trimmed with crystal bead embroidery quite covering the front breadth; polonaise draperies extend long on both sides and unite with the plain back breadth, which is trained and slightly bunched below the waist; waist tight fitting, with pestillion back, heart-shaped neck, long sleeves, and set off by crystal bead trimming. Another costume is silver brocade and pale pink tulle and crystal beads; the waist is chiefly of satin, made square neck and filled in with tulle, while a garniture of tulle and beads appears on the front and back; elbow sleeves, and train of brocade finished by satin ruffles, the front and sides of satin with rich embroidery of beads and tulle drapings. Some elegant dresses are being made of velvet, while as a greater novelty have come what is called "art fabrics," soft, crape-like goods made with drapery flowing from the shoulders, caught at the waist and resuming rather shadowy outlines for the skirt. A favorite combination is velvet with bead embroidery in classic patterns. These old-looking costumes suit slender figures.

A Recount of Votes.

At the meeting of the governor and council, Dec. 21st, Hon. J. H. Gallinger, chairman of the republican state committee and member of Congress from the second district, appeared in behalf of Hon. Martin A. Haynes, republican candidate for Congress in the first district, and gave notice that a recount of the vote for congressman in this district would be had as provided by law, and that the ballots would be called into the office of the secretary of state. The notice resulted in the postponement of the canvass of the congressional vote until the second Thursday in January, to which time an adjournment of the council meeting was made.

MATTERS IN YORK.

YORK CORNER, ME., Dec. 20th.

Talk about good pigs! Three neighbors have just slaughtered spring pigs as follows: Mr. Daniel Glynn, a pig that came April 1st and was killed Dec. 9th, dressed 362 pounds. Michael Conner's, about same age, dressed 346 lbs., and William Philbrook's, same age, dressed 350 lbs. Now we want to hear from "way back," and see if any three neighbors can beat those figures.

The railroad contractors are busy with their help in excavating and filling near Barrell's pond. The railroad track, we learn, will be under the new road near Oliver Varrell's house, there being quite a deep cut. The piles for the bridge across York river are fast being hauled to the landing. [In going from the cut towards Scotland it would be proper to call at Plaisted's, and see if one of those splendid albums wouldn't please your best girl.]

The postmaster at York Corner generously offers the patrons of his office to forward funds for subscriptions to any paper or magazine in the United States, free of expense to the subscriber, and no efforts will be spared to give the patrons of the office good service in every respect, Sundays and all other days alike.

The old cider-mill stands "out in the cold and snow, poor thing!" It will be housed some pleasant day soon. We haven't the statistics yet as to the amount of business it has done this fall. P.

RUSHING TO DEATH

in the attempt to swim the Niagara Whirlpool Rapids is no more reckless or dangerous than to trifle with disease which each day secures a stronger hold and hastens the end of life. This is specially true of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, and nervous headache, which though perhaps slight at first are extremely dangerous, and steadily secure a firmer grip until at last the agony is unendurable and sudden death brings relief.

These diseases can be cured by the use of Athlophoros which, in connection with Athlophoros Pills, never fails when properly used. Read the following from those who have tested it.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

I used one bottle of Athlophoros and my rheumatism left me. I have never been troubled with it since nor do I expect ever to be again, for the medicine cured me entirely of the painful disease. I recommend Athlophoros for I have faith in its curative powers. MRS. A. H. VESEY.

Great Falls, N. H., March 25, 1886.

Holyoke, Mass., May 31, 1886.

We have sold more Athlophoros since it appeared in the field of medicine than any other rheumatic remedy. If we could describe in detail all of the cases that have been cured by it, that have come under our notice, it would astonish you. We will say that no other medicine that has ever come under our notice has performed so many cures as Athlophoros. B. F. ARTHUR & Co.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

As West fell he fired, hitting Storr in the side, mortally wounding him; and while on the ground he fired twice more, severely wounding a young Indian with one bullet. Both desperadoes were dead before Belle Storr could use her revolver.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

in time. Kidney diseases may be prevented by purifying, renewing, and invigorating the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. When, through debility, the action of the kidneys is perverted, these organs rob the blood of its needed constituent, albumen, which is passed off in the urine, while worn out matter, which they should carry off from the blood, is allowed to remain. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the kidneys are restored to proper action, and Albuminuria, or is prevented. Ayer's Sarsaparilla also prevents inflammation of the kidneys, and other disorders of these organs. Mrs. Jas. W. Weld, Forest Hill st., Jamaica Plain, Mass., writes: "I have had a complication of diseases, but my greatest trouble has been with my kidneys. Four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla made me feel like a new person; as well and strong as ever." W. M. McDonald, 46 Summer st., Boston, Mass., had been troubled for years with Kidney Complaint. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, he not only

A LOCAL INDUSTRY.

A new business has recently been started in Portsmouth, which bids fair to occupy a very important place ameng our local industries. It is established in the building corner of State and Penhallow streets, so many years occupied as a grocery store by the Akermans, father and son, and is meeting with good success, the articles manufactured being in great demand. We refer to the National Oil Dressing company. This company manufacture lubricating oils for machinery, odorless and invaluable for all classes and sizes of machinery; oils for preserving leather, rendering it waterproof, soft and pliable; oils for the hair, for barber's use and for the dressing table; oil to be applied to horses' feet, to prevent balling up; and boot and shoe oil, which on being applied ,renders the use of rubbers unnecessary. A rubber dressing is also manufactured, for rubber goods, and a dressing for oil clothing worn by seamen. They also supply a carriage-top dressing, which it is claimed renders the top waterproof and imparts a fine polish.

We are glad to chronicle the starting of this enterprise, and trust it will meet with great success.

HOME FOR THE HOLIDAYS.

Messrs. Cunningham, Curtis, Kelley, Beacham, Hutchinson, Stavers, Montgomery, Safford, Bartlett, Philbrick, Hoyt, Locke and Humphreys, of Dartmouth college, are at home to spend the Christmas holidays.

AROUND HOME.

County Solicitor Eastman was in the city last evening.

Last week was a lively one for stocks. This is a livelier for stockings.

The announcement is made in the papers that Rev. O. H. Jasper, D. D., will shortly retire from the active work of the Methodist ministry.

A mission school-house is to be built near the Spalding school-house at the Creek, the coming spring.

Mr. Thos. H. Rider has purchased the Jonathan Morrison estate, south of his residence in Summer street, and will put it in order for rental.

Nathan Jones is about to erect a building for storage of carriages in Hanover street. His increasing business requires enlarged accommodations.

All the barber shops of the city will be closed on Christmas day at noon.

Mrs. Catherine L. Pearson, mother of the late John H. Pearson of this city, has been granted a pension.

The Portsmouth Shoe Co. are putting in the foundation for a boiler house on their grounds. The building will stand quite near the line of Islington street, and also in proximity to the residence of Mr. Joseph P. Foster.

Mr. Parry Randall has applied to be appointed United States vice consul at Rio Janeiro, Brazil, where he is married and settled. Mr. Randall has had experience in a seafaring life, and received a good education in the Portsmouth schools. It is quite likely that his claims will be noticed at Washington.

Col. Fred A. Barker, recently confirmed as United States marshal for the district of New Hampshire, as the successor of Ex-Marshal Patterson, appeared in the United States court at Concord on Tuesday, the 21st inst., and entered upon the discharge of his official duties. Col. Baker is the son of the late Col. Tileston A. Baker, who went from this city in June, 1861, as captain of Company A in the gallant Second New Hampshire regiment, and subsequently served as lieutenant colonel of the 14th N. H. Vols.

Ephraim C. Spinney, Esq., of Kittery, slipped and fell on the icy pavement at the corner of Market street and Market square a few days since, laming himself quite badly, but has so far recovered as to be able to be out again. In marked contrast to the usual custom, Mr. Spinney says he does not propose to make any claim against the city, the hour at which he fell having been so early in the morning that the street commissioner's forces could not possibly have got the sidewalks sanded.

Mr. William Henry Manson, the well known fish merchant of York who makes so many trips to this city, had one of the shafts of his pung broken one day last week while his steed was progressing toward home at a very rapid rate, and was sent flying to a lofty height through the air, and performed a number of remarkable evolutions before reaching terra firma. In consequence of this experience, it is said Mr. Manson contemplates soon putting into operation his flying machine, upon which he has been at work for many months.

The funeral services of the late Hon. James W. Johnson, one of the proprietors of the Quincy house, Boston, were held at that hotel on Wednesday, Dec. 22d, and very largely attended by Boston and New England people. Hon. Frank Jones, Col. C. A. Sinclair, and E. G. Peirce, Esq., of this city, were present.

MARITIME NOTES.

The governor and council, at their session Dec. 21st, appointed Capt. Albert Rand of this city a member of the board of pilot commissioners, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Capt. Joseph Grace.

The schooner Seabird has been lost with all hands on the passage from St. John, N. B., to Dipper harbor, Me.; the crew consisted of the captain, his two sons and an old man. The British schooner Hope, from Parsboro, N. S., for Newburyport, with coal, is over a month out, and is supposed to be lost; she has made the passage between the ports named in five days.

The schooner Emerald on the 21st inst. caught in one of her nets, set in Ipswich bay, a halibut weighing 225 lbs., which was brought into this port and sold to E. Newton & Co.

A petition is in circulation in York county, to be presented to the Maine legislature, asking that the close time be removed from lobster catching in Maine, and that none under 10 1-2 inches in length be caught at any time of the year. The idea is to limit the wholesale slaughter of small lobsters for canning purposes. A similar petition will be circulated in all seaport towns of the state.

The sloop Flash, of Beverly, Mass., which has been missing since Nov. 11th, was found Dec. 18th by Capt. Thomas Sargent, sunk in Eagle island channel, Beverly lower harbor. Capt. Sargent was out looking for matters connected with the other wrecks on the island recently, and saw something under water which, on being hooked, proved to be the main boom of the Flash, which had broken away, and raised it enough to identify the sail by the maker's name. He buoyed the wreck with a bottle, and will endeavor to raise her. The Flash went out with Joseph Bickford and Ephraim Beck on board, the wind being to the north and east, but it chopped around to the northwest, and the boat was evidently sunk where found. Several marine disasters were reported at that time.

A Great Falls paper says: "The much-talked of and greatly-feared panther has again made its appearance, and is once more a subject of discussion in Berwick. The animal is getting farther away from Berwick village and turns up in North Berwick, this time, on the farm of James Hussey. Monday morning, a young man at Hussey's house observed some kind of an animal coming down across the field toward the building. A nearer observation showed it to be a large animal, and the young man went into the house and secured a double-barrelled shot-gun. He approached to within about seventy-five yards of the animal, which crouched upon the ground. Taking good aim the young man fired. As he did so the animal leaped into the air and sprang towards him. Then he fired the second barrel, and the animal turned tail and fled into the woods. The animal could be easily tracked in the snow, and the leap it took when the first shot was fired was found to measure thirty feet. The young man says that the animal had a large head and, as he expressed it, 'looked more like a she lion than anything he could think of.' The young man is not alone in telling this story, for the other inmates of the house saw the whole affair, and tell it exactly as he does."

The Congregational club celebrated the 266th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims by a banquet and speeches in Music hall, Boston, on the evening of the 21st inst. Hon. James G. Blaine was one of the speakers.

In is announced that Detective Heald of the Maine Central railroad has discovered the person who has placed obstructions on the track in Farmington, Me., eight times within little more than a year. Heald pronounces him a crank.

The Boston & Maine railroad has now 233 locomotives, of which 130 belong to the leased lines. They all together last year ran 5,597,472 miles and consumed 127,810 tons of coal, and it cost $185,434.-90 to keep them in repair.

In the United States circuit court in Boston, Dec. 22d, before Judge Colt, there was a hearing in the case of Marcus P. Norton et al. vs. the European & North American Railway company, which is a bill in equity to set aside the foreclosure of the bondholders which was placed upon the road in 1870, and also to set aside the lease which was made to the Maine Central railroad. Decision reserved.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

Lydia E. Pinkham

A SAD STORY.

A Woman Tortured Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians, Relief at Last.

Mrs. T., a lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: "I had taken treatment from physicians for about nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and cried a good deal of my time. A year ago this summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last made up my mind to quit him and try your Compound, and with what a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I tried it and so sorry that I did not get hold of it nine years ago." The foregoing is from a letter to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sufferers by taking her Vegetable Compound may escape the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless agony.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: Very Dear Madam: My wife, Avie A. Green, has suffered with a displacement which caused her great pains (ill) I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to pur hase a bot le and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day.

Lord Randolph Churchill is a great coffee drinker, and is said to have a little gas stove of his own upon which he prepares his own cup of coffee each morning. He thinks no one knows how to make coffee but himself.—Detroit Free Press.

A Rich Newspaper Proprietor.

The richest newspaper proprietor in Baltimore, and probably the richest in the United States, is A. S. Abell, a native of Providence, R. I., who is still vigorous at 80 and estimated to be worth from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000.

Test for a Diamond.

There is an affecting anecdote told of an Englishman traveling all the way to Paris to consult a celebrated chemist there on the value of a splendid diamond in his possession, which, being the last of his store, he was anxious to dispose of summo pretio. At a glance the chemist recognized in the splendid diamond a white topaz merely—a very good sort of stone in its way, but no diamond. "Observe, said he, by illustration, "behind the stone, if it be a diamond, you will see one pin only, for the refraction of the diamond is single; but behind it, if it be a crystal, the pin will be doubled." He had to fix the stone in wax and the pin in wax behind it, so much the poor gentleman's hand shook. When lo! clearly behind it the pins were two (which, generally selected as they are of a type of worthlessness, in this instance represented a very considerable sum.)—The Cornhill Magazine.

London and Paris.

London is the one and only wonder in the world. The time is past when people go to Paris to find the ne plus ultra. Paris has its exceptional attractions, of course, and always must. But in London, which is the treasure house of the globe, you find everybody and everything. It is the Eden, the source of enjoyment, and well-informed travelers are gradually learning that fact, and their desire to participate in the good things of life takes them to London rather than to Paris.—Henry Ward Beecher in New York World.

BOSTON, October 19, 1876.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1846, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, to your like, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

The "Scotch Thistle."

Naval Architect Burgess of Boston has received a letter from Mr. George L. Watson, designer of the Scotch cutter Thistle, dated Glasgow, Dec. 8th, in reply to a cable despatch sent Mr. Watson asking for the water-line length of the Thistle. Mr. Watson in his letter declines to give Mr. Burgess the information desired, unless under the following conditions: "I will furnish you with the water-line length of the Thistle, provided you guarantee to design and built a yacht of the water-line length of the Thistle, and no other." This proposition Mr. Burgess refuses to accept, and in a letter sent Mr. Watson says:

My business is that of a naval architect. I design and build such yachts as yachting gentlemen favor me with orders for. This being the case, you will readily see that your proposal cannot be accepted by me. Were my labors confined to building yachts to defend the America's cup, matters might be somewhat different; but in any event I cannot agree to put myself in a position which would deprive me of carrying on the duties of my profession.

This correspondence indicates that the Scotch syndicate and designer do not intend to give any information about the Thistle which they can possibly avoid giving.

A Valuable Medical Treatise.

The edition for 1887 of the sterling medical annual, known as Hostetter's Almanac, is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States, Mexico, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western hemisphere. This almanac has been issued regularly at the commencement of every year for over one-fifth of a century. It combines, with the soundest practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calender, astronomical calculations, chronological items, etc., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's almanac for 1887 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., on receipt of a two-cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

At a recent tea party in New York state there were eleven very old ladies present. The youngest was 71 years old, the oldest 101; three were over 80, and their combined ages were 850.

How Often

We see some young man who has squandered his money and ruined his health by excesses, and before 30 years of age is an all broken-down played-out man! In all such cases I prescribe nature's tonic and nervine, Sulpher Bitters. They supply food for the brain, strengthen the nerves, and are successful in nine cases out of ten.—Old Physician.

In regard to the nomination of Colonel Roberts as collector at Bangor, Me., it is stated that the principal influence in his favor was that of General Fitz John Porter, his old commander, and of United States Marshal MacMahon of New York, who was associated with him on the board of managers of the Soldiers' Homes. Colonel Roberts was appointed to this office by President Johnson twenty years ago, but was not confirmed.

Physicians prescribe Ayer's Sarsaparilla in case of scrofula, and in every form of chronic disease, because this medicine is safer to take, and is more highly concentrated, than any other preparation. It can always be depended upon as an effective blood purifier.

A great trotting race between Oliver K. and Harry Wilkes, for $5,000 a side, has been arranged between the owners of those horses. The race will take place in San Francisco on the 2d of April, and will be best three in five, to harness. Five thousand dollars have been posted as a forfeit.

A toilet luxury in every respect, Ayer's Hair Vigor never fails to restore the youthful freshness and color to faded and gray hair. It also eradicates dandruff and prevents the hair from falling out.

John W. Mackay declines a unanimous election to the United States senate tendered him by the Nevada legislature.

Counterfeits are always made to look as near the original as possible. Housekeepers are cautioned against the many worthless and damaging imitations of James Pyle's Pearline, some put up in similar looking packages, and others with names sounding like Pearline, which dealers may endeavor to urge upon them.

It has been stated that a San Francisco ship-builder, who is to build cruisers for the government, has taken steps to import labor from Europe. A petition will be sent to the secretary of the navy, protesting against this action, and all congressmen will be petitioned to pass a law requiring that the cruisers be built by American labor. As there is already a stringent law against the importation of foreign labor under contract, it is hard to see what need there is for new legislation.

Dr. W. S. Hoyt, Point Pleasant, W. Va., says: "I have made a thorough test with Scott's Emulsion in Pulmonary troubles, and general debility and have been astonished at the good results, and as a remedy for children with Rickets or Marasmus, it is unequalled."

NOW IS ALL TIME!

Bethink thee, friend, who railest at the day,
Crying for "days of old" to mark a curse,
And hoping for a morrow without tears,
There is no time which can more joys convey Than e'en this fleeting moment. Close away
The past, with its cold skeletons of fears,
The future's fancied wealth of golden years,
And know thy youth, ere thou behold it
gray!
The sun ne'er shone more brightly in thy heart;
Yon bird will never sing a sweeter song.
If yesterday saw some dear joy depart,
To-day will bring a dearer one along;
Thus mount we to life's haven of content;
Now is all time—see it be nobly spent!

DAILY NEWS FROM SHIPS.

How Marine Reporters Gather Information from Sea Captains.

The marine department in the average daily newspaper in this city is a very extensive field of labor. It involves the recording not only of disasters of the deep, but the arrivals and departures of prominent persons on the great fleet of ocean steamers which enters this harbor, the nature and direction of the terrific gales and hurricanes which occasionally sweep the Atlantic and the passing and sighting of wreckage, derelicts and icebergs at sea. These are generally published, and the reading public gobble them up, but never pauses for a second to consider how they are collected. The majority believes that the reporters board each ship to obtain such information, but such is not always the fact.

Directly alongside of the imposing barge office at the battery stands a two-story wooden building. The exterior is painted a dull brown color and the words Ship News Office covers a space over the entrance. It is from this place that the tales of the sea in concise form emanate, and they are given to the representative members of the press, who dress and lengthen them at will. Every casualty and incident connected with the sea come through this source. The service is perfect now, so much so that a good item seldom escapes the news collector stationed at quarantine, who dispatches it by private wire to the little offices at the battery.

This collector, Richard Lee, a hard and faithful worker, operates in this way: From sunrise to sunset each day he roams about the quarantine grounds in a small Whitehall boat and rows alongside each incoming vessel, whether a steamer or a sailing craft of square or fore and aft rig. He hails the captain of each, inquires the name of the ship, her hailing port, where from, character of cargo, days consumed on the voyage, names of consigners, and whether she encountered fair weather or met with any unusual occurrence on the passage. The captain is compelled to answer these questions, but to save time he invariably throws a copy of the log to the boatman. If the vessel is a mail steamer it is the usual custom to lower a large quantity of press exchange papers and passenger lists to the small boat. These are taken ashore and shipped by the Staten Island ferry to this city. They always arrive a full hour before the steamer reaches her wharf.—New York Mail and Express.

The Chaplain's Capture.

The Rev. Casper Everhart, a Methodist preacher at Frederick, Md., who had been a chaplain in the Revolutionary army, was brought to Washington during the soujourn of Gen. Lafayette, and was a prominent guest at a banquet given by members of congress. When called upon, he told several Revolutionary anecdotes, and was about to resume his seat when some one inquired: "How was it, Mr. Everhart, that you, unarmed, took three British soldiers prisoners?" "But I was armed," he replied. "True, I had no gun, nor pistol, nor sword, but I had a powerful weapon, and one that, if used too often, is very deadly, and I used it on this occasion. It was a bottle of rum. I met these soldiers and entered into a little conversation with them, and finally invited them to go to a spring near by and take refreshing drinks. They required no persuasion, but went at once, stacked their arms, sat down, and soon became hors du combat, as our French allies used to say. Wishing to extend my hospitalities still further, I took their muskets, and invited them to accompany me to our camp. Duly appreciating my kindness in taking care of them when not in a fit condition to take care of themselves, they did not refuse my pressing invitation."—Ben: Perley Poore.

The Great Germanic Family.

The annual statistical register of the German empire for the years 1884-85 has just been published. It shows that in the entire world the number who speak the native language and follow German customs may be calculated at 70,000,000. Of these 42,000,000 belong to Germany, 8,000,000 to Austria, 2,000,000 to Hungary, 2,000,000 to Switzerland, 1,250,000 to Russia, so that there still remains 18,750,000 for other parts. Of these 3,250,000 are scattered in the remaining European countries, 7,000,000 in the United States and Canada, and 500,000 in South America. The remnant of 3,500,000 may be divided between Africa, Australia and Asia. No other European nation has yet attained to the high figure of 70,000,000. The great Germanic family is far more numerous than either the Slavs or the Latins.—New York Mail and Express.

"Tealeaves" is the name of a class of diseases arising, it is said, from the wrong use of tea.

"I have them on the hip," cried rheumatism seizing his victim and tossing him on a suffering bed. "Not so," he cried, "not so! Wait, my ancient foe, just five minutes, until the boy brings a bottle of Salvation Oil, then we'll see who wins the day."

The annual meeting of the New Hampshire State Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, was held in Manchester, commencing Dec. 21st.

Maurice Welsh, shepherd on the farm of Hon. John E. Russell at Leicester, Mass., was badly bitten by a mad dog on the 22d inst.

Captain Mitchell, of the bark Antoine Sala, New York and Havana trade, came home in May, entirely helpless with rheumatism. He went to the mountains, but receiving no benefit, at his wife's request began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. He immediately began to improve; in two months his rheumatism was all gone, and he sailed in command of his vessel a well man. Hood's Sarsaparilla will help you. Sold by all druggists.

Missionary Needed.

There is need of an energetic missionary at Portland, Me.,—or of a more energetic police force. A despatch of the 22d from that place says:

For some time past the Jews of this city have complained of numerous unfriendly acts on the part of a portion of their Christian fellow citizens. From snowballing Hebrews when they appeared in certain streets, the assailing parties proceeded to more aggressive measures, and in two instances, Jews were beaten, and came out of the encounter with black eyes. Prominent Hebrews presented a statement of their ill-treatment to the mayor, and also a numerously signed petition requesting the enforcement of order. Mayor Chapman ordered the city marshal to protect them to the full extent of his power. The general sentiment of the people is with the Jews.

A Square Fight.

A despatch of Dec. 22d from Fall River, Mass., is as follows: "The help at the Wamsutta Woollen Mills were paid in full this afternoon, and the mills shut down to-night. The finishing department will run until the work on hand is completed. The other departments will be shut down pending a settlement of the strike of the weavers. This action is carrying out the decision announced by the management, of not recognizing any labor organizations or treating with any committee. The management claim that the old weavers have left voluntarily, and are no longer in the employ of the mill. They will not now be recognized except as individuals seeking employment."

Dennis O'Connor of Biddeford, the undertaker who sold to Frank Wildes, the Dayton cider maker, the keg which originally contained embalming fluid, and which was instrumental in causing the death of the late James W. Dennett of Biddeford, has been sued by Mr. Dennett and wife, parents of the young man. The papers in two suits have been served upon Mr. O'Connor; one is an action brought by Winfield S. Dennett, as administrator of the late James W. Dennett, against O'Connor, for the latter's negligence, which the coroner's jury found led to the death of the boy. The other is an action brought by Mrs. Olive A. Dennett against O'Connor, for criminal negligence, which led to her critical sickness. Each suit is for the sum of $10,000. The case of W. S. Dennett vs. O'Connor will come up for trial in the January term of the supreme court to be held in Saco; the other case will not be tried at this term.

George W. Nason died in Lynn, Mass., Dec. 19th, of abscess of the liver, in the 57th year of his age. He was born in South Berwick, Me., his father being the late Capt. Oliver Nason. He was a ship carpenter by trade, and at different times worked at Kennebunkport, Me., at the Green Point, N. Y., ship yard, and the Portsmouth navy yard; at the latter place he assisted in rebuilding the U. S. S. Franklin, the first vessel that was ever "rebuilt" in our navy to such an extent that when finished she was of wholly different size, model and material than originally, and he also aided in constructing the historic Kearsarge. During the war he, with his five brothers, joined the navy, and served to the close. He was twice married, and had seven children by his first wife, five of whom survive him. After the close of the war he began the work of house carpentering, and did some fine jobs, one of which was on the Freewill Baptist church in Haverhill, Mass., and later, on the academy at Kingston, N. H., where, three years ago, he fell from the top to the bottom, and was injured so that he never fully recovered.

The Eliot (Me.) Literary Union held a very interesting public meeting on Wednesday evening of this week, Mr. Eddie Dixon presiding. The programme consisted of the reading of the Literary Star, edited by Miss M. Lizzie Spinney and Mr. C. H. Staples; instrumental and vocal music by Misses Ella and Laura Dame; and a debate on the following: "Resolved, that the republican party has been of greater benefit to the country than the democratic party;" Principal F. W. Staples supported the affirmative, and Major David Urch the negative, and it was decided in favor of the affirmative.

Marseilles promises to rival New York as a centre of municipal corruption, says the Pall Mall Gazette, and there is a curious parallelism between the circumstances of the public dishonesty of the two towns. In each case a number of councillors or aldermen received large bribes in shares of an enterprise to be paid for by the state, in consideration of their functional assistance in securing the original contract. Of course, in New York the spoil was much greater, the delinquents more numerous, and the whole affair on a larger scale. In the one case it was a railway in Broadway, and the "boodle," as it is called in that new slang which springs up in every emergency in America, was $500,000, while in Marseilles it was a more or less effective method of clearing cesspools, and the "boodle" was 200,000 francs.

Fire in Philadelphia on the 21st inst. did $150,000 damage to Needler & Patterson, dry goods, and $115,000 to J. M. Mares & Co., druggists.

Mr. Parnell's friends in London now state that he has been very sick, and for several weeks his condition has been dangerous. When he has sufficiently recovered he will convene the Irish parliamentary party in council.

Herr Von Mohl, formerly German consul at St. Petersburg, has been appointed master of ceremonies at the court of Japan, the Japanese Emperor having adopted the etiquette of the Prussian court.

The oldest voter in Connecticut is Levi Johnson of Torrington, aged ninety-seven years, and born a slave in Connecticut. His father was a slave in Southington, and his mother a runaway slave from New York.

The bill providing for a federal building at Dover will be called up in the house by either Mr. Gallinger or Mr. Haynes, on the first opportunity.

Umbrellas and Human Nature.

A Boston philanthropist and student of human nature bought a dozen cheap umbrellas, had a nickel plate inserted in each handle, on which was his address and the request that the umbrella be returned, and on the first rainy day went out on the street and handed one to each umbrellaless woman that he met. All were returned within a week, but one, and in place of that came a note saying that it had been stolen and that the writer would pay for it. The next rainy day he handed the umbrellas to twelve unprotected men. He never saw but one of them again, and that was brought in by a friend who said he had stolen it at a church festival.

RUSHING TO DEATH

in the attempt to swim the Niagara Whirlpool Rapids is no more reckless or dangerous than to trifle with disease which each day secures a stronger hold and hastens the end of life. This is specially true of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, and nervous headache, which though perhaps slight at first are extremely dangerous, and steadily secure a firmer grip until at last the agony is unendurable and sudden death brings relief.

These diseases can be cured by the use of Athlophoros which, in connection with Athlophoros Pills, never fails when properly used. Read the following from those who have tested it.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

I used one bottle of Athlophoros and my rheumatism left me. I have never been troubled with it since nor do I expect ever to be again, for the medicine cured me entirely of the painful disease. I recommend Athlophoros for I have faith in its curative powers. MRS. A. H. VERRY.

Great Falls, N. H., March 25, 1886.

Holyoke, Mass., May 31, 1886.

We have sold more Athlophoros since it appeared in the field of medicine than any other rheumatic remedy. If we could describe in detail all of the cases that have been cured by it, that have come under our notice, it would astonish you. We will say that no other medicine that has ever come under our notice has performed so many cures as Athlophoros.

B. F. ARTHUR & Co.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 1

A COINCIDENCE.

The Camenæum in Vaughan street, which was built in 1784 for a church, and afterwards fitted up and used as a theatre, show and concert hall, and lastly for a stable, was finally destroyed by fire in the year 1883, when it was ninety-nine years old. The original portion of the Rockingham house, built in 1785 by Woodbury Langdon, was destroyed by fire in 1884, and was also ninety-nine years of age when consumed. This may be a hint to those inhabiting tenements of that age (ninety-nine years) of their liability to incineration. M. T. M.

Judge Gardner of the Massachusetts supreme court has given a decision in the case of Col. John H. George vs. the Boston & Lowell railroad, deciding for the plaintiff for $3330. This was a trial to recover $5000 for services before the New Hampshire legislature in 1883.

The amount of death claims paid by Mutual Life Insurance company of New York for the week ending Dec. 17th, was $135,124.46. Total endowments paid for the same time, $26,383.34.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Insley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug, act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They

me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Common Council, Thursday evening, Dec. 23d, President Crowley in the chair:

Records of the last meeting were read and approved.

A joint resolution relating to the sale of the city farm was introduced, and referred to committee on bills on their second reading. It is as follows:

Resolved by the City Councils of the City of Portsmouth,

That the joint standing committee on city lands and buildings of the City Councils be authorized and directed forthwith to advertise for proposals for the purchase of the land composing the city farm and buildings thereon or any part thereof, reserving the right to the city to reject any or all proposals.

That if any of the proposals received are satisfactory and for the best interests of the city in the opinion of said committee, the committee are hereby authorized to accept and agree to the same in behalf of the city and to sell and convey said farm and buildings or any part thereof in accordance with such accepted proposal or proposals, and in behalf of the city to execute and deliver good and sufficient deeds therefor to the purchasers.

That so much of the proceeds of such sales as may be necessary be applied and used by said committee in obtaining and providing for the city suitable land and buildings for the proper care and support of the poor, and the balance paid into the city treasury.

An amendment to Section 18, Chap. VIII, of the Compiled Ordinances, relative to the pay of the police, was introduced, and referred to the committee on bills on their second reading. It provides that—

The watchmen shall receive in full for their services as watchmen, constables and police officers, two dollars per night.

An ordinance sent down from the Board of Aldermen, fixing the compensation of the city solicitor, was read, and referred to the committee on bills on their second reading.

Adjourned for one week.

ASHES-BARRELS.

Householders are notified that there is no use in their putting out ashes-barrels Saturday morning, as the city teams will not be around to remove them, and if they are set out they will simply be curb-stone ornaments over Sunday.

A SLIGHT EXAGGERATION.

We learn from a gentleman very close to Gov. Currier, that there are nearly 100 applicants for the position of bank commissioner, made vacant by the death of Hon. Buel C. Carter.—Portsmouth Penny Post, Dec. 14th.

We learn from Gov. Currier that when this item was printed there had been just one application for the vacant commissionship, and that was withdrawn when the gentleman learned that the appointment would be only for the unexpired term; and that at no time were there more than four candidates for the position.—Manchester Mirror, 22d.

LOST AND FOUND.

One of the school teachers of this city, who lives in a neighboring town, on Wednesday afternoon, 22d, received from the city treasurer her month's salary, and immediately proceeded to lose it on the street. She then proceeded home, on reaching which she discovered that the envelope containing the money was gone, and as may be supposed felt more concern at her loss than she did confidence in its recovery. A male relative of the lady at once harnessed up a team and drove into the city, to advertise the loss in the next morning's Chronicle, but on visiting our office was agreeably surprised to learn that the envelope and contents had been picked up on the street by a gentleman who only required proof of ownership to restore it. As the hour was not late the gentleman was at once waited upon, satisfactory proof given, and the lost treasure was shortly restored to its owner, who no doubt slept more soundly that night than she had anticipated. Nobody likes to lose money just before Christmas.

A bundle which was lost from a team on Wednesday afternoon, and was advertised in Thursday's Chronicle, was brought into the office before nine o'clock in the forenoon on that day.

THE SAME OLD HORN-BLOWER.

A former resident of Dover, but who for thirty years past has lived in Winona, Minn., writes to Foster's Democrat as follows:

I see in the Democrat occasionally the name of Capt. Moses P. Warren, pilot of the steamer Mount Washington, and police officer at the Boston & Maine depot in Dover. Can this be the Moses P. Warren who used to pilot the packet "Greyhound" forty-three years ago down the river from Dover to Portsmouth when I was a lad? If so, I knew Moses very well. Many a time and oft has he awakened me from my boyhood slumbers between two and three in the morning, when he used to go around town tooting his horn, calling up those who wanted to go down in his packet to Portsmouth for the low sum of 12 1-2 cents a trip! Capt. Warren was my personal friend, and if this is the same person I am heartily glad to see his name in print occasionally. It revives the early memories of the past, and brings me back to my school-boy days when I used to "play hookey" with the "landing boys" who are now nearly all passed away.

To this the Democrat replies: "Our friend of Winona is right. Mr. Warren is the same old sixpence who used to blow the horn referred to. He is about as young as ever, and hale and happy."

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

THURSDAY, Dec. 23d.

The noble army of peripatetic bummers has been making itself so numerously manifest in this city of late, in the endeavor to secure comfortable winter quarters at Brentwood, that the police authorities have concluded to give a few of its members a trifle more than they want, by way of reminder that there is a tramp law in this state. James Burns happened to be the first favorable subject, and on Thursday forenoon he was before the court on a charge of being a tramp. He was held in $100 for his appearance at the April term of the supreme court to answer to the charge, and in default of sureties was committed to jail.

A middle aged man who in his younger days was a leader of the local fashions and a popular society man, and who possessed more than average conversational, literary and musical abilities, was assessed $9.90 for drunkenness, with the alternative of about a month at Brentwood.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Annie F. Conlon, Seaward, has been chartered to bring coal to this port for J. Albert Walker.

The schooner Hope, Moore master, which had been given up for lost, having been over a month on the passage from Parsboro, N. S., to Newburyport—a trip once made by the same vessel in four days—arrived in Portsmouth lower harbor on the 22d inst.

The fishing schooner Highland Light, late of Gloucester, confiscated by the Canadian government for an acknowledged infraction of the fishery regulations, has been converted into a cruiser by her new owners, and named the Vigilant.

Rowe & Jordan, of Gloucester, Mass., owners of the fishing schooner Golden Hind, have entered suit against the Canadian government for $5000, on account of the Canadian cruiser Conrad having refused the Golden Hind permission to obtain a needed supply of water while in the North Bay last season. At the same time that the Canadian officials were violating the dictates of common humanity in their churlish ill-will toward American fishermen, Canadian fishing vessels were effecting repairs and fitting for sea in our ports; and the authority to retaliate, placed by Congress in the hands of President Cleveland, was quietly resting in a pigeon-hole of his desk.

Thursday, the 23d, was pay day at the navy yard.

It is not the expense of a Christmas gift that makes it precious. It is the heart and good feeling that goes with it.

The Unitarian Sunday school will hold a Christmas festival in Franklin hall, Monday evening, Dec. 27th.

The Franklin skating rink will be open Christmas afternoon from 2:30 to five o'clock, and in the evening from 7:30 to ten o'clock; music by a band.

There is trouble at the shoe factory of McKean & Appleton at Salem, Mass., and the "sandwich boy" has been put on duty in front of the factory, with a banner warning McKay stitchers to keep away, "per order of the McKay Stitchers' Union." About six weeks ago a new foreman, Mr. Bridges, who has been foreman for E. P. Dodge & Co. in this city and at Newburyport for a number of years, was hired, and it is with him the McKay stitchers have had the trouble.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequaled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

A SAD STORY.

A Woman Tortured Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians. Relief at Last.

Mrs. T., a lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: "I had taken treatment from physicians for about nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and cried a good deal of my time. A year ago this summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last made up my mind to quit him and try your Compound, and with what a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I tried it and so sorry that I did not get hold of it nine years ago." The foregoing is from a letter to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and suffrers by taking her Vegetable Compound may escape the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless agony.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: Very Dear Madam: My wife, Arie A. Green, has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I weet 13 miles to your house a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day.

Mesmerizing by Telephone.

A professor of mesmerism who visited Portsmouth recently was interviewed by a local reporter, who, after questioning him on a variety of matters, asked whether he had ever succeeded in casting a mystic spell over a subject who was at a distance. "Yes," was the professor's response. "At Glasgow I was successful in mesmerizing by telephone. I had previously experimented on some young men, and I instructed them to place themselves at a telephone in the offices of Messrs. Lipton, who are large butter and egg merchants. I was in Messrs. Currie, Thompson & Co's office, and gave them directions by wire and what to do. I think expectation had a good deal to do with it, but, at all events, they all went off into a trance, and eminent physicians in Glasgow satisfied themselves of the genuineness of the phenomena by running pins and needles into them."—Court Journal.

The Palm Tree in Cuba.

The palm tree—"Palma Real"—though so much written on and so familiar to many, your readers may not object to have once more treated, even though it be by my humble pen.

This tree is of great value to the inhabitants of Cuba, every part of it being made use of by them. The hard white portion of the trunk—cut into long trough-shaped planks—the "yagua" and the "guano"—the leaves of the palm cut off and dried—are used by the "Guajiros" (the white country population or peasantry of Cuba) to build their "bohios" or huts. Of the fibrous wood, just under the bark, rope is made. The flowers bursting forth from their green covering by which they are enveloped like an immense ear of corn, into a golden feathery bloom form berries called "palmiche," on which pigs feed and grow very fat.—Cuba Cor. Well-Earned Fame.

Twenty years ago there located in the city of Buffalo a young and unknown doctor, who, unassisted by wealthy patronage or introduction, had but patience, honor, industry and skill as his stock in trade. Upon these four elements of character he has long since succeeded in rearing a giant and substantial enterprise —alike a credit to the state and country, and a priceless boon of healing and relief to poor humanity. Dr. R. V. Pierce's World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute to-day stands out amongst the leading institutions of the age as a monumental example of what integrity, learning and enterprise can accomplish. In this far-famed institution luxury and skill go hand in hand. A corps of eighteen experienced and skillful physicians and surgeons guarantee the most careful, conscientious and successful treatment, while every mechanical appliance and facility for treatment that learning can develop and suffering humanity utilize, is at the service of the many patrons of this grand establishment.

At New Orleans, Dec. 23d, Second Engineer Thomas Hunter and three Chinese firemen of the British steamer Suez were probably fatally burned by the explosion of gas in the vessel's coal bunkers, caused by the flame of a lamp which Hunter carried. Three other Chinamen were badly burned.

Worth Knowing.

Allcock's are the only genuine porous plasters.

All other so-called porous plasters are imitations.

All so-called improvements and new ingredients are humbugs.

When you buy Allcock's Porous Plasters you obtain the best plasters made.

George Semon of Charlotte, Mich., was poor and shiftless, and Mrs. Semon was thrifty. She became disgusted with George's lack of enterprise, sued for a divorce, and after much trouble secured it. Three days later Semon received notice that an aunt had died in France leaving him $30,000. Mr. Semon thinks he can get along all right now, and Mrs. Semon is wondering whether she ought not to go back and ask to be forgiven.

How Often

We see some young man who has squandered his money and ruined his health by excesses, and before 30 years of age is an all broken-down played-out man! In all such cases I prescribe nature's tonic and nervine, Sulpher Bitters. They supply food for the brain, strengthen the nerves, and are successful in nine cases out of ten.—Old Physician.

Chief E. Owens, the receiving teller of the Third National bank of St. Louis, who, in 1882, embezzled $200,000 of the funds of that bank, and who has been serving sentence in the Chester, Ill., penitentiary for that crime, has been pardoned by the president after serving about half of his term of five years.

Physicians prescribe Ayer's Sarsaparilla in case of scrofula, and in every form of chronic disease, because this medicine is safer to take, and is more highly concentrated, than any other preparation. It can always be depended upon as an effective blood purifier.

George Willsey of Pownal, Vt., has confessed on his dying bed that he and John Boulton killed Hiland Walker of Williamstown five years ago, and put the body on a railroad track to be run over by the cars. Boulton is now in the Massachusetts state prison for car robbery.

A toilet luxury in every respect, Ayer's Hair Vigor never fails to restore the youthful freshness and color to faded and gray hair. It also eradicates dandruff and prevents the hair from falling out.

The directors of the Canal National bank of Portland, Me., announce that the exact loss to the bank by the defalcation of Blackstone is $56,509.48. Nothing has been heard from Blackstone since he left.

Counterfeits are always made to look as near the original as possible. Housekeepers are cautioned against the many worthless and damaging imitations of James Pyle's Pearline, some put up in similar looking packages, and others with names sounding like Pearline, which dealers may endeavor to urge upon them.

Lord Randolph Churchill has resigned as chancellor of the exchequer.

Four tenants recently evicted at Tinhalla, near Carrick-on-Suir, county Tipperary, Ireland, have re-occupied their holdings upon an agreement of fifteen years' purchase. The event has caused great rejoicing.

The Dublin Nation advises Irish tenants, in event of the "plan of campaign" failing, to keep the rent money themselves as an essential condition of victory, and not to pay rack-rents, thus virtually abolishing landlords in Ireland.

PLANT ACCLIMATIZATION.

Failure of the Watercress—The Thistle in Australia—The Sweetbriar.

Our failures in the acclimatization of vegetable life have almost always been due to sentiment. The useful plants and trees have, as a rule, flourished admirably. For example, Mr. J. A. Froude states in his "Oceana" that the oats, barley, peas, beans and potatoes were produced in such luxuriance in Ballarat that he could believe Herodotus' account of the crops grown on the plains of Babylon. A reaping machine had stopped in a field of oats, the stems of which stood up like a wall, and seemed as if no horse could force a passage through them. For seventeen successive years the ground had been cropped and not a particle of manure had been put upon it. The strangest point about it was that there were no weeds, and Mr. Froude offers the rather bold suggestion that "weeds are said to be a product of high civilization and do not exist in nature."

Almost the only failure in useful plants has been the watercress. Introduced some years ago into New Zeland, it has spread as rapidly as did the "American weed" in our own country, choking up the rivers and involving the annual outlay of many thousand pounds in keeping the rivers sufficiently clear for navigable purposes. Otago and Canterbury have been severe sufferers from the watercress. Sentiment, however, has always been a deadly foe to the colonist; for example, some thirty years ago a Scotch emigrant to Australia took with him a thistle in a flower pot. Great were the rejoicings among the Scotch colonists, a dinner was given in in honor of the national plant, and it was then carefully transferred to the soil. Now it has played the same part on land as the watercress in the rivers, and has rendered whole tracts of land useless. It defies all attempts at extirpation and great sums of money are paid yearly in restraining the once welcomed plant. That the thistle would probably become an injurious plant ought to have been anticipated, and the very seeds should have been prohibited as relentlessly as we prohibit the Colorado beetle.

But who would have thought that the sweetbriar could do any harm? At home we are only too glad to have it in our gardens, and a sweetbriar hedge is a thing of joy and an object of justifiable pride. No one, therefore, would blamed the missionary and his wife who took with them a plant of sweetbriar as a fragrant memorial of their garden in the old country. But when set in the fresh rich soil of Australia that plant grew with almost savage fury. It drove great roots into the ground, developed itself from a shrub into a tree, and spread with such alarming rapidity that it is quite as troublesome as the thistle.

Tasmania, which is to the mainland of Australia what the Isle of Wight is to England, has suffered terrfbly from the sweetbriar. New Zealand has fared no better. Mr. Froude states that it is a worse foe to the agriculturist than the native fern. "At home so chary of growth, it expands here into vast bushes, becomes a weed and spreads like a weed. It overruns whole fields in two or three seasons, will turn a cleared farm into an impenetrable thicket, and has to be torn out with cart ropes and teams of horses." The reason for this astonishing growth of the thistle and sweetbriar is the same as that which accounts for the fecundity of the rabbit and sparrow. The rich and fertile soil affords the plants abundance of food, and the native flora is so feeble that the sturdy intruders have no rivals to check their progress.—Longman's Magazine.

The Earth's "Ups and Downs."

A few stray indications here and there show that the creation of the world is as yet far from complete. We know that the Andes have subsided 220 feet in seventy years. Only two years ago islands disappeared and other islands took their places in the straits of Sunda. Less than seventy years ago a district 2,000 miles square, suddenly plunged beneath the Indian ocean, with all its inhabitants, their homes, their cities and their forts, and has never reappeared. The coast of Greenland is known to be slowly sinking into the sea. So is the coast of Sweden and Norway, though the subsidence is slower. Chinese geographers report remarkable changes in the configuration of their coast since their first maps were drawn. But these changes are so slow and so slight that they escape the notice of all but scientific observers. The mass of mankind believe that the earth is firm. Science, however, preserves the record of alternate upheavals and depressions more vast than anything which appears to be going on now.—San Francisco Call.

A Two-Faced Statue.

A Boston newspaper man says that Greenough's statue of Franklin in that city is worth studying, because it illustrates a theory for which the sculptor had the authority of the great physiognomist, Lavater. It is that each side of the human face represents different phases of human nature, man being a dual animal, with a double set of characteristics. On one side of the bronze face of Franklin Greenough has depicted the expression of the man of science who drew the lightning from the clouds; on the other he has represented the features of the author of the homely philosophy embodied in Poor Richard's Almanac.—Chicago Herald.

The poor imagine that the rich live in paradise. I know that the most of them live in a gilded hell.—Col. Bob Ingersoll.

CHRISTMAS.

In extending our editorial greeting to our patrons at this happy season, we renew our wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. Chrismas, it is true, comes but once a year, and yet to him who toils unceasingly with his pen, there seems to be in the frequency of its arrival something which reminds him that there is nothing to suggest to his readers but the old, old story.

The enjoyments of Christmas are better appreciated than described. We greet our kindred and friends with cheerful hopes and pleasant anticipations. We in our festivities, perhaps, do not pause to consider as much the significance of the anniversary as the mode in which we and our guests and households can best enjoy it all. For the young, the gratification of all that clusters around Christmas is always pleasing to behold. For those of maturer years, the rich associations, the lasting blessings of Christianity, the religion of civilized man, are incapable of being estimated. Let us cherish always this happy festival, and amid our pleasures and pastimes not lose sight of the peculiar significance which this anniversary always teaches.

A Strike Ended.

In Fall River, Mass., Dec. 23d, Senator Howard, grand master workman of district No. 30, Knights of Labor, and Capt. Thomas B. Pike of Lowell, of the executive board of the Knights of Labor, had a long conference with President Eddy and Treasurer Hopkins of the Wamsutta woollen mills, regarding the strike of weavers. The mill officials would not make any concessions, but an agreement was finally reached by which all the weavers who struck will be taken back if they apply for work; but the weavers whose discharge caused the strike will not be taken back. Senator Howard and Capt. Pike addressed a meeting of strikers in the afternoon, and after a long discussion the strikers voted to go back to work Monday, the 27th, on the conditions offered.

Grand California Excursions.

The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway is out with a new list of dates for its unrivaled first class excursions to California, covering several dates (by all routes) during the months of December, January, February and March, at extremely low rates. For detailed information, tickets, sleeping car accommodation, etc., apply to nearest ticket agent or address, E. A. HOLBROOK, G. T. & P. A., C. R. I. & P. Ry., Chicago, Ill.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

An exchange says: "The Kittery navy yard will be all but abandoned. No order has been issued relative to its future, but it is certain that no more vessels will be repaired there, and it is understood that it will be used simply as a place for ships to run into, and for the recuperation and acclimatization of men returning from duty in the far southern waters." Per contra, a Washington despatch says the survey of the Kearsarge shows that she can be fully repaired at an expense well within the twenty per cent limit, and that work upon her will be commenced early in January.

A general court-martial has been appointed to meet at the New York navy yard, the detail for the court being Commander H. B. Robinson, Lieutenant-Commanders John McGowan and J. C. Rich, Lieutenants William Little, A. B. Speyers, George A. Calhoun and York Noel, with Captain McLane Tilton as judge advocate.

Thomas Fitzimmons, president of the Hoboken, N. J., board of aldermen, is under arrest, charged with embezzling several thousand dollars from the State Line Steamship company, while employed as agent at Hoboken.

Fred S. Rockwell, a young tea merchant of Red Bank, N. J., who recently created a sensation by eloping with the wife of Sidney B. West, has been arrested at New Haven, Conn., on a warrant charging him with neglecting to support his family. Rockwell was taken to jail as he could not furnish a bondsman.

The corporation of Portsmouth, England, are in great trouble about their hats. On a recent occasion, when the mayor and aldermen went to church in state, it seems that some of the party appeared in such shocking bad hats that the impressive effect of the procession was entirely ruined. On another occasion a frivolous alderman attended a solemn civic function in a white hat. This brought matters to a crisis, says Truth, and one of the funniest debates that ever enlivened a town council took place last week on a motion in favor of the adoption of an official hat. The difficulty was to agree on a suitable head covering. There was a fair show of opinion in favor of the three-cornered cocked hat, but it was overborne by a few aldermen with a stronger sense of the ridiculous than the sublime.

RUSHING TO DEATH

in the attempt to swim the Niagara Whirlpool Rapids is no more reckless or dangerous than to trifle with disease which each day secures a stronger hold and hastens the end of life. This is specially true of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, and nervous headache, which though perhaps slight at first are extremely dangerous, and steadily secure a firmer grip until at last the agony is unendurable and sudden death brings relief.

These diseases can be cured by the use of Athlophoros which, in connection with Athlophoros Pills, never fails when properly used. Read the following from those who have tested it.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

I used one bottle of Athlophoros and my rheumatism left me. I have never been troubled with it since nor do I expect ever to be again, for the medicine cured me entirely of the painful disease. I recommend Athlophoros for I have faith in its curative powers. MRS. A. H. VERRY.

Great Falls, N. H., March 25, 1886.

Holyoke, Mass., May 31, 1886.

We have sold more Athlophoros since it appeared in the field of medicine than any other rheumatic remedy. If we could describe in detail all of the cases that have been cured by it, that have come under our notice, it would astonish you. We will say that no other medicine that has ever come under our notice has performed so many cures as Athlophoros. B. F. ARTHUR & Co.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

Mr. Blaine, on his returning journey toward home this week, after his practical advice to the Congregationalists in Boston, began to have twinges of rheumatism. On his arrival here he wired his medical adviser to meet him on his arrival at Augusta and begin a treatment to dispel his aches and pains. Is it possible that presidential anticipations too freely indulged in, tend to develop this kind of disease? There was Randall terribly used up, not long since; later on, Mr. Cleveland was a severe sufferer; and now the Maine statesman takes his turn. It could not have been that the wines of the Pilgrims' banquet could thus early make manifest their effects upon the system. It must have been the sting of the presidential bee.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Insley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from Indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug, act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They

Cured

me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

AN ANCIENT CONTRACT.

Col. Wm. H. Sise has in his possession a contract for the building of two vessels 120 years ago, which reads as follows:

Mem. of An Agreement made this twenty-seventh day of Novem 1766 between Otis Baker of Dover and Daniel Rindge of Portsmo in the Province of New Hampshire. The said Baker at his own cost and charge agrees to build for said Rindge two single-decked vessels, the one to be fifty-three feet keel, twenty-one and half feet beam and ten feet hold, two feet of the rake to be added to the length of the keel, and to be four feet waist. The other to be fifty-six feet keel, twenty-two feet beam, and ten and half feet in the hold, two feet of the rake to be added to the length of the keel, and to be four feet waist. To be measured agreeable to the dimensions aforesaid, accordg to the custom of Piscataqua river.—The timbers to be sound and good, principally white and black oak; the outboard running plank to be two and half inches thick, and under the wales and at the floor timber heads three inches thick, and white oak.—The deck plank to be two and half thick—and all the work to be performed in a good and workmanlike manner.—Said Baker to find masts, booms and bowsprits, &c., for them. They are to be stringed and gunnelled.

For which vessels delivered afloat to said Rindge, said Baker is to have of said Rindge in pay for them eight hogsheads of molasses at two shillings per gallon, six hogsheads of rum at three shillings and sixpence per gallon, and ten hundred of sugar at fifty shillings per hundred; and in cash as the vessells are carried on, one hundred and twelve pounds ten shillings, and the remainder in English goods at the rate of two hundred and fifty pounds lawful money for one hundred pounds of first cost of goods in England.—Said Rindge is to find iron work, oakum, pitch, deck nails, &c.—The smallest vessell to be launched in all May, the other to be launched in all September; and for the consideration of an hogshead of rum to be pd to said Baker by said Rindge, the two vessells are to be delivered to said Rindge over the lower ware.

OTIS BAKER,
DANIEL RINDGE.

Said Vessells to have good long floors. The above vessells are to be at sixty-five shillings per tun measured by the dimensions aforesaid accordg to the custom of this river.

OTIS BAKER,
DANL. RINDGE.

This paper is endorsed on the outside "Otis Baker Esqr. his Agreemt, 1766," and with figures giving the tonnage measurement of the two vessels, and their agreed price, as follows:

53—21 1-2	10 feet hold
56—22	10 1-2
120 Tunns—65s	390l

This contract is in the handwriting of Daniel Rindge, who filled so large a space in the business world of Portsmouth a century and a quarter ago, and is all contained on a half sheet of paper but little larger than the ordinary note paper of the present day. Shipwrights will be struck with the "chunky" dimensions of the vessels, which were from one-quarter to one-third wider, and about double the depth of hold, of modern vessels of the same length of keel. Another noticeable feature is the odd vagueness of some of the provisions of the agreement, when compared with the minute specifications of a modern contract for building a ship. For instance, the timbers were to be "principally" white and black oak; the contractor was to find "bowsprits, &c.," and the merchant was to find "deck nails, &c.;" and the contractor was to receive a certain amount in cash "as the vessells were carried on," no time or conditions of payment being mentioned. As an afterthought, apparently, the contracting parties agreed that the vessels should "have good long floors," the length that should be considered good not being specified; and last of all, the price per ton to be paid for building the vessels was inserted in the document, having been left out of its body. In drawing up this agreement, a great deal seems to have been left to the honor of the contracting parties.

If that "&c." could only be worked into contracts for the building of naval vessels, what a vast array of things it would include.

James Hart, a vagrant, was sent to jail for six months, and ordered to pay $8.81 costs. He only came out of jail that morning.

AN ARTISTIC OFFICIAL.

A correspondent of the Boston Globe, in a letter to that paper under the heading "An artistic register of deeds" says:

Among the county officers in this state, re-elected at the November election "by a large majority," is Frank S. Tompkins of Dover, register of deeds for Strafford county, for whom nearly all parties seemed ready to vote. Mr. Tompkins, in addition to being a very competent and obliging official, is also an artist. He has been a pupil of John J. Enneking of Boston, and shows much merit as a landscape painter. The otherwise matter-of-fact room in which he discharges his official duties has upon its walls several attractive paintings of his execution, among them a marine view entitled "Moonlight at Cape Arundel, Kennebunk, Me.," "Winter Twilight at Hyde Park," a marine view from Concordville, York beach, Me., and "November Twilight at Hyde Park." If Mr. Tompkins, who is a cripple, has difficulty in his locomotion, he is an adept with his pen and brush. Office-holders have sometimes been poets, but rarely painters.

THINGS HAVE CHANGED.

We do not hear any uproarious denunciations by our democratic brethren, of the corrupt extravagance of the city government in regard to the police force. It was their principal standing grievance under republican administrations, for a score of years; there were twice as many officers as were actually required, and their pay was enormously exaggerated above what was proper. This kind of talk has fallen into innocuous desuetude since "our side" got in. Not only that, but the force is kept up to its full former number, and the pay is to be increased.

NOT BAD TO TAKE.

The Eldredge Brewing Co. substantially remembered all its employes this Christmas, as has been its custom for years. Each of the brewery hands was on Friday called into the office, and presented with a full suit of working clothes, comprising a fine Scotch cap, a warm cardigan jacket and two pairs of serviceable overalls, the latter from the manufactory of Mr. R. H. Paine on State street, opposite the postoffice. The workmen in the cooper shop each received a similar outfit, with the difference that two aprons took the place of the overalls.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Agnes E. Downs, Capt. Levi Downs, arrived on Friday forenoon from Boston, to enable her crew to spend Christmas at home. On the previous Tuesday she went into Boston with a fare of haddock, which sold at $5 per hundred pounds; and on Thursday she took in another fare, the price however not being quite so satisfactory.

The schooner Mary Willey, Capt. Zach. Williams, arrived here on Friday, 24th inst., from Bangor, closing her season's work with a long and weary round trip. She sailed from this port Nov. 20th for Bangor via Portland; made a good run to Portland, took in a cargo of corn in bulk, and continued her voyage, but rolled her mainmast out, and was obliged to put into Boothbay, whence she was towed to Bangor, where she arrived Nov. 29th, and put in a new mainmast. She sailed from Bangor on the 3d inst., and arrived at Portland on the 10th, since which time she has been out twice, and nearly up to Boon island both times, but was obliged to run back to Portland again. She came out of Portland the third time on the 23d inst. in company with a large fleet of coasters bound west, and she and one other vessel arrived in the lower harbor at four o'clock A. M. on the 24th, all the rest of the fleet having squared away and run back to Portland. The Mary Willey brought 400,000 shingles, 20,000 clapboards and 50,000 feet of long lumber to John H. Broughton.

The schooner Emily C. Dennison, Capt. Frank P. Coleman of Newington master, has been hauled up for the winter at Saco.

Friday was mild and rainy, disastrous to the sleighing, but the Christmas trade was brisk. Poultry was in abundance, and at moderate prices, and from the quantities bought we judge everybody will indulge in a traditional Christmas dinner.

Rev. Charles D. Hainer, pastor of the Court street Christian church, being ill, and not likely to be able to occupy his pulpit for some time to come, the other clergymen of the city have volunteered to preach in turn for him afternoons so long as he may be sick.

100 Doses

One Dollar. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which this can be truly said; and it is an unanswerable argument as to the strength and positive economy of this great medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, barks, etc., long and favorably known for their power in purifying the blood; and in combination, proportion, and process, Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself.

"For economy and comfort we use Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. C. BREWSTER, Buffalo.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla takes less time and quantity to show its effect than any other preparation I ever heard of. I would not be without it in the house." MRS. C. A. M. HUBBARD, North Chill, N. Y. 100 Doses

One Dollar

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. I took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. My whole system has been built up and strengthened, my digestion improved, and my head relieved of the bad feeling. I consider it the best medicine I have ever used, and should not know how to do without it." MARY L. FERLS, Salem, Mass.

A SAD STORY.

A Woman Tortured Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians. Relief at Last.

Mrs. T., a lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: "I had taken treatment from physicians for about nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and suffered a good deal of my time. A year ago this summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last made up my mind to quit him and try your Compound, and with what a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I cried it and so sorry that I did not get hold of it nine years ago." The foregoing is from a letter to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sufferers by taking her Vegetable Compound may escape the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless agony.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: Very Dear Madam: My wife, Arie A. Green, has suffered with a displacement which caused her much pain and pain till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guilding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace to my house. It cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day.

Evils of Early Rising.

"Enemies of early rising will be delighted to hear the opinion of a German doctor, who has been collecting information about the habits of long-lived persons, and finds that the majority of long-livers indulged in late hours. At least eight out of every ten persons over 80 never went to bed until well into the small hours, and did not get up again until late in the day. Indeed, he considers that getting up early tends to exhaust physical power and to shorten life, while the so-called invigorating early hours are, he thinks, apt to produce lassitude, and are positively dangerous to some constitutions.—Chicago Tribune.

Murdoch and President Lincoln.

Mr. James E. Murdoch, the aged actor, tells that once during the war he went to see President Lincoln. "I'm too busy to see you now, Murdoch," said the president; "your business will have to wait." "But, Mr. Lincoln," replied the actor, "I've not come on business. I have come to tell you a good story." "Oh, if that's it," said Lincoln, "it's all right. Go ahead with the story;" and he settled himself down as though he hadn't a thing in the world to do but listen.—New York Tribune.

Shoddy in Japan.

According to a Japanese paper a man named Takada, who resides in Nagoya, has discovered a method of making flannel out of old cotton cloth. It occupied him many years in bringing his invention to perfection, but he succeeded at length, and has established a factory, where he intends carrying on business upon an extensive scale.—Chicago Herald.

China's Progressive Empress.

The empress of China has reigned twenty years, and will resign next February in favor of her son. She is said to be exceedingly progressive, and but for the men who formed her council would have had railroads throughout the empire.—Detroit Free Press.

Maryland's Coming Industry.

Maryland gives employment to 60,000 persons in canning fruit and oysters, the estimate being 150,000,000 cans annually.—Frank Leslie's.

The new 30-inch gas main at Pittsburg is said to be the largest ever laid. It is used to conduct natural gas into the city.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may ever do the good work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

Constitutional Catarrh.

No single disease has entailed more suffering or hastened the breaking up of the constitution than Catarrh. The sense of smell, of taste, of sight, of hearing, the human voice, the mind,—one or more, and sometimes all, yield to its destructive influence. The poison it distributes throughout the system attacks every vital force, and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored, because but little understood, by most physicians, frequently attacked by quacks and charlatans, those suffering from it have little hope to be relieved of it this side of the grave. It is time, then, that the popular treatment of this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all passed into shade at once competent and trustworthy. The new and hitherto untried method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his RADICAL CURE has received the hearty approval of thousands. It is instantaneous in affording relief in all head colds, sneezing, snuffing and obstructed breathing and rapidly removes the most oppressive symptoms, clearing the head, sweetening the breath, restoring the senses of smell, taste and hearing, and neutralizing the constitutional tendency of the disease towards the lungs, liver and kidneys.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and IMPROVED INHALER; price, $1.

A Valuable Medical Treatise.

The edition for 1887 of the sterling medical annual, known as Hostetter's Almanac, is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States, Mexico, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western hemisphere. This almanac has been issued regularly at the commencement of every year for over one-fifth of a century. It combines, with the soundest practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calender, astronomical calculations, chronological items, etc., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's almanac for 1887 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., on receipt of a two-cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

Louis Willett was hanged in the Ulster county jail at Kingston, N. Y., last May. Willett's pet cat witnessed the execution, and it has slept on the place ever since. The prisoners in jail say the feline is bewitched. Sheriff Young never had a better assistant jailer, as the jail birds remain in terror all night long. They say the cat meanders through the corridors and acts uncanny.

"I was troubled with an eruption on my face, which was a source of constant annoyance when I wished to appear in company. After using ten bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the humor entirely disappeared.—Mary M. Wood, 40 Adams street, Lowell, Mass.

A. Brown and Chloe Robinson, negroes living near Montezuma, Iowa, have been arrested for torturing to death Brown's six-year-old grandson. The testimony at the inquest indicated that Chloe Robinson had suspended the little one by the heels and belabored him with a rope thirty minutes for some alleged offence. Subsequently Brown suspended the boy in like manner, and wore out on his frail body half a dozen switches, concluding the castigation by washing him with salt and water.

How often do we hear of the sudden and fatal termination of a case of croup, when a young life might have been saved by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Ayer's Almanac for the new year is out. Get one.

—He wore upon his hand-organ a placard, "This poor man lost his sight at the battle of Iuka." A gentleman saw him open his eyes and look at his watch. "Here, sir, I thought you lost your sight at the battle of Iuka?" "So I did. Lost the sight off my gun. 'Sh! Step aside, sir, and let the lady come up."

All plasters are not alike. Hop Plasters afford relief and cure when other kinds are worthless.

—"What I want," cried an impetuous woman, struggling to reach a ribbon counter in a crowded store, "what I want is free trade." "And what I want," said a timid little woman who was being crowded out of the way, as she looked appealingly at the floor-walker, "is protection."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is having a big sale in this section and it deserves its success. Its cures are wonderful.

—Mr. Fullagin comes home rather early on Christmas eve, gropes his way into a dark room and plunges into the Christmas tree. "G—Great S—Scott! I'm a g-goat, 'f haven't got-los', an' let myself into Prospect park! Help! Hic—help!"

In point of medicinal power and excellence Hop Plasters are far ahead of all others. 25 cts.

—"What does that red light mean, father?" asked a little boy, as they were walking through the depot one night. "That means danger, my son," replied the father, who was a doctor. "And is that the reason," continued the little fellow, looking up in his father's face, "that they always have a red light in the drug store window?"

My Family Doctor

for the last two years has been Sulphur Bitters, and until I began using them in my family, we had more or less sickness, and our doctor's bill has been very large. Since we began their use, we have had no doctor to pay, and three dollars invested in Sulphur Bitters has kept health in our family.—E. Knott, Postmaster, Waverly, Iowa.

—Friend (to young author)—"How is your book of poems selling, Charley?" Young Writer (gloomily)—"Slow." "What's the matter? Don't people want poetry any more?" "Yes; but they won't pay a dollar for my poetry when they can get a paper edition of Shakespeare's for half the money. There's too much difference in the price."

The Providence Journal says: "The appointment of "Fatty" Welch to be warden of the Tombs is received with that cynical and jocular indifference which characterizes the people of New York in regard to political scandals, except in spasms of indignation. The man is an ex-gambler, a rowdy, and pretty much everything that is disgraceful and discreditable, and his appointment is due to a deal in which he surrendered a nomination for Congress in favor of a friend and relative of Mr. Hewitt. But the newspapers and the people of New York appear to regard the whole affair as an amusing joke."

St. Jacobs Oil cured rheumatism from which I suffered for years.—J. Froehlich, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Vienna correspondent of the London Times says that Austrian statesmen declare that the maintenance of peace is entirely dependent upon the action of the czar, and as he drinks heavily delirium tremens may at any moment cause him to commit an act of folly which would precipitate a war. THE CURSE OF CHINA.

The Rapid Growth of Opium Smoking in the Flowery Kingdom.

The growers of opium in India are much alarmed over the rapid decrease in their exports to China. The poppy fields of the Flowery Kingdom are driving the foreign product from the market. There is a law in China forbidding opium raising, but it has been a dead letter ever since England, simply because she was deriving an annual income of $6,000,000 from the tax on Indian opium, forced China to reopen her markets to the drug.

Opium growing for several years past has been rapidly increasing in China. About one-third of the cultivated land in Yunnan is now devoted to poppy raising. Travelers describe the valleys of southwestern China as white with poppy blossoms. China is now raising about two-thirds of all the opium she consumes. Other foreign opium is coming into competition with the Indian product. The Mozambique Opium company is putting 50,000 acres of land in the lower Rambezi valley into opium, and the African product is already selling in the Shanghai market.

Meanwhile the curse of opium smoking weighs more heavily every year upon the people of China. One-fifth of the population of Pekin and Tientsin are opium smokers. It is said that 3,000 of the attaches of the imperial palace are victims of the terrible habit in spite of the fact that the Chinese government discourages the practice. There are a number of native anti-opium societies, which are doing a work in China similar to that of our temperance unions here. The government has also established a large number of refuges, where victims of the opium habit may go for treatment. Sedatives, stimulants, and tonics are administered to cure them of the vice.

Great Britain herself is likely soon to suffer some of the evils with which she has helped to curse China. In parts of India the opium habit is making alarming progress among the natives. The Marquis Tseng called attention to this fact in a letter to the Anti-Opium society of England the other day. He added that if Great Britain would put a stop to the exportation of opium from India, China would effectually stop the growing of opium within her territories. He said China was willing to cooperate with Great Britain in striking at the root of the evil.—New York Sun.

Lamps of Angels.

As we neared the camp a most beautiful meteor sailed slowly down from the starry sky, like a ball of fire which divided and fell in a fiery stream. All present looked at it with silent astonishment for a few seconds, then I laughingly turned and said to Nusseer Khan:

"One of the angels has dropped his lamp, oh Nusseer Khan?"

"It must be so, my lord—who knows?"

Seeing my friend somewhat puzzled at the remarks, I explained that the Mohammedans have an idea that the stars are the lamps of the angels guarding the gates of heaven and that a shooting star is a lamp carelessly dropped.

"The idea is pretty," he rejoined, "but surely they are not so ignorant in these days as to believe it?"

"Why not? The lower classes in more civilized countries believe things quite as absurd. Of course the educated Hindoos know better, but the illiterate believe anything that is put in their heads.—Camp Life on Satpura Range.

Shanghai Fond of Horse Shows.

Shanghai is one of the "horsiest" places on the face of the globe. There is no evidence that it is fond of horse shows, but there are two great racing carnivals in the year, of three days each, and when all Shanghai is not engaged in training and betting for these events, polo, drag hunting, paperchasing and steeplechasing fill up the time. The most influential clique is the "oreymen," who always live in boots and breeches, are never as happy as when in the atmosphere of a stable. Then there is up-country shooting of pheasants, deer and wild boar, about which another class of men go crazy; and if this will not suit you, yachting, boating, cricket and every other conceivable sport are to be had.—Cor. Charleston News and Courier.

The Best Known Glaciers.

The best known glaciers are those of the Alps—numbering 1,150, as Professor Heim has just ascertained, and covering a total area of more than 500 square miles—but important ones also occur in the Pyrenees, the mountains of Norway, Spitsbergen, Iceland, the Caucasus, the Himalayas, the southern extremity of the Andes, in Greenland, and on Antarctic lands. One of the Spitzbergen glaciers stretches eleven miles along the coast, and projects in icy cliffs 100 to 400 feet high. The great Humboldt glacier of Greenland, north of the 79th parallel, has a breadth of forty-five miles at the foot, where it enters the sea.—Arkansaw Traveler.

Called Him "You."

The depths of wickedness to which even a Quaker child can sink make one readily believe in the doctrine of total depravity. Two little Quakers quarrelled, and after saying words at each other, one of them in a tremendous burst of rage, with clenched fists and blazing eyes, shouted: "Thee's you." The other boy looked at him in horrified silence. Then he solemnly said: "I shall go and tell mother that thee swored."—New York Sun.

In the bright autumnal days the temptation to comfortable exposure yields its fruit in a most pernicious cough and irritation of the throat. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup stands unrivaled as a remedy for throat and lung diseases. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

The Werner Machine works in Lebanon, Penn., have just received orders for twelve large blowing-engines for furnaces in course of erection in northern Alabama, which will keep the establishment busy for at least fifteen months.

We vote leather medals for those soldiers of the regular army who were in the train that was robbed near Bellevue, Texas, Saturday, by three men, and who meekly surrendered their arms because the ladies in the car did not want to be frightened by any shooting. The army seems to be attempting to reduce its standard to that of the navy.

A Boston paper confesses with sorrow that a bill of fare in that city advertises "Roast Goose." But so long as the bill specifies "baked beans" correctly there is nothing to grumble about.

ANOTHER PATRIOT HERO GONE.

Gen. John A. Logan, United States senator from Illinois, as gallant a soldier as ever lived, a statesman and an honest man, died in Washington, D. C., Sunday afternoon, Dec. 26th, at 2:57 o'clock, of nervous prostration from long-continued overwork.

A Ship-Owner Fails.

Pliny Nickerson, an extensive ship-owner of Boston doing business as Nickerson & Co., Postoffice square, Boston, on Friday afternoon last made an assignment for the benefit of all his creditors, without preferences. His liabilities are placed at $200,000, the nominal assets being $250,000.

Mr. Nickerson has been in business in Boston nearly half a century, and has been rated as among the foremost of Boston's merchants. His failure is the result of no sudden loss, but of the constant depreciation of floating property; his ships have paid nothing for years, and in fact have been losing money steadily, while at the same time they have been depreciating from age. In view of these circumstances, matters not improving at all, he thought he best it give up all of his property for the benefit of his creditors.

This statement of facts will be good to present to those advocates of the "free ship bill" now before Congress, who consider that all that is needed to restore our maritime supremacy is to allow the British ship builders to enroll their vessels as American. If an old, wealthy and successful manager of ship property is ruined by the failure of ships he already owns to pay even their running expenses and repairs, of what advantage would it be to enable him to purchase ships thirty per cent poorer than those of American build, at ten or fifteen per cent less cost? The fact is, the first cost of vessels is but a minor consideration; the main trouble is, in the universally depressed condition of the ocean carrying trade, to get business for them that it will pay to do. The more ships a man owns, at present, the poorer he is. The exception is our American coasting trade, and that the free-ship men are eagerly desirous of handing over to the British.

"Equitable Retaliation."

The Boston Evening Record sometimes views things in a correct light, as witness the following: "Queen Victoria has given her permission to Canada to refuse to allow American vessels to buy bait in Canada. This is all well enough, and we have no fault to find with Canada for doing it, but our government ought immediately to refuse to allow any Canadian vessel to come into any of our ports, and then see how long England will continue in her present paltry policy concerning our fishermen. Strict and equitable retaliation is the only way to bring England to her senses, and the sooner it is done the better."

But what Cleveland and Bayard want is, not to bring the Canadians to their senses, but to bring the Americans to their senses sufficiently to submit to the "commission" which Canada and Minister West desire to have appointed to give Canada all she can possibly think of demanding, in exchange for her allowing American vessels the privilege of flying the American flag in Canadian ports without having it summarily hauled down by some Bluenose bully. To this end, and not to the protection of our fishermen, the whole influence of the administration has been directed, and will be.

Disasters in Port.

The British ironclad ram Sultan sunk the French steamer Ville de Victoria while the latter was lying at anchor in the harbor at Lisbon, Portugal, during a great gale on the 24th inst. The Sultan is an iron steamship, armor-plated, and is of 9,200 tons burden. Both vessels were at anchor at the time of the collision. The Sultan dragged her anchor and drifted against the Ville de Victoria. The Sultan's captain admits that the collision was due to the Sultan breaking her moorings. After the Sultan's collision with the Ville de Victoria, she collided with and damaged the steamer Richmond. The Ville de Victoria's crew and passengers numbered sixty-three, of whom thirty were drowned. An English lady, who was saved, lost a bag containing 600 sovereigns which she had suspended around her neck previous to the collision. The ironclad Minotaur also dragged her anchor and ran into and damaged the ironclad Monarch.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

The Brooklyn navy yard has long been noted for its unhealthy atmosphere, and yet there always has been as great a desire to "get taken on" there as at any other yard. Formerly a large sewer emptied into the basin near the dry dock, and the stench was so great on summer nights that it would drive officers from the decks of vessels lying there; at great expense the outlet of the sewer was changed, and recently the work of dredging the filth from the basin has been in progress, with the result of causing an outbreak of typhoid fever on the Tennessee and the receiving ship Vermont, lying at the cob-dock. Mrs. Cook, wife of the Vermont's captain, has died; and Lieutenants John Abbott and J. Forsyth Meigs of the Tennessee are both down with typhoid fever, and critically ill. Such a stench has prevailed that all air ports in the ships have had to be closed before people retired. Gen. Meigs of the army, uncle of Lieut. Meigs, has written to the navy department urging that the anchorage at the Brooklyn yard be changed without delay. Let the department send the ships to Portsmouth, where they will find pure water to lie in, with no possibility of its being polluted, unless the whole Atlantic becomes foul. No typhoid epidemic ever prevails on the Portsmouth navy yard.

The New York Tribune says: "The navy yard over in Brooklyn seems to be more or less of a pest-hole. Violent typhoid fever has broken out there which is plainly due to the condition of Whitney basin; and last spring an epidemic of scarlet fever prevailed at the marine barracks. Prompt measures for permanent relief will doubtless be speedily taken by the federal authorities; and the sanitary experts who are to investigate the situation should not dawdle over their work while the officers at the yard lie dying."

The grand jury at Skowhegan, Me., on the 24th reported eight indictments, as follows: Mrs. Emma G. Brown and Albert Hurd, Harmony, arson; one common seller, one larceny, one forgery, two towns for defective highway. Two indictments were found against the Hurd boy for arson. The arson cases will be tried this term.

RULED BY PERJUDICE.

Few persons realize how thoroughly they are controlled by prejudice even to their own disadvantage. For many years the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and headache has been by some outward application, and, therefore, without stopping to think that the origin of these troubles must, from necessity, be internal, the weary sufferer continues to rub, rub and find no relief. Athlophoros is taken internally, and as a proof that this is the correct principle, it cures surely and quickly. The statement of those who have been cured ought to convince the incredulous.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

On the 18th of August, 1885, I suffered very badly from an attack of rheumatism and was recommended to try Athlophoros. On taking one-half a bottle my rheumatism left me and I have not suffered any from it since. Would recommend this medicine to all suffering with rheumatism.

FRANK E. PUTNEY, 220 Walnut St.

Lowell, Mass., March 10, 1886.

A man suffering with sciatic rheumatism is liable to do most anything to rid himself of that complaint. By exposure, I contracted the disease, and although being doctored, I grew worse in spite of all that could apparently be done to relieve intense pain. I was obliged to stand while eating, and unless completely exhausted I was unable to get any sleep; at times I would have to get out of bed in the dead of night, go into the street and tire myself out by walking to get sleep. Still the pain and its cause hung to me. I commenced to use Athlophoros. After a few doses there was a change for the better, and in good time came the cure so much hoped for and found at last only in Athlophoros. C. P. JORDAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

The old Boston & Maine freight depot in Great Falls, partially occupied by the railroad and partly by a grain store, a stove store, and a harness store, was burned on the night of the 24th inst. The railroad lost the building, about $3000; three hundred tons of coal, 2000 linear feet of plank, two cars loaded with oak lumber, 1200 oaken ties, etc. The total loss to all parties was $12,000 to $15,000, with insurance to about one-third that amount. C. S. Beacham & Son, grain, lost $2200, insurance $1000; O. C. Stevens, harnesses, lost $3000, insurance $1000; these parties had their insurance in the Granite State Fire ins. Co. of this city and the Peoples' of Manchester.

The secretary of the navy has not yet acted on the report of the court martial in the case of Capt. John H. Higbee, of the marine corps, charged with drunkenness while on duty.

Mr. Albert White of Newcastle is to start this morning under engagement with E. Newton & Co. for the Newfoundland coast and Labrador, to purchase bait, the supply at Eastport having failed. In case of not finding a sufficient quantity at the places named, his instructions are to proceed under steam as far as he can, and then to take sledge teams and keep on at any cost till he does find it, as Newton & Co. say they are bound to have their fleet supplied with bait if their messenger has to go as far north as the Greely party went!

The body of Miss Turlington, the deaf mute young lady who disappeared from Raleigh, N. C., with W. L. Bingham, and who was from the first supposed to have been murdered, was found Dec. 24th in the woods, eight miles from Raleigh and one mile from Cary, a village on the North Carolina and Raleigh & Augusta railroads. She had been shot through the head and her throat had been cut.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from Indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug, act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They

Cured

me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

SHOCKING TRAGEDY.

CHISTMAS REVELRY ENDS IN MURDER.

Shortly before midnight on the night of Christmas day, a man named Patrick Blute, living at No. 101 Islington street, and for the past fifteen years a valued employe of the Eldredge Brewing Co., appeared at the brewery with a lantern, and asked some of the night hands to go to his house, as his wife, Margaret Blute, was dead. Some of them went, on their way calling up one or more women to lay out the body, but on arriving at the house they found such a condition of affairs that instead of meddling, they sent word to the pelice station. Officers Watkins and Stott immediately went to the house, where they were shortly joined by City Marshal Norton, who was called up. While the officers were at the house Blute lighted his pipe and had a smoke, and offered no resistance to arrest. The marshal and Officer Watkins escorted Blute to the police station, Officer Stott being left in charge of the house. Coroner Whittier was notified, and on Sunday forenoon he summoned a jury, consisting of Messrs. E. A. Tilton, George E. Hodgdon and Alfred Stavers, to view the body.

On arriving at the house the board of inquest found a revolting condition of affairs. In the front room of the tenement were two bedsteads, one for the children and the other for the parents, the bedclothes of the latter being saturated with blood, with which also some underclothing was soaked; there was blood on the headboard and on the walls in the vicinity of the bed, and large splashes of it on the doors and floor. On a lounge in a room adjoining lay the corpse of the woman, the head covered with contusions, and much swollen; under the chin are two deep cuts, and back of the left ear another, and from these cuts she probably bled to death. The body was covered with bruises, and scars of old healed-up wounds. An autopsy was performed by Drs. Parsons and Folsom. The hearing before the jury will be held at three o'clock this afternoon.

The deceased, whose maiden name was Quinn, was about thirty-five years old, and weighed 125 pounds. The husband, aged about forty-two, is a strongly-built man, and is reported to have been a very quiet man outside of his home. They have four children, the youngest two years old, and the oldest twelve, the latter having been a witness to the assault. The pair have had the reputation of living unhappily together, owing to strong drink.

Blute acknowledged to the officers that he assaulted his wife. He said he went home about six o'clock Christmas evening, somewhat under the influence of liquor, and finding his wife drunk, knocked her down, kicked her, and threw her down the cellar stairs; then brought her up, and laid her on the bed. Later in the evening he went out, got some more drink, brought half a pint home, mixed a drink for the woman, and then retired. About 11:45 o'clock he awoke, found her dead and blood over everything, so he lighted his lantern and went to the brewery. It is stated that no indications of a heavy fall were found on the body, but the children say their mother was thrown down the cellar stairs.

CHRISTMAS.

Christmas was a quiet, pleasant day, its observance in this city being confined to family re-unions and festivities. The rain of Friday afternoon and Saturday morning ruined the sleighing, and left in the streets and roads a conglomeration of mud and melted snow and ice, rendering travelling disagreeable and dangerous.

The morning was ushered in by the ringing of the chimes at Christ church, and later by bands of young people singing Christmas carols in front of the residences of their friends. Services were held in the forenoon in the Episcopal church, which was very elaborately and handsomely trimmed, and also in the Catholic church. On Sunday many of the pastors preached appropriate sermons. At the Unitarian church the subject was "Christ the Door"; in the afternoon a children's service was given, with a short address by the pastor, subject "Every child his own Santa Claus". The church was very finely dressed with evergreen. At the Middle street (Baptist) church, in front of the altar was a beautiful cross. Dr. Alden delivered an eloquent discourse appropriate to the occasion. The altar and desk of the Universalist church were decked with evergreen. The sermon was upon the meaning of the birth of Christ. Text, Luke 2:10, and Col. 1:19. For it was the good pleasure of the Father that in him should all the fulness dwell. We have seen by unquestionable evidence that in the ages before and since man God's purpose is the improvement of matter. He intends to make all things like himself. There was one time since the advent of man that the human condition was one of most profligate corruption. God's purpose did not give way in the least. On the contrary the Divine energy came and met the human ruin face to face. Christ was born. Given without the warrant of heredity, sent without the intelligent wish or acceptance of man. Here is man's destiny embodied in a perfect unity of the human with the divine. There will be no rest until it is perfectly attained. This conclusion remains unimpeached by time or experience.

THE U. S. S. KEARSARGE.

When the United States ship Kearsarge recently returned from her three years' cruise with the European squadron she was greatly in need of repair, and it was feared at the navy department that the amount necessary to be expended on her to fit her for service would exceed the twenty per cent limit, and that she would be condemned. A board of survey was ordered by the secretary of the navy, of which Capt. Robert F. Bradford was president. The report shows that the hull of the vessel is in much better condition than was expected, the timbers generally sound, and the copper in fair condition. Extensive repairs to machinery and pumps, and to masts and spars, are recommended. The total cost of the repairs is estimated at $39,442.26.

In addition to this the board recommend various changes to increase the efficiency of the vessel, and add to the comfort of the officers and crew. The Kearsarge when first built was rigged as a barque; she was afterward changed to a ship rig, but has never worked so well as before, and the board recommend that she be changed back to a barque. The other changes advised are chiefly sanitary.

The estimated cost of a new vessel similar to the Kearsarge would be $398,350, and as the cost of the repairs advised amounts to but twelve per cent of this sum, it is probable that the Kearsarge will be repaired, and remain in the service for some years. The details of the necessary repairs and changes are as follows:

	Labor.	Material.	Total.
Hull,	$23,709.00	$6,580.00	$29,698.00
Spars,	1,792.36	481.60	2,273.96
Boats,	3,376.00	700.00	4,076.00

Cooperage,	376.00	37.00	413.00
	$29,476.36	$8,966.00	$39,442.36
Changes recommended by the board,	$6,350.00	$2,100.00	$8,350.00
Grand total,	$35,736.36	$11,066.00	$47,792.36

CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

Quite a large and pleased audience of listeners gathered in front of Col. Kent's quarters on Islington street, on the forenoon of Christmas day, to enjoy the singing of Christmas carols by some of the unfortunate "boarders" in that institution. There were four good voices, and the several pieces performed were very pleasingly rendered; and yet there was something inexpressively sad in the bright, joyous hymns of Christian hope and love and liberty, coming from such a place under such circumstances.

A HANDSOME PICTURE.

Mr. Montgomery displays in the window of his store on Pleasant street, a very fine portrait of a large dog, painted by A. Pope, of Boston. The noble head, intelligent face, and powerful shoulders and breast of the animal are full of life and vigor. The picture, which is handsomely mounted and framed, is the property of Mr. C. M. Gignoux, of this city.

The North church Sunday school have a Christmas festival in their chapel parlors this evening.

Poultry was plenty and cheap on Friday, and on Saturday western geese were selling as low as twelve cents a pound, and turkeys at fourteen cents. The supply from the neighboring towns was very light, only a few chickens and geese being for sale on the Parade.

The salvation army appears to have entirely abandoned this city. It is apparently too good to need reforming, or so hopelessly bad as to be beyond the reach of reformation.

As has always been his custom during his incumbency of the office, Sheriff Kent on Saturday furnished the prisoners in the jail with a generous Christmas dinner of turkey, plum pudding and "fixings."

Most of the vessels fishing out of this port hauled off last Thursday, and went to their home ports for the crews to spend Christmas. The arrivals of fish on Thursday were quite heavy, Elvin Newton & Co. receiving 50,000 lbs. and Ed. Jameson 25,000 lbs. Newton & Co. shipped to Boston on Sunday seventy-five boxes of fish.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less. I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

Lydia E. Pinkham

A SAD STORY.

A Woman Suffered Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians. Relief at Last.

Mrs. T., a lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: "I had taken treatment from physicians for about nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and relieve a good deal of my time. A year ago this summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last made up my mind to try Lydia and try your Compound, and with what a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I tried it and so sorry that I did not, and hold off for nine years ago. The foregoing is from a letter to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sufferers by taking her Vegetable Compound may consider the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless agony.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: Very Dear Madam: My wife, Arie A. Green, has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound, and I went 12 miles to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person. Six bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was "indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day.

Some Possible Curious Results.

There is no reason in the nature of things, why the chemistry of the future may not supply us with artificial food, which may replace some of the various forms of protoplasm upon which human beings now subsist. Were such a thing possible as the substitution of a chemical for animal and vegetable food, some very curious results would follow.

An article in a scientific journal says that the man of the future will be toothless and hairless. As there will be no need for teeth in assimilating a nutriment that would probably be liquid in form, the human teeth might, from want of use, dis..ppear or become rudimentary. Then fat people would disappear, for chemistry would control the conditions which lead to the formation of adipose tissue. As there would be less work for the human stomach, the abdomen would diminish in size, while, possibly, the lungs might be still further enlarged. But the general digestive apparatus would be in better shape, as the chemistry of food could be adapted to every variety of system. This all may seem very wild, but in view of what science has done in the world about us, what may it not accomplish, when its improved and improving processes are applied directly to the human race?—Demorest's Monthly.

Italy's Universities.

Italy has twenty-one universities—one more than Germany. They are divided into two classes, those which receive state support and those which do not. Futile efforts have been repeatedly made to reduce this uselessly large number of high schools. Theology is not taught at any Italian universities, but lectures on church history are included sometimes in the philosophic course.—Chicago Herald.

Varieties of Lettuce.

Instead of the few simple varieties of lettuce formerly grown, not less than sixty-five varieties are now known to horticulturists.—Arkansaw Traveler.

It is stated that the first person upon whom the degree of doctor of medicine was conferred was William Gordenia, by the college of Asti, in 1329.—Chicago Tribune.

What is a cold in the head? Medical authorities say it is due to atmospheric germs, uneven clothing of the body, rapid cooling when in perspiration, &c. The important point is, that a cold in the head is a genuine rhinitis, an inflammation of the lining membrane of the nose, which when unchecked, is certain to produce a catarrhal condition—for catarrh is essentially a "cold" which nature is no longer able to "resolve" or throw off. Ely's Cream Balm has proved its superiority, and sufferers from cold in the head should resort to it before that common ailment becomes seated and ends in obstinate catarrh.

I Was A Fool.

Yes, they said I was a fool not to try Sulphur Bitters for Rheumatism, from which I had suffered over two years; but I had tried so many doctors and medicines without getting relief that I was discouraged. I am now on my fourth bottle and almost cured. I was a fool that I didn't try that wonderful remedy before.—C. G. Pratt, Manchester, N. H.

Chance for Yankee Yachts.

The Royal Thames Yacht club announces that an ocean yacht race for a thousand guinea prize will be sailed next year under the auspices of the club, in honor of the queen's jubilee; and that it will be open to the yatchs of the entire world. Unless the rules adopted are those of British yacht clubs, under which it is next to impossible for anything but a cutter to win, this race will afford a good chance for the crack American yachts to show what they can do.

A Valuable Medical Treatise.

The edition for 1887 of the sterling medical annual, known as Hostetter's Almanac, is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States, Mexico, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western hemisphere. This almanac has been issued regularly at the commencement of every year for over one-fifth of a century. It combines, with the soundest practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calender, astronomical calculations, chronological [illegible], &c., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's almanac for 1887 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., on receipt of a two-cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

A whole family were killed at Cincinnati from eating canned green peas.

Capt. Worthen Hall, who had killed 500 whales and brought into port more than 22,000 barrels of oil, died recently at his home in Croydon.

Heavy snow storms in central Germany last week blocked the railways in some localities.

"I was troubled with an eruption on my face, which was a source of constant annoyance when I wished to appear in company. After using ten bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the humor entirely disappeared.—Mary M. Wood, 40 Adams street, Lowell, Mass.

Secretary and Mrs. Whitney gave a Christmas tree entertainment to the children of St. John's Orphanage in Washington.

How often do we hear of the sudden and fatal termination of a case of croup, when a young life might have been saved by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Ayer's Almanac for the new year is out. Get one.

General Logan's death will doubtless add materially to Mr. Blaine's chances for the Republican nomination in 1888.

All plasters are not alike. Hop Plasters afford relief and cure when other kinds are worthless.

—"What I want," cried an impetuous woman, struggling to reach a ribbon counter in a crowded store, "what I want is free trade." "And what I want," said a timid little woman who was being crowded out of the way, as she looked appeningly at the floor-walker, "is protection."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is having a big sale in this section and it deserves its success. Its cures are wonderful.

—Mr. Fullagin comes home rather early on Christmas eve, gropes his way into a dark room and plunges into the Christmas tree. "G—Great S—Scott! I'm a g-goat, 'f haven't got los', an' let myself into Prospect park! Help! Hic—help!"

In point of medicinal power and excellence Hop Plasters are far ahead of all others. 25 cts.

—"What does that red light mean, father?" asked a little boy, as they were walking through the depot one night. "That means danger, my son," replied the father, who was a doctor. "And is that the reason," continued the little fellow, looking up in his father's face, "that they always have a red light in the drug store window?"

My Family Doctor

for the last two years has been Sulphur Bitters, and until I began using them in my family, we had more or less sickness, and our doctor's bill has been very large. Since we began their use, we have had no doctor to pay, and three dollars invested in Sulphur Bitters has kept health in our family.—E. Knott, Postmaster, Waverly, Iowa.

—Friend (to young author)—"How is your book of poems selling, Charley?" Young Writer (gloomily)—"S l o w." "What's the matter? Don't people want poetry any more?" "Yes; but they won't pay a dollar for my poetry when they can get a paper edition of Shakespeare's for half the money. There's too much difference in the price."

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites,

For Children and Pulmonary Troubles.

Dr. W. S. Hoyt, Point Pleasant, W. Va., says: "I have made a thorough test with Scott's Emulsion in Pulmonary troubles, and general debility and have been astonished at the good results, and as a remedy for children with Rickets or Marasmus, it is unequalled."

—Thirty thousand jumping jacks have been manufactured this season in one Maine town, and still the good work goes on.

St. Jacobs Oil cured rheumatism from which I suffered for years.—J. Froehlich, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The senate last week passed the house bill for the relief of the survivors of the exploring steamer Jeannette, and of the widows and children of those who perished in the retreat from the wreck of that vessel in the Arctic seas.

Red Star Cough Cure has demonstrated its value in cases of bronchitis. No depression.

Jim Cummings and two other men, supposed to have committed the robbery of the Adams express car several weeks ago, are under arrest at Chicago.

A man named Cook has been arrested in Kansas City, suspected of being connected with the Cummings express robbery.

In the bright autumnal days the temptation to comfortable exposure yields its fruit in a most pernicious cough and irritation of the throat. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup stands unrivaled as a remedy for throat and lung diseases. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

The Maine secretary of state has issued a certificate of incorporation to the Rockland & Camden railroad.

Make Yourself a New Body.

Purge away the old, diseased and worn out body, said Dr. Brandreth. Replace the discharged matters of the system with good, simple food and thus build up a new and sound body in place of one feeble and diseased. Every man should know that he must be "renewed" at least once in two or three years, else he would soon break down completely. This renewing process is easily brought about by purging with Brandreth's Pills. They put new life into old bodies.

MAKE SHERIDAN'S CONDITION POWDER!

The Training of Children.

"The best satisfaction for a father is to deserve and receive loyal and unfailing respect from his son.

"No, this is not quite the best, not quite the supreme satisfaction of paternity. Shall I reveal the secret that lies in silence at the very bottom of the hearts of all honorable and worthy fathers? Their profoundest happiness is to be able themselves to respect their sons."

It is in one of the Franconia books that the rule is laid down for family education, which really applies in all legislation and in all life: "If you grant, grant cheerfully; if you refuse, refuse finally." This means that your children are to understand that you have not given your directions thoughtlessly, and that importunity or what they would call "teasing" is not going to change the decision. As you watch the children on a hotel piazza in summer, in their intercourse with their mothers, you can tell in a minute whether the mothers live by this rule or do not. One set of children will expect to carry their points by making fuss enough about them, while the other set will accept the inevitable at once and make their arrangements accordingly. This latter set, it may be said in passing, are not only the better children of the two, but they are in fact the happier; they get a great deal more out of life.—Edward Everett Hale in The Chautauquan.

The Favorite Number Ten.

The reason why ten is a favorite—perhaps the most favorite—number is obvious enough, namely, that we have ten fingers. When we begin to count we almost of necessity do so with our fingers; if we have a large number of things to count, say a flock of sheep, we instinctively divide them into tens, or perhaps into scores; if the number of things be very large the collection of tens are naturally grouped again by tens, and so we have hundreds. A further grouping of hundreds leads to thousands, and so forth. Thus we get the ordinary system of numeration, and there can be no manner of doubt that man's ten fingers are the root of it.

We are told in treatises on arithmetic that it would have been much more convenient if we had agreed to count by twelves instead of by tens; and possibly this may be true. But, if it be, we have so much the more evidence, if evidence be needed, that the basis of the system of counting was not determined by theoretical considerations, but by the simple elementary fact of the number of human digits being ten and not twelve. Nevertheless twelve has its turn as a favorite number; we often count by dozens, and the reason probably is that twelve admits of being quartered as well as halved, which in many cases is an advantage.—Bishop of Carlisle in Contemporary Review.

The Millionaires of New York.

Millionaires are as thick as hops.

There are hundreds of them in New York of whom the general public has never heard. There are half a hundred, worth from two to five millions each, of whom the general public know nothing, and at least a score whose individual wealth may be reasonably estimated anywhere from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000, concerning whom the ordinary citizen is absolutely ignorant. Yet they are men of affairs, men whose transactions affect commercial relations that belt the globe; whose business conduct has something to do with every known industry in which mechanics, oil, light and fuel are factors. It used to be said throughout New England, "the young men go to New York to seek a fortune." Now it is said "the men of the country, from the golden shores of California and the snow-clad hills in the Sierra Navada range, from the cattle kings of the great middle lands to the coal barons and the petroleum princes of the middle states, go to New York to spend their fortunes."—Joe Howard in New York World.

Quit Coddling Their Locomotives.

B. S. Gillette, of Detroit, who was here in attendance on the meeting of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said to me: "A great change has taken place in the feeling of engineers with reference to the engines they run. In the old days a man became attached to his locomotive. He made it a part of his daily life. He got into the habit of looking upon the machine as a human being. He was tender with it. He was careful not to push it to its utmost tension, no matter what the occasion. Gradually the feeling has spread that an engine is constructed to do a certain amount of work and that it must be made to do that work regardless of the wear and tear of the machinery. Railroad superintendents prefer men for engineers who understand that machinery is made for use, and who will push it for all there is in it, if necessary. Of course, they want men to be careful and prudent. But they do not want the engines coddled like sick babies."—New York Tribune.

German Chemicals in Japan.

Among the chemicals which are imported into Japan, the following are stated to be almost exclusively of German origin: Boracic acid, carbolic acid, salicylic acid, tannic acid, quinine, iodine and opium preparations, chloral hydrate, chloroform, cocaine hydrochlorate, cream of tartar, glycerine, and santonine. German papers report with evident glee that at the University of Tokio the lectures in pharmacy are given in the German language, in which also the books used are printed and the examinations held.—New York Post.

BOSTON, October 19, 1876.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1866, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.

Athlophoros is selling with me well, and I don't take any back seat for any competitor in the place. My customers tell me that it is a good thing and consequently I can recommend it. E. O. Hersey, druggist, Putnam, Conn.

Captain Mitchell, of the bark Antoine Sala, New York and Havana trade, came home in May, entirely helpless with rheumatism. He went to the mountains, but receiving no benefit, at his wife's request began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. He immediately began to improve; in two months his rheumatism was all gone, and he sailed in command of his vessel a well man. Hood's Sarsaparilla will help you. Sold by all druggists.

John A. Logan.

John Alexander Logan was born in Jackson county, Illinois, in 1826. He received a common school education, and subsequently graduated at the Louisville university. He enlisted as a private in the Illinois volunteers and became quartermaster in the war with Mexico; was elected clerk of the Jackson county court in 1849; studied and practiced law. He was elected to the legislature of Illinois in 1852, '53, '56 and '57; was prosecuting attorney from 1853 to 1857, and was a presidential elector in 1856. In 1858 he was elected to the house of representatives of the thirty-sixth congress as a democrat, and in 1860 he was re-elected. The thirty-seventh congress met in special session, according to the proclamation of President Lincoln, on July 4, 1861. Mr. Logan was a prominent member, but resigned his seat in congress at the first opportunity and entered the Union army as colonel of an Illinois regiment of volunteers. He served gallantly throughout the war, and rose by gallantry and meritorious performances on the field of battle to the rank of major general of volunteers. At the close of the rebellion he was honorably discharged and retired to private life.

In 1865, Gen. Logan was appointed minister to Mexico, but declined the honor. He was elected to the 40th congress as a republican, and was re-elected to the 41st, his term expiring at same time as Johnson's presidency. He was elected U. S. senator from Illinois for the term from March 4, 1871 to '77. He then resumed the practice of law at Chicago. In 1884 he was the republican candidate for vice president on the ticket with Mr. Blaine. In 1885 his state again elected him to the United States senate.

His death has removed another celebrated soldier from the list of survivors of the war, and it is probable that no living man stands so closely to the members of the G. A. R. as did John A. Logan. He ranked with Sheridan in popularity among the rank and file of the Union army, and, coming as he did from the volunteer arm of the service, he was in many respects more closely allied to the Grand Army men than even that popular hero.

Senator Logan, unlike a majority of his colleagues in the upper house, was dependent entirely upon his salary as a senator for a living. Although in public life for more than a quarter of a century, it is doubtful if his estate to-day would realize the amount of his salary for three years, when his debts are paid. It is understood that he had very little if any insurance on his life. An agent of a New York company called on him about four months ago and urged him to provide against death by taking out a policy of $20,000. The general replied that he was unable to do so because of his poverty; that he was staggering under financial pressure, and that he must decline. The agent said he wanted Logan's name on his list, and offered as a special inducement to take the general's note for a year in payment of the first premium. But Logan again declined, saying that if in a position to do so he would consider the offer during the present winter; but that at that time he saw no prospect of making an investment in life insurance for some years to come.

As a politician he ranked high in the councils of his party, and a meeting of his associates in Washington was seldom held without his presence, and when a move of more than ordinary significance was to be made, he was always among the first to be consulted.

A Connecticut Snake.

A large boa constricter, frozen to death, was found on the railroad embankment near the Chickering house in Putnam, Conn., on the morning of the 23d inst. He measured nine feet two inches from point to point, and his body in life must have been twice the size that it was when found. The possible explanations are that he was among the animals that escaped at the wrecking of Robbins' circus near that place last spring, and has been around there ever since, or that he was thrown from some passing freight train during the previous night.

A Lucky Woman.

Another part of a capital prize in The Louisiana State Lottery has been drawn by a ticket held in this city. The lucky person this time is Mrs. Eliza J. Peterson, who lives at 53 Moulton street, Charlestown. The amount received by her a few days ago from the Boston agents of the Southern Express Company was $15,000, her ticket having been numbered 24,562, which drew one-fifth of the capital prize of $75,000. Mrs. Peterson's husband, Mr. Thomas Peterson, has been for several years employed by the government in its rope works at the Charlestown navy yard, and is industrious, prudent, and much respected by all who know him. Mr. and Mrs. Peterson live in a modest home, with a family of six children, and this unexpected fortune could scarcely have fallen where it would have been more welcome. The money at present is securely invested, and will be partly devoted by its owners to the education of their children.—Boston (Mass.) Courier, Nov. 28th.

The old-fashioned sport of "clubbing gingerbread" at Christmas is still in vogue at Beech Ridge, York. Several young men of that section were in town last Thursday and Friday, contracting for their usual supply.

Work on the new hotel at Kittery Point is rapidly progressing, and it will undoubtedly be ready for occupancy in time for next season's summer travel. From the piazza the water view will be unsurpassed, taking in the whole of the harbor from Whale's-back to the narrows, as well as a wide sweep of the ocean.

Washington Haines, one of the oldest citizens of Newmarket, died at his residence at Haines' Mills in that town on Tuesday morning of last week, after a long and painful illness. Deceased was born in Greenland, but settled in Newmarket some fifty years ago, and commenced the manufacture of wagon bodies, cotton batting, etc., in the location where his son, Charles P. Haines, is engaged in the manufacture of batting at the present time. Mr. Haines was the oldest member of Rising Star lodge of Newmarket, having been made a Mason in that lodge in 1837, while temporarily stopping in town. The deceased was formerly one of the leading citizens of the place, but for a number of years sickness has confined him to his home, and he has seldom been seen in public. He was respected and liked by all who knew him, and his death is lamented by a large number of relatives and friends. His age was eighty years, eight months and eight days. Mr. Haines was twice married, and a widow and two sons survive him. The funeral took place on Saturday from his late residence, and was attended by Rising Star lodge, No. 47, A. F. & A. M., of which he was for so many years a worthy member.

RULED BY PREJUDICE.

Few persons realize how thoroughly they are controlled by prejudice even to their own disadvantage. For many years the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and headache has been by some outward application, and, therefore, without stopping to think that the origin of these troubles must, from necessity, be internal, the weary sufferer continues to rub, rub and find no relief. Athlophoros is taken internally, and as a proof that this is the correct principle, it cures surely and quickly. The statement of those who have been cured ought to convince the incredulous.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

On the 18th of August, 1885, I suffered very badly from an attack of rheumatism and was recommended to try Athlophoros. On taking one-half a bottle my rheumatism left me and I have not suffered any from it since. Would recommend this medicine to all suffering with rheumatism.

FRANK E. PUTNEY, 220 Walnut St.

Lowell, Mass., March 10, 1886.

A man suffering with sciatic rheumatism is liable to do most anything to rid himself of that complaint. By exposure, I contracted the disease, and although being doctored, I grew worse in spite of all that could apparently be done to relieve intense pain. I was obliged to stand while eating, and unless completely exhausted I was unable to get any sleep; at times I would have to get out of bed in the dead of night, go into the street and tire myself out by walking to get sleep. Still the pain and its cause hung to me. I commenced to use Athlophoros. After a few doses there was a change for the better, and in good time came the cure so much hoped for and found at last only in Athlophoros. C. P. JORDAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from Indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug, act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They

Cured

me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded the only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

THE FIREMEN'S CONCERT AND BALL.

The eleventh annual Concert and Ball of Kearsarge S. F. E. Co., No. 3, will be given on New Year's eve, (Friday evening, Dec. 31st,) the ball in Franklin hall, and the concert, by particular request, in Music hall. For this occasion the firemen have engaged the famous Reeves' American Concert Orchestra of Providence, R. I., which includes eleven solo performers, as follows:

D. D. Phillips, W. H. Appelles, 1st violins;
A. Heise, 2d violin;
C. Scheel, viola;
E. D. Kenyon, bass;
Fred Pedley, flute and piccolo;
E. A. Bosworth, clarinet;
D. W. Reeves, B. R. Church, cornets;
W. McCabe, trombone;
A. W. Hazard, tympani, drums, bells, etc.;
D. W. Reeves, director;
A. Heise, prompter.

The concert will commence promptly at eight o'clock, and close at nine; the doors of Music hall will be open in ample time to allow of all being seated before the performance commences; the programme is as follows:

1. Overture, "Midsummer Night's Dream," Suppe.
2. Cornet Solo, "Arbucklenian," Hartmann. MR. B. R. CHURCH.
3. Hunting Scene, Buccalosi. Descriptive: The Break of Day, The Horn of the Hunter, The Mount and Ride, Baying of the Hounds, The Galop and Return Home.
4. Piccolo Solo, "Oriole," Norrito. MR. FRED PADLEY.
5. Traumerei and Romance, Schumann.
6. Finale, "Indian Mail," Lamothe.

Tickets to the concert and ball, (admitting a gentleman and two ladies,) are placed at $1 each, and holders of such tickets can now secure reserved-seat checks at Goodrich's, by paying ten cents extra. Single admission tickets to the concert alone are twenty-five cents each; reserved seat tickets, thirty-five cents.

The doors of Franklin hall will not be open to the public until the close of the concert.

VERY PLEASANT.

On Christmas eve, a large number of the relatives and friends of Mrs. Gadd, who resides with her sister Mrs. John Stone at No. 5 Ladd street, gathered at her residence to celebrate the fortieth anniversary of her marriage. A handsome present was given to the lady in whose honor these friends had met, the presentation speech being made by Mr. C. C. Meagher, in his usual happy manner. Capt. Coffin, Sheriff-elect of Rockingham county, brother of Mrs. Gadd, was present, shedding the light of his genial smile on the merry scene. Mr. Cassidy, the vocalist, sang several selections, "with recitations, and several others contributed to the enjoyment of the evening.

A CHRISTMAS GREETING.

At the Rockingham house the Christmas dinner menu was elegantly printed, having for a motto the couplet written by Thomas Tusser more than three centuries ago—

"At Christmas play and make good cheer,
For Christmas comes but once a year."

On the first page was a pocket containing beautiful little Christmas cards with the motto,

"A merry Christmas to you."

The dinner at the Rockingham was in keeping with the excellent reputation of this famous establishment under its able manager, Mr. Wm. K. Hill.

THE CHRISTMAS WEATHER.

Christmas day was happily sandwiched between a damp, disagreeable, dripping day, when Santa Claus was compelled to make his rounds in a rubber suit, and a cheerless, cold and uncomfortable Sunday, when the atmosphere out of doors was most repelling to every one who left the comforts of the fireside. Christmas day was bright, sunny and balmy. Every one felt grateful for the bracing air and cloudless skies. Christmas greetings were more enjoyable, and Christmas presents dropped from Christmas trees to recipients who far more appreciated the remembrance of their friends than could have been the case on a dull, heavy, dank and unpleasant day.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

The coroner's jury in the Blute murder case met Monday afternoon at three o'clock. The testimony offered was similar to the account published in the Chronicle of Monday morning. After the examination of the police officers who made the arrest, and of the neighbors who were called to the scene, the jury adjourned to Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, when it is expected new and important testimony will be given.

LIGHT HO!

H. R. Stoddard & Son have placed over the door of their stable on Vaughan street an electric arc light which shines all night, brilliantly illuminating the stable yard; their stable and office are also lighted with electricity.

The powerful electric light on the front of the city building, which shines all night, makes plain the way of the belated pedestrian as far down Market, Congress and Pleasant streets as its light is not intercepted by the curving of the streets. The big gas-light in the middle of the Parade, which has been such a great public convenience, seems "sicklied o'er with the pale cast of" dirty yellow in comparison with the white glare of the new light.

The improvement in the Boston & Maine railroad station consequent on the introduction of the electric lights is very noticeable to passengers and casual visitors, and greatly approved by the employes of the road, whether engaged in the yard or on trains.

As the plant for keeping lights going all night has now been put in by the Electric Light Co., and got in good working order, the city should establish a light at or near the engine house on Court street, where it would show best for the engine house and the city yard. Another place where an all-night light should be shown, is at the foot of Daniel street, to light the navy landing, and accommodate the large boating intercourse between this city and Kittery, the river steamers and their patrons, and in the summer the large number of boating and pleasure parties that start from and return to the dock between Broughton's wharves. A single light, at a proper elevation, would fairly well light that entire water front—well enough, at least, to obviate much of the danger which now exists there on dark nights.

The light at Liberty bridge, which now shines until one o'clock in the morning, should also be put into the all-night circuit, and at once. There is a vast amount of business carried on along the Water street wharves during the winter, and a large part of it is done at night; and we believe the benefit resulting from having this light show all night would be very great in comparison with the extra expense incurred.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less. I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

Lydia E. Pinkham

A SAD STORY.

A Woman Tortured Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians. Relief at Last.

Mrs. T., a lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: "I had taken treatment from physicians for about nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and retain a good deal of my time. A year ago this summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last made up my mind to quit him and try your Compound, and with what a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I tried it and so sorry that I did not put hold of it nine years ago." The foregoing is from a letter to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sufferers by taking her Vegetable Compound can learn the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless agony.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: Very Dear Madam: My wife, Arie A. Green, has suffered with a displacement which caused her great misery. I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 13 miles to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person. Two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to us. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day.

Chili's National Holiday.

The 18th of September being the national holiday, the people, as I am told in their own tongue do, made the most of it, and beginning with the 17th the celebration lasted four days, during which little business of any kind was done. Indeed, the banks remained closed on the 21st. But what with the constant marching of troops, infantry, artillery and sailors from the ships of war, the almost unintermitted music of bands (those very strong in numbers and very fine) and the thunders and oft-repeated national salutes from fort and war vessels, a good many were kept busy at military show and burning power at least.

On two evenings were magnificent display of fireworks, the finest and most successfully conducted I have ever seen. And what was the most creditable, I saw, though a good deal about the city in this four days' holiday, no disorder, scarcely any evidence of intemperance or excess of any kind. The wine of the country, chiefly a light red wine, resembling the light Hungarian red wines, is plentiful, good and reasonable in price, and I think that this circumstance may account for the fact noted, as in other wine-growing countries. There is a pleasing courtesy of manner here, which is characteristic of the Latin races and especially of the Spaniards and French.—Chili Cor. Detroit Free Press.

Buoyant Suits for Seamen.

A Norwegian engineer, W. C. Moller, has found that reindeer hair and skin possess remarkable buoyancy, and when the unshorn skin is used as a life-belt it has the advantage over cork of warming the wearer while in the water. He attributes great value to suits made from reindeer hair, one of which of the weight of a pound may keep a man from drowning, while it furnishes greater protection from cold than oilskin and other materials.—Arkansaw Traveler.

The Patriarch of Jerusalem.

The patriarch of Jerusalem is thus described by one who has just paid him a visit: "He is one of the most kingly men I ever saw, meeting one's conception of King David's appearance in middle life (he is about 55 years old) very strong in every way, and tender-hearted and affectionate as strong."—Chicago Herald.

Dr. Ham, March 2, 1886.
Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your invaluable Invigorator. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity I am Truly yours,

The Stamp-Collecting Mania.

The Paris correspondent of the London Telegraph says: "The mania for collecting postage stamps seems to be gaining more ground than ever in France. Among the most famous collectors in France is a man who has over 1,000,000 postage stamps preserved in 130 richly bound volumes, and another who keeps two clerks employed in classifying and arranging his enormous collection. Added to this, there are in Paris about 150 wholesale firms employed in the trade and one of the best known of these ha lately offered from £20 to £40 for certain stamps of the year 1836. Tuscan postage stamps dated before 1860 will be paid for at the rate of £6 each, while stamps from Mauritius for the year 1847 fetch £80, and French stamps of 1849 are quoted at £1 each."

A Valuable Medical Treatise.

The edition for 1887 of the sterling medical annual, known as Hostetter's Almanac, is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States, Mexico, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western hemisphere. This almanac has been issued regularly at the commencement of every year for over one-fifth of a century. It combines, with the soundest practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calender, astronomical calculations, chronological items, e.c., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's almanac for 1887 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., on receipt of a two-cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

August Picket, a French Canadian sixty years of age and a woodchopper by occupation, was found Dec. 26th by two hunters, suspended to a tree in the Quinebaug woods, about seven miles from Putnam, Conn. Freight brakemen on the Ohio & Mobile railroad are on a strike.

The mill of the Dean Woollen Co. in Newark, Del., has been burned; loss $200,000.

THE MODERN "ROLLER" MILL.

The Old Buhr Stones and Clattering Hoppers Too Slow for This Age.

"But inside the mill all is changed nowadays. The old buhr stones and their clattering hoppers are too slow for this rapid age. The mill must do something more than grind the neighborhood grist and store seed wheat to survive in the midst of wide-awake competitors."

"How do they manage in these days?"

"The 'roller' mills are the latest improvement, and they are wonderful. In point of production and economy they distance the old system. The old style water-wheel mills might as well undertake to grind with the water that is past as to endeavor to compete with them."

"Where are the new mills usually located?"

"The desideration is a four or five story building contiguous to the railroads or water-ways. In one corner they put a good, strong engine and the improved machinery, with thousands of feet of spouting connecting the storage bin with the rolls and reels, and go to work."

"The old-time farmer's wagon is still essential to the arrival of the wheat?"

"Indispensable. But after that all is changed. After the wheat is weighed and elevated to the storage bin it goes through what is called the store-house machine, where it is cleaned from cheat and foreign heavy stuff. Then it is sent through smut-machines and again cleaned, thence through an automatic weigher and register to the 'mills,' as they are called."

"How are these 'mills' constructed?"

"Each with a double set of steel rollers, set side by side, between which the wheat is poured and crushed. These rolls are graded as to the sizes the first being very course, the last very fine."

"Through how many of these 'mills' must the wheat pass until it is finally reduced?"

"Usually ten different 'mills' or rolls. After passing through each set of rolls the 'stock' passes up through spouts to the 'scalper,' where it is separated, the the fine flour from the coarse stock, the flour passing from the scalper to the 'reels,' or short bolts, where it is separated from the middlings, the coarser stock again passing back through other rolls for still further reduction."

"What are these reels?"

"They are short bolts, differing from the old-fashioned flour-bolts, which used to be thirty-foot cylinders, out of which the first flour that passed was the best."

"What becomes of the dust in the new mills?"

"It is carried by fans into a room called a 'cyclone,' from whence it is carted to the dumps. The refuge from the flour and middlings is also confined to another cyclone room, and is sold for aminal food."

"Then the new process is the more economical and safest?"

"Most assuredly. The waste from the wheat is limited to the minimum. That, and the cheapness in the cost of constructing the new over the old mills, makes the production of flour much less expensive, which of course inures to the benefit of the general public in reduced prices."

"The process is lengthened very much is it not?"

"Oh, yes! Formerly it went through two sets of buhrs, then through the bolter and then became marketable. Now the process is lengthened to ten reductions and a corresponding number of scalpings and bolting before we obtain the finished product."—Cincinnati Enquirer Interview.

Use of Dogs in Warfare.

The use of dogs in warfare is no new thing. As long ago as 1476 the battle of Grandson was fought and won largely by fighting dogs. The Spaniards employed them extensively in their brutal work in South America. Vasco Nunez took a regiment of dogs with him, and in one combat alone they are reported to have strangled more than 2,000 Indians. Pizarro, assuredly one of the most ruthless warriors who ever led a Spanish army of the grim old type, naturally did not neglect such potent aid, and his dogs did much to win the battle of Caxamalca. So valiantly, indeed, did they comport themselves, that it was ordered from Madrid that henceforward the regiment of dogs should receive regular pay on the same footing as the human soldiers. History does not say who pocketed the money. Even our own "chivalrous" Henry III joined a contingent of 400 fighting dogs to the army he sent to aid Charles V in his wars with Francis I. The nations of antiquity of course set us the example in this as in so many other things.—Chicago Times.

Building Paper for Decorative Purposes.

Building paper is now used by amateurs with good effect for decorative purposes. A frieze recently seen had a conventional design which had been applied with water, giving it the appearance of leather. The stencil is laid upon the paper, and the open spaces are moistened with water, which causes the paper to swell slightly, the covered portions of the design being correspondingly depressed. Gold, bronze, or color may be used to give enrichment; the paper may have the designs traced in the ordinary manner with the above-mentioned materials. The red-brown tint of the paper harmonizes with almost every tint. It may be used for door panels or screens. —New York Commercial Advertiser.

A Foolish Strike Ended.

The glassblowers employed by Swindell Brothers and Baker Brothers & Co., glass manufacturers of Baltimore, Md., who have been on a strike for some time past, were last week notified that they must return to work on Monday of this week, on terms dictated by the two firms, or the fires would be permanently drawn. The terms were, a reduction of five per cent in wages, and the assignment of two apprentices to each furnace, the real cause of the strike having been the refusal of the glass blowers to allow the employment of apprentices.

To comply with these terms, the men were compelled to withdraw from the Knights of Labor. This they agreed to do, and both factories resumed work on Monday morning, with a full complement of hands. The glassblowers in Baltimore are very much offended at the action of Master Workman Coffey of District Assembly 149, who ordered the strike.

THE WHISTLING NUISANCE.

Under the above heading the Manchester Mirror says that the railroad-whistle question, which has recently been made very prominent in Concord and Nashua by complaints made by citizens of those places to the board of railroad commissioners, has reached Manchester, and a hearing was had before the commissioners on Monday last in relation to the nuisance in that city.

Governor Moody Currier was first called upon. He stated that he and the other members of his family were greatly annoyed by the whistling of a railroad locomotive at four o'clock in the morning, and that they were generally awakened by it. Prior to the passage of the law requiring a locomotive to whistle four times at every crossing instead of once, there was no trouble. Hon. George Byron Chandler, who lives in the same section of the city as Gov. Currier, testified to the annoyance the same whistle causes his family, saying that it was especially objectionable in the summer time when the windows of houses are thrown open. Reed P. Silver, Hon. A. P. Olzendam, Hon. John Healey and others testified in a similar vein.

The train most complained of was the freight train which arrives in Manchester at four o'clock in the morning over the Concord & Portsmouth railroad, from this city. Objection was also made to the six, seven and eight o'clock trains over the same road. It was reckoned that the four trains named over the Portsmouth road furnished thirty-six blasts each, between the railroad yard and the Mammoth road, or 144 in all, between four and eight o'clock A. M. It was stated that people residing on the corporations, who were unable to be present, were the most annoyed by the whistling, and would be the most gratified to have the nuisance abated.

There is no complaint of the locomotive whistles in this city, so far as we are aware. Some years since the whistles of the shifting engines in the freight yards, and of the many passing trains, made the night hideous throughout its entire continuance, and seriously depreciated the value of real estate near the stations and along the line of the roads; but this was done away with long since, and of late the locomotives have used the bell for all ordinary signalling, reserving the whistle as a danger warning, or for use when the engineer gets mad at not finding the switches set as he thinks they should be. A year or so ago there was some growling about the outrageous shrieking of a new shifting engine belonging to the Concord road, when starting coal trains from the Concord railroad wharf, or nearing the Green street crossing; but we have neither heard the shriek nor any growling thereat for a long while, so we presume that nuisance has been abated.

A man named Mason, of Newmarket, went to Dover last Thursday, and while spreeing about the city traded his wife's valuable horse with George Elliot, a liquor dealer, for an old nag. Mrs. Mason learning of the matter started for Dover, and securing the assistance of Deputy Sheriff Colbath had an interview with Elliot, during which she exhibited to Elliot the bill of sale to her of the horse. Elliot would not give her any satisfaction, and declined to return the horse. She went home, and went back to Dover on Christmas morning and swore out a complaint against Elliot for keeping liquor for sale. It was executed by Deputy Sheriff Colbath and Officer Willand and a bottle of rum and one of whiskey were seized and confiscated. On Monday morning Elliot was arrested on an action of trover at the instance of Mrs. Mason, the purpose being to recover her horse or his full value. Elliot gave bonds for the supreme court.

Receipts of fish were quite light on Monday, most of the trawlers being at the wharves. The gill-netters brought in light fares.

Mr. J. T. Trowbridge, the author, is building a cottage at Kennebunkport.

The connecting rod of a passenger engine on the western division of the Boston & Maine railroad broke a mile from Biddeford on Tuesday morning. A revolving fragment of the rod demolished the cab and broke some bolts of the boiler, causing the steam to escape. Engineer Smith was knocked down, and barely escaped being killed.

Rev. Seth Harrison Keeler, D. D., who dropped dead in a church at Somerville, Mass., last Sunday morning, was settled over the Congregational church in South Berwick, Me.,—his first pastorate,—in 1829, and continued there seven years, going from there to Amesbury, Mass., where he remained one year, and then to Calais, Me., where he remained twenty-seven years. From Calais he went to Mont Vernon, N. H., which was the scene of his last active ministry, although during the eleven years since he retired he has done considerable substituting. His age was eighty-six years.

Long Hours.

A somewhat unsatisfactory condition of affairs is shown is the reports of the German inspectors of factories, which have just been issued. They show that the employes in most of the factories work eleven hours daily, not reckoning overtime. With overtime, the workmen in some districts—notably Dusseldorf—work from thirty-six to forty-eight hours at a stretch, though they are supposed to have liberty to leave after twenty-four working hours. The usual hours of a boilerman in Dusseldorf are twelve and often twenty-four hours.

Senator and Mrs. Stanford, of California, who have not gone into society since the death of their only son, have decided to open their Washington house this season, and have issued cards for Thursday afternoons in January.

Cards have been issued announcing the marriage of Miss Mary N. Sherman, daughter of Nathan G. Sherman of Norwalk, Ohio, and Burchard Austin Hayes, eldest son of Ex-President Hayes.

RULED BY PREJUDICE.

Few persons realize how thoroughly they are controlled by prejudice even to their own disadvantage. For many years the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and headache has been by some outward application, and, therefore, without stopping to think that the origin of these troubles must, from necessity, be internal, the weary sufferer continues to rub, rub and find no relief. Athlophoros is taken internally, and as a proof that this is the correct principle, it cures surely and quickly. The statement of those who have been cured ought to convince the incredulous.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

On the 18th of August, 1885, I suffered very badly from an attack of rheumatism and was recommended to try Athlophoros. On taking one-half a bottle my rheumatism left me and I have not suffered any from it since. Would recommend this medicine to all suffering with rheumatism.

FRANK E. PUTNEY, 220 Walnut St.

Lowell, Mass., March 10, 1886.

A man suffering with sciatic rheumatism is liable to do most anything to rid himself of that complaint. By exposure, I contracted the disease, and although being doctored, I grew worse in spite of all that could apparently be done to relieve intense pain. I was obliged to stand while eating, and unless completely exhausted I was unable to get any sleep; at times I would have to get out of bed in the dead of night, go into the street and tire myself out by walking to get sleep. Still the pain and its cause hung to me. I commenced to use Athlophoros. After a few doses there was a change for the better, and in good time came the cure so much hoped for and found at last only in Athlophoros. C. P. JORDAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

Elvin Newton & Co. have purchased since November 1st 500,000 lbs. of fish. This firm received on Tuesday a car-load of Canadian box shooks, being the fourth car-load received by them this winter.

The schooner Rover's Bride was towed to this city from Trefethen's wharf, Kittery, on Tuesday, by the steamer James Sampson, to be fitted for winter fishing.

The schooner Mary Willey was on Tuesday being stripped at Broughton's wharf, where she will go into winter quarters.

Says the Portland Advertiser: "The British government has assented to the Canadian act forbidding American fishing vessels to enter Canadian ports for any other purpose than those expressly stipulated in the treaty of 1818. The law of retaliation is the only remedy left us by this decision." Oh! no. We have an alternative—unconditional surrender, as advised by Secretary Bayard and the democratic national administration.

Captain Frederick S. Allen of Cuttyhunk exhibited his new lifeboat off Fisk's wharf, Boston, on the afternoon of the 27th inst. The craft is alike, top and bottom, so that a capsize is not at all a serious affair. She is entered by means of hatches at either side, which can be closed. Ventilation is secured by an ingenious contrivance of boxes and springs. The boat is eighteen feet long, and can accommodate ten or a dozen persons. The exhibition was entirely successful.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug, act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They

Cured

me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

BRILLIANT WEDDING.

The galleries and vestibule of St. John's church were packed before four o'clock Tuesday afternoon, with people eager to witness the wedding of Mr. William B. Ogden of New York and Miss Eleanore Bartlett of this city, the ceremony having been appointed to take place at 6:30. The church presented a very handsome appearance, the Christmas decorations of evergreen being supplemented by a brilliant and tastefully arranged display of flowers within the chancel, the floral decorations at the church, as well as at the home of the bride's parents on State street, being the work of the bride's young lady friends. The centre sections in the body of the house, and the upper pews of the side sections, were reserved for the friends and invited guests of the contracting parties, all the space not reserved, with some that was, and the lower part of the side aisles, being packed with spectators. The ushers were T. Harris Bartlett of Washington territory, brother of the bride, Dr. George Haven of this city, Henry Nichols of Boston, and Wm. H. Goodwin Jr., of Jamaica Plain, Mass.

Promptly on time the groom, accompanied by Mr. M. Van Buren Davis as best man, entered the church from the vestry, and in front of the chancel awaited the bride, who passed up the main aisle preceded by two ushers and leaning on the arm of her father, and met the bridegroom at the altar; she was dressed in white, with the conventional bridal veil, and carried a superb bouquet of lilies of the valley, and very beautiful and graceful she appeared. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Henry E. Hovey, rector of St. John's, assisted by Rev. Allan Sheldon Woodle, rector of St. Luke's church, Altoona, Pa., a cousin of the groom; the responses of both parties to the bridal contract being very clear and distinct. During the ceremony soft music was given by the organ and violin.

Immediately following the service at the church a reception was held at the home of the bride, the beauty and fashion of the city attending. Music was furnished by Harlow's orchestra, and Mr. Wm. K. Hill of the Rockingham was caterer. The young couple left for the eastward on the nine o'clock train, on a wedding trip which will extend to Bermuda.

Among the guests present from out of town to witness the wedding, besides those already named, were Mrs. T. E. Ogden and Mr. Bernon Ogden, mother and brother of the groom, and Mr. Edwin H. Sheldon of Chicago, his uncle; John W. A. Davis of New York; President Robert Harris of the Northern Pacific railroad, uncle of the bride, and Mrs. Harris; George W. Bartlett of Rochester, N. Y., and James P. Bartlett, Jr., of Ashland, Wis., brothers of the bride; and Miss Helene Bartlett, daughter of Dr. Edward G. Bartlett of New York, cousin of the bride.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

The Blute murder inquest was resumed on Tuesday afternoon, when the jury visited the house of Frank Banks, who lives in a tenement adjoining that occupied by the Blutes, to take the evidence of Mrs. Lizzie Banks, who was too sick to attend the court. Mrs. Banks testified that on Christmas day, between two and three o'clock, she heard a noise as if some one had been thrown, or had fallen, down stairs. She and her daughter went down into their cellar, and looking through the board partition saw Mrs. Blute lying at the foot of the stairs. She then saw Blute come down and kick her several times, saying, "Get up." This she did not and could not do, and he took her by the back of the hair or back of the neck and dragged her up the stairs, and on the way up exclaimed, "You dirty puke, I'll have your life before night." When they got to the head of the stairs Mrs. Banks heard Mrs. Blute say, "Oh Pat, don't; I'm a sick woman."

Julia Blute, mother of Patrick, said he came for her about twelve Christmas night, saying his wife was dead; she went to their house, being the first one to get there, and found Margaret lying on a bed-lounge in the kitchen, apparently dead. Knew nothing more.

Thomas Blute, Patrick's son, twelve years old, was not sworn, not comprehending the nature of an oath; said he was not present, and knew nothing of the affair.

Timothy F. Riley, Daniel F. Collins and William Cogan gave testimony closely corroborating that given by Thomas Keating, and Mrs. Margaret Keefe and Mrs. Mary Keating, on Monday, relative to their being called to the Blute house, Blute and his mother desiring the women to wash the corpse, and to the young men objecting, and notifying the police.

Dr. Parsons testified as to the result of the autopsy, the condition of the internal organs, the wounds, new and old, and scars, on the body, etc.

The city marshal testified to having made a plan of the house, rooms, furniture, etc.; also as to the condition of the partition between the cellars of the Banks and Blute tenements. He found blood on the cellar stairs, and a piece of broken broom-handle with blood on it.

County Solicitor Eastman was present at the inquest, and on leaving gave orders to Sheriff Kent to allow no one whatever to hold any communication with the prisoner, except his counsel.

The inquest was adjourned to this morning, when a verdict will probably be agreed upon.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

BURGLARY IN EXETER.

The post-office at Exeter was broken into on Monday night, the 27th inst.; the safe was blown open, and its entire contents, including money and stamps to the amount of about $1,000, were taken, also private papers belonging to Postmaster Hunnewell. Sheriff Kent was sent for, and regards the job as not the work of experienced crackmen, although burglars' tools were found about the premises. The matter has been left in the hands of the post-office officials.

The thieves carried away the steel chest from the safe, and the front door of the office was pried open with a railroad spike-bar. Bits were taken from Clark's carriage shop near the railroad, which they entered by breaking the window. The explosion was heard about one o'clock Tuesday morning by persons living near the office.

The total amount of death claims paid by the Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York during the week ending Dec. 23d was $66,797.52. Total endowments paid for same period, $21,383.54. Among the death claims paid was that for Mr. Frank Robeck of this city, for $1,025; on this policy but $162.46 had been paid in cash.

As Mrs. Frances M. Putnam, wife of Rev. Allen Putnam, a noted Spiritualistic preacher of Boston, was looking into the window of a store on Tremont street on the forenoon of the 4th inst., she was accidentally jostled by a gentleman, and thrown against the iron grating in front of the window. She was so much hurt that she had to be taken home, and gradually grew worse until the 23d, when she peacefully passed away. Mrs. Putnam was aged about fifty years, and was daughter of the late Joseph Remick of this city. She was the fourth wife of Rev. Mr. Putnam, who is now in his 84th year. The remains were brought to this city on the afternoon of the 27th inst., for interment in the family lot of the deceased, beside her father and mother.

Among the many indications of returning business prosperity none has been more pronounced than the amount of holiday trade transacted during the week just passed. That it was unprecedented is the universal testimony, not only in this city but everywhere from where reports have been received.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less. I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

Lydia E. Pinkham

A SAD STORY.

A Woman Tortured Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians. Relief at Last.

Mrs. T., a lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: "I had taken treatment from physicians for about nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and cried a good deal of my time. A year ago this summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last made up my mind to quit him and try your Compound, and with what a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I tried it and so sorry that I did not get hold of it nine years ago." The foregoing is from a letter to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sufferers by taking her Vegetable Compound may escape the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless agony.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: Very Dear Madam: My wife, Arte A. Green, has gained much with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to our house a bottle and she first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day.

A Fountain That Produces Art Works.

Very Rev. Father Joseph Subileau, rector of St. Augustine church, who has spent the summer in France, his native country, the other day showed to a reporter four beautiful productions in marbles of bronzes and ivory placques in relief, two representing birds on branches of trees, surrounded with flowers, and two of larger size, copies of works of high art. Father Subileau stated that he obtained these treasures from an artist at Clermont, in Puy de Dome, France, a city over 200 miles southwest of Paris.

These marble reliefs are produced as follows: There is a fountain at the foot of one of the volcanic mountains near Clermont called the "Fountain St. Alyne," or "Fountain Petrifactionate." This has been utilized by a Frenchman for obtaining copies of the finest works of art in bronze, ivory and stone. He takes the placques of any figure in relievo, and covers them with gutta percha pasta, which, after hardening, is removed and placed under troughs, from which drops the water charged with calcareous matter. After about eight or ten months the gutta percha cast is filled with calcareous deposit, and a beautiful reproduction of the original is the result.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Remarkable Plaster Work.

In Paris, the sculptor Fremeit has a remarkable plaster work, life-size, for the Spring exhibition. It represents an orang-outang carrying off a woman. The animal is hideously majestic. The artist paid a fabulous sum for a skeleton of the beast, and the plaster cast in the Jardin des Plantes further aiding him, he has been enabled to obtain perfect proportions with the muscles, and the genera aspect also is perfect. The animal holds the woman in his right arm, while his left grasps a huge rock ready to hurl at an enemy. His face shows both anger and pain, for an arrow has entered his left shoulder. The exquisite figure of a woman is pressed against him, while her lacerated arms and hands vainly endeavor to push him off.—The Journalist.

Ex-King Theebaw's Chariot.

Ex-King Theebaw's golden chariot has been taken to London. It is a clumsy affair, and instead of being covered with precious stones it has pieces of glass stuck all over it.—Chicago Herald.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

Constitutional Catarrh.

No single disease has entailed more suffering or inflicted the breaking up of the constitution than Catarrh. The sense of smell, of taste, of sight, of hearing, the human voice, the mind,—one or more, and sometimes all, yield to its destructive influence. The poison it distributes throughout the system attacks every vital force, and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored, because but little understood, by most physicians, impotently attacked by quacks and charlatans, those suffering from it have if in hope to be relieved of it this side of the grave. It is time, then, that the popular treatment of this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all passed into disuse at once competent and trustworthy. The new and hitherto unried method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his RADICAL CURE has won the hearty approval of thousands. It is unanimous in a strong relief in all head colds, sneezing, snuffing and obstructed breathing, and rapidly removes the most oppressive symptoms, clearing the head, sweetening the breath, restoring the senses of smell, taste and hearing and gradually eradicating the constitutional tendency of the disease towards the lungs, liver and kidneys.

In the January number of the Southern Bivouac, Judge Hines, in his story, "The Northwestern Conspiracy," tells of a visit of Judge Black made to Mr. Thompson, in Canada, made at the suggestion of Mr. Stanton, who expressed serious uneasiness at the widespread dissatisfaction in the north, and who anticipated the defeat of Mr. Lincoln in 1864. Mr. Vallandingham, it seems, made his famous Hamilton speech with the expectation that it would cause his second arrest, which was to be the signal for the uprising. The arrest was not made, and then it was proposed to assemble at Chicago, at the time of the Democratic National Convention, as the movement of a considerable body of men would not at that time attract much attention. The nomination of McClellan and the attitude of the war democrats greatly dampened the ardor of the agitators. This article will contain an important letter from Mr. Thompson to Mason and Slidell, written after the conference with Judge Black, which gives a full review of the situation at that time.

What is a cold in the head? Medical authorities say it is due to atmospheric germs, uneven clothing of the body, rapid cooling when in perspiration, &c. The important point is, that a cold in the head is a genuine rhinitis, an inflammation of the lining membrane of the nose, which when unchecked, is certain to produce a catarrhal condition—for catarrh is essentially a "cold" which nature is no longer able to "resolve" or throw off. Ely's Cream Balm has proved its superiority, and sufferers from cold in the head should resort to it before that common ailment becomes seated and ends in obstinate catarrh.

A Valuable Medical Treatise.

The edition for 1887 of the sterling medical annual, known as Hostetter's Almanac, is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States, Mexico, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western hemisphere. This almanac has been issued regularly at the commencement of every year for over one-fifth of a century. It combines, with the soundest practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calender, astronomical calculations, chronological cycles, etc., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's almanac for 1887 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., on receipt of a two-cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

—Jones said he had a glove fight up in his parlor the other day, when his wife wanted a new pair.

"I was troubled with an eruption on my face, which was a source of constant annoyance when I wished to appear in company. After using ten bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the humor entirely disappeared.—Mary M. Wood, 40 Adams street, Lowell, Mass.

—General Sheridan has only one fault to find with the homely new pension building in Washington. "It's fireproof," he says.

How often do we hear of the sudden and fatal termination of a case of croup, when a young life might have been saved by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Ayer's Almanac for the new year is out. Get one.

—Shark steaks are sold in Havana markets.

All plasters are not alike. Hop Plasters afford relief and cure when other kinds are worthless.

—Christmas is the only real holly-day in the whole year.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is having a big sale in this section and it deserves its success. Its cures are wonderful.

—A bootblack in a narrow street calls his earnings alley-money.

In point of medicinal power and excellence Hop Plasters are far ahead of all others. 25 cts.

—Minister—"You ought to come to our church, John, and to our Sunday school." Chinaman—"What fol?"—"We want to try and do you good, to make you a Christian."—"Chlistian! No, no. Me lather be heathen Chinee. Chinee hult nobody. Chlistian come and blakee my window."

My Family Doctor

for the last two years has been Sulphur Bitters, and until I began using them in my family, we had more or less sickness, and our doctor's bill has been very large. Since we began their use, we have had no doctor to pay, and three dollars invested in Sulphur Bitters has kept health in our family.—E. Knott, Postmaster, Waverly, Iowa.

—"Whom do you consider the greater author, Dumas the elder, or his son?" "Um—I rather think the son." "Bah! I don't believe he ever would have been heard of if it hadn't been for his father." "Well, that's so, too."

Congestion of the Kidneys.

S. J. Thompson of No. 478 Swan St., Buffalo, New York, writes of his remarkable cure of congestion of the kidneys: Three years ago I was attacked with congestion of the kidneys. My physician, besides administering internal remedies, had applied on my back, over the affected region, two Allcock's Porous Plasters. I recovered in the course of about two weeks. A year after, exposure brought on a similar attack, but it seemed as if the congestion was more severe. Certainly, I had more pain and difficulty in passing water. Instead of calling a doctor this time, I concluded to try plasters alone, so I purchased a box of Allcock's Porous Plasters, and applied two fresh ones every day. The pain quickly lessened, the water flowed more freely after the first application, and in just six days I was completely restored and able to resume my occupation.

—Naval secretary—"I don't like the looks of things over in Europe, Uncle Sam." Uncle Sam—"What's the matter?" "Krupp has just built a gun that will throw a two-ton ball through thirty-eight inches of solid iron." "Never mind; we haven't any iron for him to shoot at."

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.

For Children and Pulmonary Troubles.

Dr. W. S. Hoyt, Point Pleasant, W. Va., says: "I have made a thorough test with Scott's Emulsion in Pulmonary troubles, and general debility and have been astonished at the good results, and as a remedy for children with Rickets or Marasmus, it is unequalled."

PATIENTS WHO ARE DUPED.

The Kind of Deceit with Which a New York Doctor Is Charged—A Question.

New York offers a fine field for mountebanks, as every great city does, and they cultivate the field very shrewdly and assiduously. A leading physician here, a regular graduate of a noted medical school, a surgeon also and the author of various medical works, is declared by many of his fellow-practitioners to be a charlatan, at least in some of the methods he adopts. They consider him very capable, quite learned, versatile, singularly astute, and an excellent judge of human nature. But they esteem him unscrupulous and overanxious to make money. He has made a special study of brain and nervous diseases, and his studies may have taught him how easily men may be duped. He certainly appeals to the imagination of his patients; tries every way to impress them with his professional omniscience.

His rooms are said to be fitted up somewhat after the manner of a mediæval romancer, with urns, symbols, rich hangings, devices, and curiosities gathered in his travels. He himself, a striking figure, is, during office hours, fantastically attired in skull cap and flowing robe, and approaches those coming to consult him with a lofty, sagacious, semi-mystic air. After they have answered a few questions and he has made a few physical examinations, he tells them exactly the nature of their disease, and with such an assumption of authority, such an assurance of positive knowledge, that any ordinary mortal must be convinced of his medical wisdom and his wonderful penetration. He often resorts, it is said, to ingenious tricks, which seems to demonstrate the truth of his diagnosis.

He will claim, for example, that the patient has an abscess in the liver—a very serious affection—and will puncture the flesh with a small, sharp syringe, and pretend to withdraw the pus, reported to be a chemical mixture he has furtively introduced into the instrument. The effect of this on the mind of a man believing himself afflicted with so dangerous an abscess may be readily imagined. The fancied pus removed, the abscess will heal; a complete cure is wrought. Who would not pay liberally to be thus rid of a mighty peril?

This is the kind of deceit—often varied—that the doctor is charged with putting off on his patients. I have frequently been told by physicians who call him a charlatan that he seems to work many cures. May he not have discovered that the best way to heal the ailing is to dupe them, to excite their imagination, to make a pretense of doing what has not been done? If he really heals the actual or fancied disorders of men may not his chicanery be justified? This is a profound psychological question which it would be extremely difficult to answer. The peculiar doctor may be the Paracelsus of the nineteenth century, who has a deeper knowledge of the phenomena of nature than he is credited with.—New York Cor. Chicago News.

An Overdose of Laudnum.

It is said that when a man is drowning, his entire life passes vividly before him. I have often wondered if the same thing was true of other modes of death. An acquaintance who was once at death's door from an overdose of laudanum tells me he could hear what was said near him; could hear footsteps, remembered the laudanum, but could not move. He felt as though overcome by weariness and simply wanted to be let alone. When several doctors had succeeded in tiding him over the danger point, he suffered the most excruciating pain. At no point did his past life come up for review.—Atlanta Constitution.

Amateur photography has so advanced in India that a flourishing Photographic society has been formed in Calcutta, and has just held its first meeting. The members will make excursions to collect material for an album to be published by the society, and it is further proposed to organize an exhibition of their work in the cold season. Lady Dufferin is a patron of the society, being herself a very successful amateur "Lady of the Sun."—Frank Leslie's.

The Hindoo Peasant's Wages.

The average Hindoo peasant does not, as things are, earn sufficient to procure life's necessaries; and a very large proportion of what he does earn is taken from him by the government in the form of taxation. As a result we get the widespread disease and physical deterioration of the people and constantly recurring famines, each one more serious than its predecessor.—London Letter.

A Benefit of Ill Health.

But perhaps the greatest benefit of ill health is the solicitude of our friends, the discovery that they care a great deal more for us than we dreamed or dared to show; and is not the discipline that wakens the sensibilities and "touches us to finer issues" a blessing?—Harper's Bazar.

At Victoria's Jubilee.

On the occasion of her semi-centennial jubilee as a monarch, June 20, 1887, Queen Victoria will be surrounded in Westminster abbey by 800 princes, dukes, earls, archbishops, peeresses and ladies of high nobility.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The poor imagine that the rich live in paradise. I know that the most of them live in a gilded hell.—Col. Bob Ingersoll.

The First Keen Twinge.

As the season advances, the pains and aches by which rheumatism makes itself known, are experienced after the exposure. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a specific for rheumatism—we doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. But the thousands benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla, warrant us in urging others who suffer from rheumatism to take it before the first keen twinge.

National Bank Examiner.

William A. Heard, Esq., of Sandwich, clerk of the supreme court for Carroll county, has been appointed national bank examiner for this state and Maine. The office in this state has been vacant since the death of the late C. V. Dearborn of Nashua, who was a competent official, and had about as much as he could attend to in keeping the run of the fifty national banks in the state. His successor will have also the examination of the national banks in Maine as a part of his duty. Whether a new man, spread over so much territory, can as carefully and frequently examine thoroughly so many banks, is what the head of the treasury department will soon ascertain. The change is in the interest of what is denominated economy! Mr. Heard has been since November, 1878, one of the assignees of the Carroll County Five Cents Savings bank at Wolfeborough. We are not aware that he has had experience as an officer in any national bank.

Aggressive Britons.

English sparrows were first introduced into this country in 1858, but were not permanently established until 1870. Since the latter date they have spread out at the rate of 130,000 square miles a year, until at present these birds have a home in thirty-one states and three territories. The annual loss by these birds in England is placed by government report at $3,850,000. The extent of their ravages in this country has never been officially investigated, but it is estimated at seven millions of dollars annually.

A New Idea About Babies.

The birth column of the London papers is one of interest to thousands of people. A leading soap manufacturer in England sends a handsome cake of baby soap to every baby in Great Britain whose birth is advertised in the birth column of the Times, the leading paper in London.

Not to be outdone by any paper in the world, the Boston Daily Globe, on week days or Sundays, will insert births for the low price of twenty-five cents each. To the parents of each baby in New England whose birth is announced in the Globe, daily or Sunday, will be sent by mail, postage prepaid, a cake of the celebrated "Baby Soap," manufactured by Robinson Brothers & Co. of Boston. This soap is pure, made of the very best materials and richly perfumed. Persons who call at the Globe office to leave birth notices will receive the soap neatly boxed; those sent by mail will receive the soap through the mails promptly.

All birth notices should be indorsed upon the back by the name of the sender.

The Church vs. the Knights.

A despatch from Montreal, Canada, says the French lodges of the Knights of Labor in that city have become so reduced in numbers, owing to the action of the priests in refusing the members communion at the Christmas retreats, that there is every likelihood of their being disbanded at an early date.

A Strange Presentiment.

Mr. Merriboy stepped into Cheesecake's grocery the other morning in a great flow of spirits. He thought he saw Cheesecake stooping down behind the counter, so he took up a codfish, reached over and hit the stooping figure a most resounding blow across the back, shouting, "Rise up, Sir Cheesecake," and with a shriek of fright a nice, good, motherly old lady, who was back there tying her shoe, rose up. The horrified Merriboy dropped the codfish on the floor, when a sneak of a dog started off with it and, rushing across the store after it, the joker knocked over a barrel of eggs and the dog got away with his fish. "By jove," groaned the unhappy man, "I felt, when I turned in here, that I'd do something foolish before I got out." And staggering to the window he sat down on a square-yard of fly-paper and buried his face in his hands.—Burdette.

—First commercial tourist (from Charleston)—"Earthquakes have become so common in Charleston that no one notices them." Second ditto (from San Francisco)—"Yes, one soon grows accustomed to such things. In San Bernadino, for instance, you call for a sherry flip, and the bar-tender, having prepared the ingredients, waits for an earthquake to come along and shake 'em." Rural passenger (much impressed)—"Well, I swan!"

—"What is this I hear," said Mrs. Spook, "about compulsory prayer being abolished in Harvard? Did they use to compel the students to pray?" "Yes," said young Spook, who had just got home from college, on a vacation; "yes, the janitor used to go round three times a day, and make every student get down on his knees and pray, and, if the student resisted, swore at him like a pirate."

—Agnes—"Did you see the big shark, sir? The hotel man saw him out here yesterday." Guileless clam digger—"Yes, mum, he was right off the pint about ten minutes ago, an' the sea serpent came along and swallowed him." Agnes (triumphantly)—"Now, Alfred, didn't I tell you so! What do you think of that?" Alfred—"What do I think of it? Why, I think we have struck a bigger liar than the hotel keeper."

—"Hello, Simpson, old boy; how feeling this morning? I see you were fined $20 yesterday for being drunk on the street and fighting an Italian crossing sweeper." "Me? I never was drunk in my life, and I have been out of town for weeks; just got back this morning." "Well, here it is in the paper, anyhow, plain as day; Marcus H. Simpson, grain dealer, Barley street." "Lem me see the paper. Well, truth is dead in this world. The newspapers are lying more than ever! The miserable liar of a reporter who wrote that! I told the judge my name was Thomas Jones, and that I live in Hannibal, New Jersey. There's no liar like a newspaper!"

RULED BY PREJUDICE.

Few persons realize how thoroughly they are controlled by prejudice even to their own disadvantage. For many years the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and headache has been by some outward application, and, therefore, without stopping to think that the origin of these troubles must, from necessity, be internal, the weary sufferer continues to rub, rub and find no relief. Athlophoros is taken internally, and as a proof that this is the correct principle, it cures surely and quickly. The statement of those who have been cured ought to convince the incredulous.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

On the 18th of August, 1885, I suffered very badly from an attack of rheumatism and was recommended to try Athlophoros. On taking one-half a bottle my rheumatism left me and I have not suffered any from it since. Would recommend this medicine to all suffering with rheumatism.

FRANK E. PUTNEY, 220 Walnut St.

Lowell, Mass., March 10, 1886.

A man suffering with sciatic rheumatism is liable to do most anything to rid himself of that complaint. By exposure, I contracted the disease, and although being doctored, I grew worse in spite of all that could apparently be done to relieve intense pain. I was obliged to stand while eating, and unless completely exhausted I was unable to get any sleep at times. I would have to get out of bed in the dead of night, go into the street and tire myself out by walking to get sleep. Still the pain and its cause hung to me. I commenced to use Athlophoros. After a few doses there was a change for the better, and in good time came the cure so much hoped for and found at last only in Athlophoros. C. P. JORDAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

A Morphine Miracle.

A storekeeper in a certain New Hampshire town had for some days been on the verge of having 'em, and had been letting up on the whiskey and taking morphine powers. The other night some of the boys killed a rattlesnake, and caught two or three striped snakes, a couple of frogs and a turtle or two, and about dusk set them in front of the store. Then the storekeeper was quietly inveigled to the door and led into conversation. Presently his eye alighted on one of the snakes. Looking about he saw another. But he kept on with the conversation. Then a turtle caught his eye, then a frog and then another snake. But he never weakened a bit till he saw the rattler twined round a lamp-post. That settled him. "You must excuse me a minute," he said. And he went into the store and took a morphine powder. While he was gone the boys took the snakes away. He came back, took a satisfied look around, and said: "Morphine's a great thing, isn't it."

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Ilsley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug, act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years, and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They

Cured

me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

An alarm of fire was rung in from Box 43 on Wednesday evening, the 29th inst., on account of a blaze in the attic of the double-tenement house No. 4 Langdon street, belonging to the estate of the late John H. Grant, one tenement being occupied by Miss Mary J. Sullivan, and the other by Franklin P. Downing, fireman of Kearsarge S. F. E., No. 3. The fire was quickly gotten under control, but not until the attic story was destroyed, and the house drenched with water. The furniture was considerably damaged in removal.

THE VERDICT.

The coroner's jury in the case of Margaret Blute, who died at her home on Islington street on Christmas day, rendered the following verdict on Wednesday morning, Dec. 29th:

STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE, ROCKINGHAM, SS.

An inquisition taken at Portsmouth, in said county, the 26th day of December in the year 1886, before Samuel C. Whittier, M. D., one of the coroners of said county, upon a view of the body of Margaret Blute, there lying dead, by the oaths of Edwin A. Tilton, a justice of the peace for said county, and of George E. Hodgdon and Alfred Stavers, all reputable persons, who, being sworn and charged to inquire for the state when, how and by what means the said Margaret Blute came to her death, upon their oaths do say:—that the said Margaret Blute came to her death by reason of blows and kicks inflicted upon her by her husband, Patrick Blute, at the place of their abode in said Portsmouth and in said Rockingham county, on the 25th day of December, A. D., 1886. So the jurors aforesaid, upon their oaths aforesaid, do say that the said Margaret Blute, in manner and form aforesaid, the aforesaid Patrick Blute then and there, of his malice aforethought, did kill and murder, against the peace and dignity of the state. In witness whereof, the said jurors have hereunto set their hands on the 29th day of December, 1886.

[Signed.] EDWIN A. TILTON, GEORGE E. HODGDON, ALFRED STAVERS, } Jurors.

In witness of all above written, the said coroner hath hereto set his hand and seal, the same day and year.

The schooner Emily A. Dennison, Capt. Frank P. Coleman, is hauled up at Kennebunkport for the winter, which period the genial captain will spend at his home in Newington. Capt. Coleman was very successful in his business last season, so much so that the owner of the vessel, Capt. Hartley of Saco, proposes building a new schooner for him, though the Emily A. Dennison has only been running since last spring.

A telegram to Elvin Newton & Co. from Eastport, sent by the agent despatched by them to purchase bait, reports herring at $1.30 per hundred, and scarce at that.

Kearsarge S. F. E. Co., No. 3, has engaged Franklin hall for a ball on New Year's eve, 1887.

The wholesale prices of cut flowers during the Christmas and New Year season, charged to the country trade by the Boston florists, give a good idea of the importance to which the flower business has attained. We copy the following from the price list of a leading Boston dealer, as sent to his regular customers: Roses—teas, per hundred, $12; Malmaisons, $25; Mermets and La Frances, each $35; Cornelia Cooks, $50; American beauties, $100. Carnations, $2 to $5 per hundred; violets, $2; smilax, $20 per hundred yards.

At Junction City, Ky., Christmas day, W. T. Clarkson, a prohibitionist, was a visitor at the house of a friend, Daniel Twaddle. The latter had some liquor which he persuaded Clarkson to try. After filling him up the two adjourned to a neighboring saloon, where Clarkson was forced to drink until he fell to the floor in a stupor. A wagon was procured and Clarkson's form was placed in it with the banner, "Sacred to the memory of prohibition—died Dec. 25." This was intended as a joke, but it proved true, for after the carousers had driven around the streets a short time the discovery was made that Clarkson was dead. Twaddle will probably be indicted for murder.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less." I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

A SAD STORY.

A Woman Suffered Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians. Relief at Last.

Mrs. T., a lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: "I had taken treatment from physicians for about nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and be cured in a good deal of my time. A year ago this summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last made up my mind to quit him and try your Compound, and with what a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I tried it and so sorry that I did not get hold of it nine years ago." The foregoing is from a letter to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sufferers by taking her Vegetable Compound may escape the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless agony.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: Very Dear Madam: My wife, Arie A. Green, has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day.

Not Captivated by Country Life.

In truth, there is no country life in America, in the English sense of the word. There are plenty of wealthy people with little or nothing to occupy their time. But they have not taken to the soil, and their pleasant and free mode of hospitality which the American lady so admires in England is practically unknown in the states. Hospitality of the most lavish description is practiced by our kindly kinsfolk. But it is exercised in town, or at the seaside, where happily, hotel life is rapidly being displaced by "cottage" or villa housekeeping. If the well-introduced tourist visits New York or Boston any time between June and October, the chances are that he will find the brown-stone fronted house to which his letters are addressed closed. The ladies, at all events, will be at Newport, or Saratoga, or Atlantic City, or Long Branch, or at their summer place on the Hudson. The head of the house, if still in town, will take a running trip now and then to see them, or, if the place is close at hand, will come in and go out twice a day. If less wealthy, they may be found at a seaside hotel, or a "mountain resort," or as "summer boarders" in a farm-house. But anything like a stated migration to a country-house in the midst of the owner's own woods and fields and coverts, not to return until April or May, is almost unknown.

The reason of this is mainly that the Americans have not yet been captivated by country life. They lavish fortunes on their town houses, and build yachts which are marvels of luxury. But the idea of laying out an estate and living on it does not attract them. They buy "real estate"—to keep and sell at a profit, not to enjoy it. The institutions of the states are against this. As the entire estate of a father must be equally divided among his heirs, the accumulation of land is surrounded by difficulties, and the country is advancing so rapidly that the chances are in favor of the owner being tempted to sell his park for a city site or to run a railway through his garden. Nor must it be forgotten that the English landowner, with his inherited rank and responsibilities, has bonds binding him to the soil which are unknown to the wealthiest American. The latter has no farms to look after, no tenants to arrange with, no "position in the county" to keep up.—London News.

MAINE LAW vs. THE LOBSTER.

A gentleman of Maine, evidently a dealer in lobsters, writes as follows to the Industrial Journal in regard to the working of the present lobster law of Maine:

The effect of this law has been disastrous alike to the fishermen, the dealer, and the state; for the closing of our business for six weeks broke up our trade, demoralizing the market, so that when we commenced fishing again we were at once overstocked, causing the loss of one million lobsters in two months—probably as many as we should have caught and sold through the close time—resulting in a loss to the state of fully fifty thousand dollars, and besides keeping the market constantly overstocked it caused what has been sold to be sacrificed.

The average catch of lobsters on the Maine coast has been fifteen millions yearly, for thirty years; or some 450,000,000 during that period. About 200,000,000 have been used by the canning factories, at an average cost of one cent each. Doubtless they have paid $2,000,000 to the fishermen. In the same time the local trade has used 200,000,000 large lobsters at four cents each, and 100,000,000 small ones at one cent each, paying $9,000,000, making a total of $11,000,000 to the fishermen. So it is safe to estimate that with the money paid for canning, and the employment of a large number of smack men, the value of the lobster fishery of Maine has reached more than $600,000 annually.

Speaking of this matter the Portland Advertiser remarks: "About 200,000,000 have been used by the canning establishments. No wonder the lobster has decreased in size and numbers. The laws for his preservation were passed none too soon."

A Valuable Medical Treatise.

The edition for 1887 of the sterling medical annual, known as Hostetter's Almanac, is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States, Mexico, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western hemisphere. This almanac has been issued regularly at the commencement of every year for over one-fifth of a century. It combines, with the soundest practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calender, astronomical calculations, chronological [illegible] etc., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's almanac for 1887 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., on receipt of a two-cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

An attempt was made to destroy, by explosives, one of the churches of Lyons, France, but a brave policeman noticed the burning fuse, extinguished it, and captured the bomb before the explosion took place.

"I was troubled with an eruption on my face, which was a source of constant annoyance when I wished to appear in company. After using ten bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the humor entirely disappeared.—Mary M. Wood, 40 Adams street, Lowell, Mass.

While inspecting the Binghampton, N. Y., toboggan slide, as it was being wet down, a prominent citizen of the place went too near the edge, lost his balance, and slid down the 165 feet of wet and very slippery ice at a tremedous rate of speed, on his back.

How often do we hear of the sudden and fatal termination of a case of croup, when a young life might have been saved by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Ayer's Almanac for the new year is out. Get one.

All plasters are not alike. Hop Plasters afford relief and cure when other kinds are worthless.

A large crowd of striking coal miners ambushed and fired upon a body of non-union Hungarians at Pleasant Valley, Penn., Dec. 28th, killing one and mortally wounding three others. They then charged upon the Hungarians and beat them unmercifully, so that some of them will die. One was killed by having his skull crushed.

Some Queer Things That Have Made People Lose Their Voices.

"Won't you please ask that man to stop smoking?" said a well-dressed young woman to her escort as they rolled down Broadway in one of Jacob Sharp's handsome rolling cars the other night. There was nothing unusual in the request. In fact it voiced the wishes of all the passengers who were to leeward of the "two for 5" weed that protruded from the lips of an "adopted citizen" on the front platform. The peculiarity was the voice itself. It was the most hoarsely tragic stage whisper that ever delighted the patrons of "the legitimate." The passengers, including the reporter, who was hanging on to a strap with the grasp with which a drowning man is popularly believed to clutch the equally unsatisfactory straw, gazed at her with astonishment. She was robust and rosy, and when she had entered the car a few moments before, her voice had rung out as strong as clear as that of a country girl calling across the fields for "John" to come and "bounce" a tramp.

Her escort was as much puzzled as the rest, and in the same blood-curdling whisper that straggled through her bright smiles like a thunder burst across the sunset skies, she explained that on inhaling the slighest whiff of tobacco smoke she lost her voice. It made no difference whether the weed grew in Cuba or Connecticut, the effect was the same. No kind of smoke other than that of tobacco affected her in the least. While she was still telling these facts in labored aspirates, the "adopted citizen" having returned the butt of his cigar to its native element—the gutter—her voice came back again, clear and bell-like as before.

It was a queer case of nervous derangement, for the physical effect of such a slight inhalation of the smoke could not have taken on anything like such an acute form. The reporter's memory ran back to a parallel case on that morning when the shipwrecked passengers of the Oregon filed down the gangway of the Falda at her Hoboken pier, attired in the most miscellaneous collection of cloths, and answered his questions in voices that resembled the whistling of the wind through a ragged keyhole. It was the same effect from the same general cause, though in that case it was intense excitement of a dozen hours passed at the threshold of death that upset the nervous system and temporarily banished the voices of three-fourths of the rescued passengers.

"It was an awful experience. I'd tell you about it, but you see I've lost my voice," said a brawny, bearded Englishman in a series of husky whistling syllables, tapping his throat mournfully with his finger.

"Yes, we were very near to death," said his companion, a sallow American clergyman, whose pulpit oratory was the pride of his flock, but who could not have made himself heard by a hundred people at that moment if the salvation of the world hung upon his delivery of the good tidings.—New York Tribune.

Breathing at High Altitudes.

The Alpine Journal contains a statement of the results obtained by Dr. Marcet from many experiments on breathing while climbing at high altitudes. He first shows by experiments at ordinary altitudes and in a state of rest that some persons make much better use than others of the air they inhale, inasmuch as their exhalation is very rich in carbonic acid; this may be expressed by measuring the volume (at sea-level pressure and freezing temperature) of air inhaled to produce one gram weight of carbonic acid. Dr. Marcet himself had to breathe 15.5 liters of air, while two younger men needed only 13.7 and 10.8 liters respectively; the latter had a remarkable power of keeping his breath under water, and was little troubled in mountain ascents.

Further experiments, conducted at various altitudes up to 14,600 feet, show that, as a person ascends, he breathes 15 to 25 per cent. less air (reduced, as above, to standard pressure and temperature) to produce a given weight of carbonic acid; the action of air on the blood in the lungs seems, therefore, to be facilitated with decreasing destiny. It is evident that this will materially diminish the quickness of breathing that would otherwise be required in rarefied air.—Boston Budget.

The Indian Idea of Drunkenness.

Said a friend who has passed many years among the Indians: "Every one knows that whisky is the worst enemy an Indian has; and, because they display such a strong desire to get hold of it, most people imagine that they have an inordinate love for it. Now I have had an excellent opportunity for coming to a fair conclusion, and it is my opinion that their appetite for liquor is no stronger than that of a white man. The whole trouble is that the Indian considers it an honor to get drunk. Where this outrageous idea originated no one knows. They themselves can not explain it. To us it seems most strange that a human being should consider it an enviable distinction to become intoxicated. I have known young Indians, to whom whisky was distasteful, to get drunk simply to rise in the estimation of their comrades. And yet," continued my informant, "there is nothing which will so quickly stop a quarrel between Indians as to tell them that they act like drunken men. Is it not a strange contradiction?"—Pioneer Press "Listener."

The First Keen Twinge.

As the season advances, the pains and aches by which rheumatism makes itself known, are experienced after the exposure. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a specific for rheumatism—we doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. But the thousands benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla, warrant us in urging others who suffer from rheumatism to take it before the first keen twinge.

The Manchester Locomotive Works within a few days have received an order for thirty locomotives for the Atchison, Topeka & Sante Fe railroad, an order for nine locomotives from the Boston & Lowell road, and other orders from the Concord and the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroads. 1887.

Standing at the threshold of a New Year, as we pass the milestone which indicates when the old year goes out and the new comes in we gladly wish all our readers

A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

How the new year may prove depends often to a greater or less degree upon ourselves. This is the period of good intentions, firm resolves, beautiful promises, and solemn protestations for future conduct. We are to-day where reviewing the events of the past year, we can recall our short-comings, our yielding to temptations, our neglect of opportunities, and our inaction on the many occasions which presented themselves for our improvement. We began the year, just expiring, perhaps with just as sincere wishes as we profess to entertain to-day, but too many of us, alas! despite our promised and projected reforms, can only display as the results of the past year "A beggarly account of empty boxes."

But still, we think the world grows better. The prompt conviction of a larcenous ex-alderman of New York is evidence of an advance is the direction of a desire to see an honest government of our large municipalities, while the equally swift retribution in other cities awarded to pilfering profligates who have abused positions of trust, leads us to hope that the sentiment in regard to crime in political and financial circles is growing to be correct in its results.

Yes, in spite of temptations, and notwithstanding the eagerness to become rich, we think the world as it becomes better educated improves in its habits and character. This result however is not achieved by our allowing some one else to improve, while we remain fast in the old ruts. Our opportunities are frequent and our duty is plain. "Let us then be up and doing," and hope that as the coming year at its close fades softly from our sight, it will in its history show that our wishes and our resolutions expressed here and now have not been uttered in vain.

A Mournful Wail.

The Bath (Me.) Independent thus laments the selection by President Cleveland of a commissioner of navigation:

Our distinguished fellow-citizen, Captain Jarvis Patten, has been deposed by the president, and Charles B. Morton has been appointed and sworn in as commissioner of navigation.

Whatever may be Captain Patten's faults, and we suppose he like all has some, he was particularly well fitted by experience and brains, profession and tastes to be at the head of this marine department. He was for years commander of Kennebec ships, a ship owner, associated all his life with shipping people, and later wrote the "Port Charges of the World." Colonel Morton is a good newspaper manager and a red-hot democratic politician. Captain Patten was a republican.

Inasmuch as the bureau was established largely by the influence and at the instigation of Bath shipping people for the purpose of benefitting the American merchant marine, it would have been more proper to have selected a sailor democrat who lives within smelling distance of salt water, who probably could tell a ship from a steamboat and could form some idea of what might be the requirements of the position, than an upcountry journalist.

The Independent should not be un-crying pertaining to navigation, the rulings and decisions will be absolutely unbiased.

Beer Dealers Against the Brewers' Pool.

Some time ago the large brewers of New York city and vicinity each contributed $67,000 toward forming a pool in order to restrict the business of brewing. The price of beer was then $8 a barrel, and the retail dealers were allowed a discount of from fifteen to twenty per cent. The pool thus formed drew up an agreement whereby this discount was reduced to five per cent, and in which it was stipulated that if a dealer wished to give his custom to a brewer other than the one of whom he was then purchasing the former would have to inform the secretary of the pool, and pay into the pool $2 for each barrel of beer he sold the dealer. The dealers objected to this agreement, and looked for relief to the Wine, Liquor & Beer Dealers' Central Association. The subject is one of vast solicitude to the government of the association.

If these brewers were manufacturers of cotton or woollen goods what a pathetic remonstrance would go forth from the free trade journals as to the restrictions sought to be placed upon traffic by wealthy monopolists! As it is, the newspapers which oppose all tariff restrictions, save that of twenty cents a gallon on beer which protects the American brewer, will of course preserve a discreet silence. The brewers combined can squeeze their customers to a certain extent, and then they will desert them to patronize the whiskey ring, which just now is heavily stocked and is very desirous of supplanting beer and substituting whiskey in the large cities. Whiskey drummers are already hob-nobbing with the retail beer men, and inciting them to a revolt against the brewers.

An Unparallelled Gain.

The year 1886 has been a magnificent one for the Boston Globe. A year ago the Daily Globe had a circulation of 84,400. Now it has 104,000, a gain of 20,000 in one year. The Sunday Globe had 91,000 one year ago; now it has $105,000, which is about 20,000 more than the circulation of any other Sunday newspaper published in Boston. The Sunday Globe has a larger circulation than any other Sunday paper in the United States, counting out New York. Boston and the Globe are to be congratulated on this achievement. If you do not read the Globe, try it for 1887.

In consequence of the opposition of the Catholic church, many lodges of Knights of Labor in Canada have been closed.

Rudolph Mette, formerly a noted acrobatic clown and bareback rider, who married Ella Stokes in a circus ring at Philadelphia about ten years ago, has been committed to jail in New Jersey as a vagrant.

The machine constructors' assemblies of the Knights of Labor, of Philadelphia, have resolved to surrender to the general officers of the Knights of Labor their charter, seal, rituals and all other effects of the order, and to withdraw from the Knights in a body.

Non-striking miners at Pleasant Valley, Pa., who have been carrying pistols to defend themselves from the strikers, were disarmed by the police Dec. 28th, and then brutally beaten by the mob.

RULED BY PREJUDICE.

Few persons realize how thoroughly they are controlled by prejudice even to their own disadvantage. For many years the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and headache has been by some outward application, and, therefore, without stopping to think that the origin of these troubles must, from necessity, be internal, the weary sufferer continues to rub, rub and find no relief. Athlophoros is taken internally, and as a proof that this is the correct principle, it cures surely and quickly. The statement of those who have been cured ought to convince the incredulous.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

On the 18th of August, 1885, I suffered very badly from an attack of rheumatism and was recommended to try Athlophoros. On taking one-half a bottle my rheumatism left me and I have not suffered any from it since. Would recommend this medicine to all suffering with rheumatism.

FRANK E. PUTNEY, 220 Walnut St.

Lowell, Mass., March 10, 1886.

A man suffering with sciatic rheumatism is liable to do most anything to rid himself of that complaint. By exposure, I contracted the disease, and although being doctored, I grew worse in spite of all that could apparently be done to relieve intense pain. I was obliged to stand while eating, and unless completely exhausted I was unable to get any sleep; at times I would have to get out of bed in the dead of night, go into the street and tire myself out by walking to get sleep. Still the pain and its cause hung to me. I commenced to use Athlophoros. After a few doses there was a change for the better, and in good time came the cure so much hoped for and found at last only in Athlophoros. C. P. JORDAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 1

rs. E. Newton & Co. received on 30th inst., a letter from Capt. ite, who started east on the onday. He reported no bait up to the time of writing, and but a few caught at Grand Menan. There were lying at Eastport about twenty vessels—bankers, Georgesmen and Ipswich bay fishermen, which had been waiting there from ten days to two weeks each, for bait. What few herring had been brought in sold at $1.60 per hundred. The bait was expected to strike in any day.

President Cleveland has signed the bill granting Vice Admiral Stephen C. Rowan and Rear Admiral John L. Worden permission to retire with the highest pay of their respective grades. The application of Rear Admiral Worden for retirement under the act was received at the navy department Dec. 21st, and that of Vice Admiral Rowan will follow later on. The grade of vice admiral will cease to exist with the retirement of Admiral Rowan. The retirement of Rear Admiral Worden will cause promotions in every grade in the line of the navy, the number of each having been reduced to the limit allowed by law. Commodore P. C. Johnson, commandant of the Portsmouth navy yard, will be promoted to the rank of rear admiral, and in view of his health he will it is thought retire soon afterward. In August and September Rear Admirals Franklin and Davis will be placed on the retired list. Altogether a fair number of promotions may be expected in the line of the navy during the next year.

The W. L. Douglas $3 shoe is too well known all over the country to require any comments from us; but we would like to call attention to the $2.50 shoe for gentlemen, and the $2 shoe for boys, advertised in another column. Each line of these goods will be kept to the full standard of excellence which makes his shoes so popular, and the improvements recently made in his $3 shoe give it the lead over all others.

In Haverhill, Dec. 29th, the city clerk performed the marriage ceremony for Mitchell Duston, aged fifty-three years, and Hattie Chipman, aged fourteen, both belonging in Maine. On the previous day City Clerk Stevens, of Dover, refused to issue a marriage license for the pair.

A Great Victory
A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by
Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less. I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific in [illegible]. As an evidence of my gratitude I make these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to [illegible] rify the authenticity of this cure, by pers[illegible] correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

A SAD STORY.

A Woman Suffered Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians. Relief at Last.

Mrs. T., a lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: "I had taken treatment from physicians for about nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and cried a good deal of my time. A year ago this summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last broke out against his pills, bids and grew up my mind to quit a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I tried it and so sorry that I did not get hold of it nine years ago." The foregoing is from a letter to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sufferers by taking her Vegetable Compound may escape the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless agony.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: Very Dear Madam: My wife, Arie A. Green, has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went in haste to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person. Four bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house. It cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day.

Story of the "Rain" Tree.

About nine years ago a sensational story concerning the "rain" tree went the rounds of the press, to the effect that in the Vera-Paz mountains of South America a tree had been discovered that was ever dripping with water, so that whoever stood beneath it was sure of a shower bath. This was an exaggeration, but founded on fact. The rain tree is the one known to science as "Pithecolobium saman," and in the month of April a fine spray has been seen to drop from the leaves, so that the soil beneath was moist to some extent. When the leaves are fully grown the phenomenon ceases. The liquid is supposed to be a secretion from glands on the foot stalk of the leaf.

Dr. Bruce, a South American traveler, in a Kew Garden report, says: "The 'Tami-caspi,' or rain tree, of the eastern Peruvian Andes, is not a myth to a certain extent. I first witnessed the phenomenon in September, 1855, when residing in a large village a few days eastward of Moyobamba. A little after 7 o'clock we came under a lowish-spreading tree, from which, with a perfect clear sky overhead, a smart rain was falling. A glance upward showed a multitude of cicadas sucking the juices of the tender branches and leaves, and squirting forth slenders streams of limpid fluid." In Negro canon, opposite Pasadena, I have seen a fine rain dropping from certain trees, where there were no insects to explain it. Dr. Ernst has noticed a rainy mist in Venezuela in a clear sky, and claims that it was produced without the intervention of insects.—Pasadena (Cal.) Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

Discovery of a New Potato.

A new potato has been recently discovered in Bolivia by a Mr. Sacc. The value to alimentation of this new tuber may be judged from the facts that it is the most farinaceous of its species, and yields four crops per annum. The Indians esteem it highly and call it papa pureka. These potatoes grow numerous bulbs, ten to fifteen in a bunch, from one seedling, and the manifold stalks are covered from base to top with soft, beautiful leaves, brilliant with a lovely yellowish green. The tubers weigh from 100 to 250 grammes, and contain 20 per cent. of fecula and 75 per cent. of water.—The Argonaut.

Insurance Notice.

THE OLD INSURANCE AGENCY,

AT THE OLD STAND,

No. 13 Pleasant Street,

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

To my Old Customers and Friends. Are you insured? When your home or other property is being consumed by a raging fire, a good insurance policy is a great comfort. The subscriber, with his experience of fifteen years, is now prepared to place your Insurance in the Insurance Companies of New Hampshire, and in Companies organized in other States. No one can place your Insurance better or safer!

NOTE.—Mr. Isley, my late copartner, still states in his published card, that he purchased of me all my right to the "Fire Insurance Business of our late firm." I have heretofore denied this statement. He never offered to buy of me the business or goodwill of the firm, and I never offered or even thought of selling out my business. I hired our old office, and advertised to carry on the business in all its branches, weeks before a final settlement. Now, if he has a bill of sale, bond or any agreement whereby I conveyed to him any rights to the goodwill of the old firm or any rights to do a Fire Insurance Business in New Hampshire with old or new customers, let him prosecute me for a breach of contract, or cease publishing or repeating his false statement. I am ready to meet this issue in any court of justice. I make this statement in justice to my customers and friends and to vindicate my own integrity.

JOSEPH P. MORSE,

Fire, Life & Accident Insurance Agent and Broker.

What is a cold in the head? Medical authorities say it is due to atmospheric germs, uneven clothing of the body, rapid cooling when in perspiration, &c. The important point is, that a cold in the head is a genuine chronic, an inflammation of the lining membrane of the nose, which when unchecked, is certain to produce a catarrhal condition—for catarrh is essentially a "cold" which nature is no longer able to "resolve" or throw off. Ely's Cream Balm has proved its superiority, and sufferers from cold in the head should resort to it before that common ailment becomes seated and ends in obstinate catarrh.
